City May Donate Club Land

The Optimist Club got the official approval of the Parks and Recreation Commission Tuesday for the donation of City land in Princess Anne Plaza for a proposed $1,300,000 youth and community center.

Parks and Recreation Commission, whose chairman, Maury Riganto, is also on the Board of Directors of the Boys Club, voted to recommend to City Council that the land be donated for the center when the Optimist Club finalizes its plans. There are 28 acres in the tract, but the Optimist Club does not know how much land it will need. Seven of the 28 acres are now being used by Little League.

A clause will be included in the deed that the property will revert to the City if for any reason the facility is not built or if the membership is closed. The Boys Club, which will be the third stage build, will have closed membership, but the community center and teen club are to be open. Public schools will have use of the pool during school hours for a small fee and parks and recreation will have the option of renting space for craft classes. The first phase to be built is the Olympic size indoor swimming pool.

Richard Webbon, a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission objected to having the center built in the Princess Anne Plaza building. He asked, "What if next week the XYZ Club comes in and wants city land to build a zoo?"

Riganto said, "We didn't want to establish a precedent. We've been approached by other groups on matters like this and we've turned them down. In other business it was announced that the City horse show ring is now under construction on Green Run Farm and should be finished in July. It will meet the standards of all horse shows and rodeos and will include pens and bleachers seating more than 2,000 persons. It will be lighted at night. The Point O' Woods Civic

Infant Did Not Drown

Lt. Henry Capps, director of the Virginia Beach police Juvenile Division, said Wednesday the child whose body was found washed ashore at Sandbridge died from causes other than drowning.

The unclothed body of the newborn white girl was found last Thursday at a point about 10 miles below the South Ramp at Sandbridge.

Capps said the investigation of the case thus far indicates the child's body was placed in the Atlantic Ocean at a point within 10 miles north of where it was discovered.

Capps also said evidence shows the child's birth definitely did not take place in a hospital, the child was alive from 15 minutes to four hours after birth, and the body was in the water for a period of time ranging from 24 hours to 3 or 4 days.

Certain facts in the case, according to Capps, indicate the child definitely came from the city of Virginia Beach.

Juvenile Division detectives are continuing to search for the person, or persons, responsible for the death of the child.

Proposed Boys Club Will Be Near Plaza

The Optimist Club squelched all rumors that it was considering the White Sands Club for its Boys' Club and announced Thursday that a $1.3 million complex will be built on a 25-acre site provided by the city at the end of Northgate Road in Princess Anne Plaza.

Ronald Gauley, secretary of the Boys' Club of Virginia Beach, said at a press conference that the plans were made public "to avoid rumors of pending plans of the sale of the White Sands. That is not our intention at all."

Proposals were made for the purchase of the White Sands, but Gauley said they were unacceptable to the Boys' Club and were rejected.

Gauley also revealed that the club will include a community center. "Virginia Beach needs more than a Boys' Club," he said, "and the board of directors has unanimously agreed that the Boys' Club project must also include a community center as an integral part of the overall project."

The community center will be open to the public, with activities scheduled for the entire community with special emphasis on activities for young people, Gauley said.

The center will have a large ballroom for dances, concerts, meetings and film showings, in addition to a drug abuse educational room, a conference room, and a snack bar.

The Boys' Club will have an indoor swimming pool, gymnasium, handball court, steam room, exercise room, dressing rooms, arts and crafts rooms, a library and a snack bar.

Boys' Club. That club, he said, lists after the first week's operation.

"We chose the Princess Anne Plaza area because it seems to have a large concentration of boys," he said. According to a city report, there are about 4,100 boys between the ages of 7 and 17 in that area. "There's also an economic factor to consider," he said.

Gauley also announced the selection of officers for the organizations. "This project is no longer an Optimist Club project. It's a project of concern for every man, woman, and child in Virginia Beach. It is now up to all of us to make this much needed project a reality."

Officers are M. J. Owens, president; Frank Pentress, first vice-president; Dr. Harvey Shiflet, second vice-president; William Stokes, treasurer; and Mrs. Jesse Gibbs, assistant secretary.

Armed Forces Day Needs Expanding, Chairman Says

"In the future we will have to widen the scope of our Armed Forces Day Parade and Ball," Ed Brogan, general chairman of the annual event, told his committee last week.

He said the expansion would be necessary because "we have the only Armed Forces Day celebration in South Hampton Roads."

The annual parade through the resort area of Virginia Beach has become one of the largest drawing events in Tidewater, he said. It is scheduled this year May 16.

The number of participants in the parade increase each year, as do the crowds along the parade route. Nearly 1,000 band members alone are already registered for this year's event.

The Armed Forces Day Ball has also become a popular social affair, Brogan said.

"It is gratifying to know that the ball receives considerable interest outside Virginia Beach," he said, "and attracts people, especially military personnel, from all over Tidewater."

The ball will be held the evening of May 16 at the Virginia Beach Civic Center with Mike Savides as chairman. As of Friday there were 13 schools and Old Dominion University registered for participation in the parade, all with

Controversial Issues Hit Committee of 100 At First Gathering

The Committee of 100, the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored group of businessmen who plan to develop the city's industry and economy through personal solicitation, gathered to organize Wednesday and was immediately confronted with such controversial giants as water and paramutal betting.

Both issues were introduced by interested members as possible projects for the committee to undertake on behalf of industrial and economic development.

John B. Baines, newly elected chairman, side-stepped the water question—apparently Norfolk's increased rates—by stating "we must steer clear of politics as much as possible" but indicated that a committee could be formed for further action.

City Manager Roger Scott suggested that paramutal betting might be a tremendous boost to the city's economy if Virginia voters should favor it this November.

"Somebody somewhere in this state is going to have to pick up the ball on this thing, if they believe in it," Scott said, "and convince people in areas throughout the state that they, too, would benefit from the revenues derived from paramutal betting."

His suggestion was that members of the Committee of 100, in calling on other businesses in the state, could point out how all areas will grow economically even though only certain communities might have the betting.

Both issues were appropriately introduced since the committee has been formed for the promotion of the South Hampton Roads area as well as the City of Virginia Beach.

"There is no reason why the

Teacher Is A Scholar

Miss Mary K. Van Lear, a Kellam High School teacher, has been awarded an eight-week Fulbright scholarship to study German at the Goethe Institute in Munich, Germany.

Miss Van Lear, 24 years old, was one of 40 American foreign language teachers selected throughout the United States. She is the only teacher participating in the program from Virginia Beach.

She applied for the grant, which covers travel expenses, because "I need to improve my German and since I teach German I thought I should visit the country at least once."

While at the Institute, she will take a conversation course and a literature course. The program also includes traveling through the country, and will end about August 10 with a visit to East Berlin.

Miss Van Lear graduated in 1968 from Mary Washington College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in German.

Committee of 100, because of the type of people behind it, cannot be a great asset in the development of area cooperation," said Baines.

In discussing the method of operation for the committee, he pointed out that personal solicitation is the key to success, having seen it work during his 11 or so years with a similar group in Jacksonville, Fla.

"There is nothing so important to our city as a businessman from here calling on a businessman in another city and selling him on Virginia Beach," he said.

There are presently about 40 businessmen, all leaders in the city's financial circles, who have joined the committee.

Membership is by invitation only, with membership in the chamber as a pre-requisite, and annual dues are $100. This money will be used to subsidize members on out of town trips, since such funds are not available through the chamber.

The group will cooperate with all cities in the South Hampton Roads area, chambers of commerce, the Virginia State Chamber, the Virginia Division of Industrial Development and the various ports authorities in promoting the entire area.

When members are out of town on their own business trips, they will devote time to call on industrial leaders in other cities supplied through the Chamber of Commerce,

Policeman Gets Bronze Star

Virginia Beach police officer William T. Whitmore, Jr., will be honored in a special ceremony at Fort Story, May 20, when he will receive the Bronze Star for performance of duty in Vietnam.

The award to be presented by Maj. Gen. Howard F. Schlitz, Fort Story and Fort Eustis Commanding General, is for Whitmore's actions above and beyond the call of duty when he was attached to the 101st Air Cavalry Division. The award citation commends Whitmore for his "Meritorious Service" from 28 June 1967 to 27 June 1968, while a member of Company A 1st Battalion (Airborne) 327th Infantry.

This will mark the third time Whitmore has received the Bronze Star, the fourth highest award given American servicemen.

Whitmore, 22, is a native of Norfolk. He moved to Virginia Beach in January of 1966, enlisted into military service in February of 1966 and was discharged in January of 1969 with the rank of Sgt. (E-5).

He joined the Virginia Beach police department Oct. 1, 1969 and is assigned to the 1st Police Precinct. He completed the Tidewater Police Academy at Old Dominion University in Norfolk in December 1969 graduating 17th in a class of 35.

Whitmore speaks very highly of his profession by saying "I love police work, I wouldn't trade this job for a million dollars. I like to be around people and when I can do people some good it makes me feel better." He added, "I am proud to be a Virginia Beach policeman."

When asked why he chose the Virginia Beach police department he replied "because of the high regard held for the department by other law enforcement agencies."

Reflecting over the time he has been with the department thus far Whitmore likened it to "a brotherhood relationship," with fellow police officers always willing to help you. He praised his superiors by saying, "We have outstanding supervisors. They're willing to help you any time they can."

Capt. G. C. Riley, Whitmore's C.O., praised Whitmore as "an extremely good police officer. His previous military career and his award of the Bronze Star indicate his willingness to help his fellow man, which are all ingredients of a good police officer."

Police Chief Col. W. W. Davis lauded Whitmore by saying "It makes us extremely proud to have a member of our department who has excelled in service in the Armed Forces in Vietnam. I would think he has an excellent future with this department. His award indicates he has excellent leadership qualities and stamina, which go into making a fine police officer. I think he has all the qualities we want and expect of a police officer."

JOB PROGRAM—Getting ready for full operation of the city's Youth Employment Commission, designed to provide job placement services to young people by telephone, are Steve Duff, Miss Lori Hurdin and Chris Duff, all from Princess Anne High School. Standing by with the group is Robert R. Burton, an interviewer with the Virginia Employment Commission on loan to the city as director of the three month summer program.

SUN SURVEY

QUESTION: Do you think the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge beach, south of Sandbridge, should be closed to vehicular traffic?

Ecologist Is Needed

Once again, the Sun readers are in complete agreement—that the city should plan now to employ a full-time ecologist.

In response to the question "Do you think the city should consider including in its 1971-72 budget an appropriation for a full-time ecologist," the readers supported the proposal unanimously.

Two letters to the editor on the subject appear on page 4 in today's issue.

This week's question is doomed to controversy from the start.

Lovers of nature who wish portions of our country to remain in their natural state will undoubtedly support the proposed ban on vehicular traffic south of Sandbridge.

Picnickers, surfers and other sun-lovers who enjoy a more remote beach, will probably strongly oppose the ban.

Demo Hdq. Will Open

Owen B. Pickett, chairman of the Virginia Beach Democratic Committee, has announced the formal opening of the Democratic headquarters will take place at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, May 12th.

The headquarters is located at 2599 Virginia Beach Blvd. near London Bridge. The public is cordially invited to attend the formal opening ceremony.

Police Chief Col. W. W. Davis congratulates officer Whitmore on his Bronze Star decoration for service in Vietnam.

AT TRANTWOOD—The combined choruses of Trantwood Elementary School will present an original musical, "Off To See The Wizard", Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. A special performance for youngsters 12 years and under is scheduled tonight at 7. The play was written and directed by Mrs. Hunter J. Vick, music teacher. Featured in the cast are "Lion" Peter Prosser, "Tinman" Don Gill, "Scarecrow" Curt Blankenship, "Dorothy" Joan Marlow and "Bad Witch" Debbie Cummings.

Civic Orchestra Concert Is June 6

The Virginia Beach Civic Orchestra and Beach Concert Singers will present the fourth annual spring concert, "June Serenade", at Princess Anne High School, June 6, at 8:15 p.m. The Orchestra is under the direction of Albert Asercion, well known musician and conductor in the Tidewater area, assisted by Senior Chief Musician Larry E. Harrington, both on the faculty of the Navy School of Music. The program will include works from the great classics, light operas, and popular Broadway stage shows. For the first time, the orchestra and singers will be joined by two featured dancers from the Virginia Beach Ballet Society. These young people will perform to the orchestral strains of Offenbach's "Ballet Parisienne".

The concert will be the culmination of many months of work on the part of the directors, the more than fifty orchestra members and twenty singers.

The musicians who make up the orchestra are from all age categories; the very young students attempting to gain experience, as well as the most professional musicians in the area. They include both civilian and military personnel, projecting a unique manifestation of the cooperation between these two communities in the Tidewater area.

Since its inception in 1966, the orchestra has obtained its members exclusively from local musicians and has provided both a vehicle for their talents and an opportunity for invaluable performing experience.

The organization is presently working toward the establishment of a Youth Scholarship Fund which would provide financial assistance to talented and needy students to further their musical studies.

"The number of patrons of the Civic Orchestra has doubled in the past year," said President Frank Ferrigno "and we urge the public to continue its support of this worthwhile endeavor."

Persons interested in becoming patrons may contact Ferrigno at 340-8052.

Tickets for the concert will be on sale at Price's in Pembroke Mall and Military Circle Mall, or at the box office, Princess Anne High School on the evening of the concert.

Wildcats Win State Title

The Wildcats of Virginia Beach won the A Division of the 1970 Annual Women's Bowling Association Tourney in Richmond last weekend to become the state's top women's bowling team.

The Wildcats, an independent team, won with an overall score of 2795. Team members are Ann Rogers, Sharon Barcroft, Benita Cummings, Sue Williams and Lola Cranmore.

CHORUS IN BENEFIT—Members of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus in one last rehearsal before presenting a special benefit concert Tuesday night for patients at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. The group, under the direction of Walter Noona, presented its most successful Spring Concert, complete with accompaniment by members of the brass section of The Army Element of The Navy's School of Music, Dave Lively on the drums and Fred Strong on the bass guitar.

Thomas Here For Benefit

Danny Thomas, a noted tv entertainer and the founder of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, will give a benefit performance for the hospital at the Virginia Beach Civic Center, May 8 at 9 p.m. The Thomas performance is all part of a drive in the area to raise funds for the leukemia research facility, and will include a solicitation by ALSAC Saturday and Sunday involving over 2,000 teenagers in the Tidewater area.

Tickets for the show and dance, which will include food and drink all evening, are $50 per couple.

The Tidewater campaign last year netted about $20,000 and this year's goal is $40,000.

Winors Oaks Celebrates

Everybody received recognition as Winors Oaks PTA celebrated its first birthday this week.

Special honors went to Mrs. Lessie Siler who is retiring after 39 years of teaching. She formerly taught at Kingston Elementary. Mrs. Mary Stevens presented an orchid on behalf of the faculty to Mrs. James Eversole, the first and outgoing PTA president.

Some 30 students received Savings Bond certificates while about 40 parents received certificates for completing a special new math course for parents.

New PTA officers were installed by Mrs. Martin Mulderig, PTA Council president. They are: LA, William Hallend, president; Mrs. William Burke, first vice president; Mrs. William Plunkett, second vice president; Mrs. H.L. Ware, recording secretary; Mrs. Bruce Ferguson, corresponding secretary, Gerald Moore, treasurer.

First, second and fourth graders, under the direction of Miss C.D. Davis, performed dances. There was a special anniversary cake decorated in the school colors, blue and gold.

Mrs. Lessie Siler, special education teacher at Windsor Oaks Elementary School, was honored by the school's PTA recently. She will retire after 39 years of teaching. At left is Charles Kelton, principal, and at right Mrs. James Eversole, PTA president.

Summer Sessions Set

Parents wishing to enroll their children in pre-school kindergarten band for six weeks from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. June 24 through Aug. 4. Classes are free, but parents must furnish transportation to the schools, which have not been designated yet.

The kindergartens, open to all children eligible for first grade in September, will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. June 24 through Aug. 18. The cost is $15, and transportation must be furnished by parents. Location of the kindergartens has not been determined.

Other summer programs include remedial and enrichment classes plus the Tri-Outdoor program for children who have finished fourth grade.

Remedial mathematics and English and enrichment classes in reading, science, social studies, music, mathematics, art and gymnastics will be offered at central locations from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m. from June 24 to Aug. 4. Transportation will be by bus. Registration is $40.

Centers for the classes will be Hermitage for Bayside Elementary, John B. Dey, Shelton Park, Thoroughgood; Pembroke Meadows for Pembroke, Aragona, Old Donation, Luxford, Williams except the Burton Station area; Point O View for Arrowhead, Kempville Elementary, Kamps Landing, Kempville Meadows, Woodstock, Burton Station; Windsor Oaks for Windsor Woods, Lynnhaven, Brookwood, Plaza, Holland, Thalia, Malibu; Kings Grant for Kingston, Trantwood, Alantun, Linnbrook Park, Seatack, W. T. Cooke, Virginia Beach Junior High.

The Tri-Outdoor program is to teach swimming, art and nature study to students just completing fourth grade. The program is free. Transportation to schools must be provided by parents, but transportation to the program area at Kempville will be by bus. Dates will be from June 22 to Aug. 21 with two sessions a day. Each school will be scheduled sometime during the summer.

Cdr. Winberg Is Exec.

Cmdr. William Winberg, II, of Lynfield Drive was named Executive Officer of the attack aircraft carrier "USS INDEPENDENCE" recently. Cmdr. Winberg has been associated with the 80,000-ton "INDEPENDENCE" since May 1968. At that time he was Commanding Officer of Reconnaissance Attack Squadron Seven, then embarked aboard during the "INDEPENDENCE's" sixth Mediterranean deployment. At the conclusion of the operation Commander Winberg became the ship's navigator and served in this capacity until assuming his present position.

He is married to the former Jean Marie Robertson of Jackson, Miss.

Bank Names Info Spreads to Florida Managers

Eugene H. Strawbridge, vice president of the United Virginia Bank/Seaboard National, and William L. Sears, Jr., assistant cashier, will serve as manager and assistant manager respectively of the bank's Customhouse Office. The announcement was made by M. Lee Payne, president of the bank.

The office located at 109 Main Street was formerly the Main Office of the bank until the move to new headquarters at 5 Main Plaza East earlier this month. The Customhouse Office provides full banking services and is currently undergoing extensive renovation.

Larson Realty and Insurance Corporation recently sent Bill Waide, residential sales manager, and Leo Winters, resale department representative, to Pensacola, Fla., to tell a group of families the Tidewater story. The group of some 35 families will be moving to the Tidewater region within 30 days and will be stationed at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk.

Waide and Winters took displays containing brochures and plans of many of the communities that Larasan represents as sales agents. Among those included were Riverton, Mayfair, Baycliff, Ridgely, Wellington Woods and College Park. During the presentation, Waide and Winters answered questions about Tidewater concerning schools, churches, shopping and travel distances to and from work.

Recreation, historical, attractions and general details of the area were also discussed. After the formal presentation, a two hour question and answer period explored additional topics that the Florida families asked about Tidewater and Virginia.

Chandler Is Dealer

American Security Systems has been appointed the authorized dealer for Dictograph Security Systems in the Tidewater area. It was announced today by Vernon E. Chandler, II, who heads up the new company.

Dictograph, which has been a prominent national manufacturer since 1902, produces a complete line of burglar, fire and smoke protection systems for residential, commercial and institutional applications.

The new dealership, according to Mr. Chandler, will install and service Dictograph's complete range of sophisticated alarm systems for protection against burglary, fire and smoke.

American Security Systems occupies an office at One Tidewater Executive Center, where company officials will be available to handle inquiries at all times. Twenty-four hour telephone services are available at 499-3259.

First Colony Telephone Company has 13,225 stations and 11 exchanges in Virginia. The company serves 9,650 customers in Virginia Beach and the counties of Albemarle, Appomattox, Augusta, Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Nelson, Orange, Prince Edward, Rockbridge and Spotsylvania.

Logan said that some of the factors contributing to an adjustment in rates were continued rising costs of equipment and materials, increasing wage levels necessary to attract and retain qualified employees, increasing taxes and higher interest rates required to obtain new capital financing.

Boys Give Skit At Conference

One hundred and twenty-five salesmen from Combined Insurance Company of America and their wives were treated to a "living annual report" Saturday by six young members of the Richmond Boys' Club.

The youngsters put on the skit, acting out many of their activities, to kick off a sales campaign designed to honor the company's chairman, W. Clement Stone, and help the youngsters' summer camp fund.

During Birthday Week, launched by the skit, a portion of each policy sold goes to selected local Boys Clubs and Stone matches each donation.

39 Finish TAHB Class

Tidewater Association of Homebuilders Vice-President, Bernard Kroll, handed out 39 certificates to persons that completed the TAHB builders school conducted at the Airport Inn.

The course, which has run 11 weeks, covered virtually all important subjects dealing with homebuilding. They included sight selection, land planning, architectural drawings, financing, real estate law, construction planning, building management, and marketing of new homes.

The variety of instructors for the course was impressive and included Norris Halprin, attorney; Douglas Talbot, land planner; Larry Goldrich, developer; Frank Spadea, real estate sales vice-president; Howard Webster, builder; and Sterling Webster, finance expert.

The courses were open to the public and are scheduled again for the fall of 1970. Anyone interested should contact Malcolm Evans, TAHB Executive Director at 623-5688.

Company Expands

Sandler Foods of Diamond Springs Road in Virginia Beach, has added a Portsmouth seafood operator as its retail food department manager and a Chicago food service manager as its planning director.

Harry Sandler, president of the firm, said that Buck Niemeyer, who operated a seafood firm in Portsmouth for eight years, was added as a part of the company's new expansion program.

Also added was C.A. MacKeekin, who for 18 years was with Sexton's in Chicago. He is a 24 year veteran in the food service field, 20 of them with nationally known firms.

Five Face Drug Charges

Three juveniles and two adults were arrested by Virginia Beach police last weekend during investigations of violations state narcotic and drug laws.

Investigators said John G. Cook, 19 of DeLaura Lane, was charged with possession of narcotics in relation to a quantity of marijuana and paraphernalia employed in the use of drugs allegedly found in a Kentucky Avenue home.

Monnie A. Long, 20, of Bannock Road, was charged with possession of narcotics when, according to authorities, he was observed "smoking" a marijuana cigarette in a car parked outside a Kentucky Avenue home.

A 16-year-old juvenile was charged with possession and sale of marijuana during an investigation which, according to police officials, involved the alleged sale of marijuana to one of his classmates at Bay-side High School.

Investigators said three handguns, worth $185, were removed from a gun-rack during the burglary.

Merchants and business men are being requested to be alert for anyone who may attempt to convert large quantities of coins, primarily half-dollars, into paper currency, or make purchases with $2 and/or $5 bills bearing a "red seal", and to contact police in the event of either of these transactions.

Merchants On Watch For Bills

A search continues for thieves who made off with $11,000 in cash and several weapons during the burglary of the Raymond H. Ives home on Burton Drive last Friday.

According to police officials $11,000 in cash was taken from a bedroom safe which was ripped open after thieves forced their way through the front door of the dwelling. A collection of old U.S. coins, of various denominations, valued at $10,000, as well as collections of "red seal" $2 bills valued at $800, and "red seal" $5 valued at $120 were removed from the safe.

Investigators said three handguns, worth $185, were removed from a gun-rack during the burglary.

Merchants and business men are being requested to be alert for anyone who may attempt to convert large quantities of coins, primarily half-dollars, into paper currency, or make purchases with $2 and/or $5 bills bearing a "red seal", and to contact police in the event of either of these transactions.

Mrs. Lovisi Faces More Charges

Mrs. Margaret Lovisi has been sentenced to three years in prison after being convicted of sodomy by a Circuit Court jury which took only nine minutes to find her guilty and fix her punishment.

Judge G. W. Vakos has taken under advisement a motion by her defense attorney to set the verdict aside.

Mrs. Lovisi, 31, was arrested by Virginia Beach police April 18, 1969, when a huge quantity of pornographic photographs, films, books and magazines were discovered in her Alanton Drive home.

She has appealed to Circuit Court an earlier Municipal Court conviction of cruel treatment of her daughters, aged 12 and 13, and participating in an obscene display.

Mrs. Lovisi is also awaiting trial on two other counts of sodomy, two charges of injurious treatment of her daughters, and a charge of obscenity relating to a fire in her home at the time police raided the dwelling.

Policeman Takes Tourney

Virginia Beach police officer R. T. Talbot, attached to the 2nd Police Precinct, captured the second place trophy among a field of 102 competitors in the annual Naval Investigative Service Golf, Norfolk, Spring Invitational Golf Tournament last Friday at the Kempsville Meadows Golf and Country Club.

Talbot carded a round of 75 for the 18 hole, par 72, 6,196 yard course. His round contained 10 pars, 3 birdies, 4 bogies, and 1 double bogey. Talbot's final score earned him a sterling silver cup trophy for the second low gross score in the competition.

Lt. Jack Boeber of Virginia State Police Headquarters in Norfolk captured the first place low gross award with a final score of 74. In tallying his score Boeber indicated his round included 12 pars, 2 birdies and 4 bogies. Reflecting on the course Boeber said he felt the par 4, 396 yard, 4th hole was "the toughest hole for me." When asked why he said, "because I don't hit a long ball, which makes your second shot difficult because of the distance to reach the green."

Others who received awards in the tournament included Col. J. Hunter, OSI, Langley AFB, with the first place low net score of 56; Agent Phil Butler, Norfolk FBI Office, with the second low net score of 61; Sgt. Tommy Haythe, Portsmouth Police Dept., who hit the longest drive, in excess of 300 yards, on the par 4, 340 yard, 15th hole; and Sperm Blins of NIS Hqs., Wash. D.C., whose drive on the par 3, 197 yard, 9th hole came "closest to the pin" to within two feet of the cup.

Others who represented Virginia Beach in the tournament included Mayor Frank A. Dusch, police Lt's. A. R. Nobles and E. L. Knowles, and police officers J. W. Mobley, M. H. Brown and D. R. Divers.

'Mom' Too Commercialized

It's Mother's Day time again. That time of year when fathers, with youngsters in tow, scour the stores trying to find that certain gift for Dear Old Mom. A gift that will fit both the occasion and the pocketbook. It is, after all, very soon after federal and state income tax deadlines and before the youngsters begin their summer jobs.

Dear Old Mom is tactfully side-stepping the little hints about what she needs or the guess-what-we've-got-you's. She's getting in the groceries for that Sunday morning breakfast-in-bed---just before she cleans up the kitchen--and thinking of glowing phrases for the dress she knows will be too small or the purse that won't match a thing she owns.

Mother's Day is just another commercial play on the emotions of a family---like Father's Day, Easter (you know, the Easter Bunny and special finery) and Christmas.

The youngsters are made to feel guilty if they don't come up with a gift in keeping with their love for Mom. Mom is made to believe that this is the one day she should be honored and cherished just because the promoters say so. The slightest slip in the day's proceedings can produce traumatic results; tears from the child who didn't have a father to remind him it was Mother's Day; tears from Mom who feels neglected and cast aside when the family scatters in all directions; even tears of happiness when the entire day goes beautifully.

All for the sake of commercialism.

Dear Old Mom knows that Mother's Day isn't a gaily-wrapped gift on the dining room table Sunday morning. It's baby's first step, his first word. It's registering him for school and his first report card. It's his concern for scholastic perfection in the first grade and his efforts to bring an "F" up to passing in the ninth "Just to get you off my back, Mom" (which, translated, means, "Just to please you, Mom"). It's the cooking steaks at four o'clock in the afternoon because your Little Leaguer's schedule has turned your routine topsy-turvy. It's when he tells you your skirts are too long and comments "you're too young to look like a grandmother". It's when he worries about what to wear on his first prom (and "what kind of flowers do you get for a pale blue formal, Mom"?). It's when he buys you six carnations out of his summer-job paycheck "just to celebrate". It's when he puts his arms around you and says "can we still be friends" after a big blow-up that nearly convinced you that you never were cut out for motherhood. It's when you carry out the trash "because I forgot" or make up the beds "because I just ran out of time" then come home one day to find the house cleaned from top to bottom "just because". It's the pride you feel when he picks you up off the floor and tells you "you're the greatest mom in the world".

The most beautiful Mother's Day gift is the second-grade drawing depicting mother something between a witch and an angel, or a comic card bought at the last minute Sunday morning at the 7-11 Store. The greatest gift of all is love. It can't be bought in the store nor can it be promoted for commercialism. Mother's Day is every day. If you're lucky.

Donated Land Questioned

It is gratifying to see that the Boys Club, as proposed by area Optimists, is progressing so well. This is a worthy cause and one which deserves the support of the communities it will serve.

We question, however, the decision of the Department of Parks and Recreation in donating some 28 acres to this particular operation when so many other worthwhile causes have been refused lesser requests.

The United Communities Fund, for instance as we understand it, approached city officials some time ago for a piece of property in the Plaza area, the same area where the Boys Club site is located, for construction of a facility to serve all of the UCF organizations. This would have included the Boys Club as well as many other fine groups. The UCF would have built, operated and maintained this facility, provided the city supported it by donating the needed property. Its scope would have been far greater than that which is now planned. It would have provided the swimming pool and recreational provisions proposed in the Boys Club but it would also have included headquarters and facilities for Boy and Girl Scouts, rehabilitation workshops for the aged and afflicted, counseling rooms for the troubled, even office space for all of the UCF organizations.

It would have, in fact, been a community center for all who wished to enjoy it.

This project was abandoned because the UCF was told the city could not donate the property. We understand this was never done officially, but without this show of faith on behalf of the city, UCF officials were helpless in pursuing the project further.

Now the Department of Parks and Recreation has agreed to donate to the Boys Club. How can one segment of the United Communities Fund be favored when the entire operation was refused?

It's rather appalling to realize that this project, and probably many others equally beneficial to the city, slipped through our fingers, whether through lack of foresight or lack of property.

THE HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE --

'Hut' Upstaged By Its Own Sets

The most enthusiastic applause "The Little Hut" received at the Lake Wright Dinner Theatre Thursday night was at the rise of the opening curtain...for the stage setting. From that point on, applause and laughs were scarce.

The second act created a slight flurry of excitement and it seemed for a while that the show might actually get off the ground. But a mediocre play can only soar so high and by the close of the second act it was apparent the strongest drawing point in "Little Hut" was the sets.

The play, adapted by Nancy Mitford from the novel by French author Andre Roussin, has a rather delicate plot to begin with and if not handled with the utmost sophistication it becomes, well, somewhat distasteful.

It requires fine-tuning directing and acting to convince an audience that a wife can taste-fully live with her husband and her lover on a deserted island in complete harmony, alternating weekly with the two men. It's not the easiest situation to carry off.

And when a third man (a sexy Tarzan-type, yet) is added, the whole plot becomes a bit sleazy, to say the least. And one need not be prudish to feel this way.

The play has been successfully handled in the sophisticated it demands, but such was not the case with the Lake Wright's presentation of it.

This was not necessarily the fault of the cast. Joyce Williams, Bentley Anderson and Tom Morgan are all recognized in local theatre as accomplished actors. It was perhaps the direction that prompted Miss Williams to be more of a sandy beach streetwalker than a very proper, if sexually liberated, young woman. Or which had Anderson delivering his lines more in keeping with "Hamlet" than a sophisticated comedy.

The one refreshing member of the trio was Morgan. His performance was delightfully understated. He was the epitome of the rather stuffy Englishman whose reaction to the sordid arrangement transformed him from a dull husband into his wife's fun-loving lover.

Morgan handled this on-stage transition with complete aplomb.

Anderson, on the other hand, was a bit awkward in his conversion from a gay bachelor-lover to a jealous husband-type character.

Anderson can take credit, however, for the excellent stage settings. The stage was literally a portion of a deserted island...coconuts were shaken from towering palm trees, tropical birds chirped in the background, occasionally so effed as to drown out the performers, and flew in all

Open Rudee

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN: While articles in growing numbers appear daily in national magazines depicting the fine sportsmanship available to tourists and residents of Virginia Beach, Rudee Inlet, already established as one of the world's best places to catch another world's record bluefish, remains dangerously clogged and impassable.

With the boat ramp in operation at Owl Creek, the danger of the partly opened inlet should be publicized. Just this week-end two fellow fishermen became imperiled when their small boat ran aground with damage in the mouth of the inlet and Easterly seas threatened their lives. They were not the only week-end victims of the shallow inlet's treachery.

The Virginia Beach City Council's and Erosion Commission's recent actions to finally purchase a seaworthy and efficient dredge for Rudee Inlet is apparently appreciated only by well-informed citizens and an increasing amount of business. We only regret that such a decision could not have been enacted many years ago enabling the area to develop into a sportsfishing mecca and provide additional revenue for our city. With the aid of the new dredge we all hope the inlet will soon be safely open to passenger carrying vessels and remain so. We thank City Manager R. M. Scott for his wise proposal. Let's open Rudee Inlet and allow private development to begin.

Community Upkeep

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN: I have a pet peeve I want to sound off on.

How many people who live in a subdivision realize the City does not now, chop, fertilize, trim or maintain the entrances and exits? The City does not paint or repair the signs, fences or put up signs if they make a new street? Most of this back breaking labor is done by a few lone, hardworking conscientious few, who nine chances out of ten are navy and army people who create a home and community for a couple of years and then move on. The more permanent ones, who really have a stake there, will not join their garden or civic clubs for a mere $3 per year and support the same aforementioned people.

These unwary ones are the same ones who criticize those who do work. Are we becoming truly a country of working tongues? Where is our civic pride? Where is the helping hand? Giving of one's self? Does money really buy everything now?

Don't print my name, I might be asked to move.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavelle, Ph. D.

Until just a short time ago, SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) was unknown to Americans. The organization was founded in 1962 by a small group of students at Port Huron, Michigan.

Today, although small in numbers (a claimed membership of about 40,000 in 200 to 250 chapters), it has been a major factor in many campus riots. Its goal is not reform but blind destruction.

The average person has heard about SDS but when you talk to people, you find they don't really know what SDS is all about. Now that SDS is moving into our high schools, from our colleges, it is more important than ever for everyone to know what SDS is, what its goals are, how it plans to reach them and what we can do about this thing called SDS.

Let's see how college SDS-ers reach high school students and hold their interest. They distribute leaflets, hold seminars, conferences and workshops, they assist in the publication of underground newspapers, they encourage high school students to observe and participate in college SDS sponsored demonstrations, they try to secure speaking invitations to high schools and they work through faculty members who previously were either members of SDS or sympathizers.

The goals of SDS in our high schools are to radicalize, as much as possible, selected students, to build a radical consciousness, to develop a link with the future working class and of course the complete disruption of the educational process.

All this is not speculation. Like most groups, good and bad, SDS tells anyone who will listen what they are and what they plan to do. The people of this country should start listening to what SDS is saying before it is too late.

The SDS National Secretary, Mark Rudd, on a TV interview over station WJW, Cleveland, Ohio, on Aug. 30, 1969 said: "We're not communist inspired. We're communist. Corrupt, evil and if (our system of Government) should be destroyed, in fact smashed."

A leaflet, "Destructuring of SDA (1968) said: "The revolutionary project should be clear to the student - destruction of the university...unless the student is capable of destruction as creation, there will be no revolutionary transformation."

What can we do? Well, most of the information I have stated in this column comes from J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the F. B. I. so let me tell you what Mr. Hoover says we can do:

1. Be appreciative of the majority of our young people. Let's not condemn a whole generation for the extremist tactics of a few.

2. Recognize that student dissent is not necessarily identified with extremism. Legitimate dissent is a part of our tradition. We want young people to think for themselves; this is the very heart of our educational process.

3. Distinguish between peaceful change through democratic process on one hand and destructive violence on the other. Our system is based on the inevitability and desirability of change but this change must be within the law.

4. Education can function only in an atmosphere of mutual trust, a desire to search for the truth, and a willingness both to speak and to listen. Schools can not function under the fury of the mob or the fist of the disrupter.

5. As adults we need continuous and sincere communications with our young people. All too often adults "tune out" the young. Yet many of them have important messages. Let's talk to them - and maybe in turn they will listen to us.

6. Adults, especially teachers and parents, should set good personal examples for young people. Here is one of youth's major complaints, that adults talk in one way and act in another.

7. Keep faith with America. This means that in our pluralistic society we may have disagreements and conflicts, separate groups and interests but that we all work for the best interests of our country. America needs a reaffirmation by its people of the heritage of freedom which gave it birth.

I don't think very much can be added to the advice Mr. Hoover sets forth in the above. It is sound and it makes sense. It is time the parents and those in our school systems stopped talking and listen. Listen to what the SDS says it is and what it plans to do. Listen to what Mr. Hoover suggests we can do to protect our youth, our educational system and our country. Let's give America the affirmation it needs.

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:

In your paper, Thursday April 30, 1970, under the heading "Notice of Public Hearing" were the following applications to construct, operate, etc. These applications are to come before the Virginia Beach Planning Commission on Tuesday, May 12. These proposed additions will certainly change your environment and mine. We need a full time ecologist just to go over applications to the Planning Commission. Here are some of the proposed additions to our Virginia Beach area:

*Application to construct 396 apartment units
*For a use permit to operate a roller skating rink
*Permit to construct 135 townhouses
*Permit to construct a gasoline supply station
*Use permit to construct private marina
*Use permit to construct 115 apartment units
*To construct an automobile repair garage
*To construct a trailer park
*To construct an 8 foot by 12 foot signboard
*A 15-foot by 30-foot signboard
*60-unit motel
*Professional offices
*Trailer park
*84 apartment units

If we are to continue to enjoy our beaches and our remaining greenery, if we are to have a measure of peace and quiet in our homes, having a full time ecologist is certainly a basic necessity.

The answer to the question is YES. Thank you for asking, MARTHA TICKNER

P.S. These Council meetings are open to the public. Persons interested in the shape of things to come would do well to attend and voice their opinions until such time as there is an ecologist to help us hold the line against overbuilding and pollution.

MY LIFE WITH EDGAR CAYCE, by David E. Kahn, as told to Will Oursler, New York, Doubleday & Co., Inc., 1970, $5.95.

At last! An entirely new Edgar Cayce book. This is the story of two men actually - of Cayce and David Kahn - a man whose life was influenced by Cayce from the age of 15. David Kahn was 15 years old when he first met Edgar Cayce, in Lexington, Ky. At that time, Cayce was living in Hopkintonville, Ky., and had been called to Lexington to give a reading to a neighbor of the Kahn's. The neighbor, Mrs. DeLaney, was totally paralyzed in an automobile accident and her husband, seemingly gnawed at straw, heard of Cayce and his psychic powers and decided to try, one last time, to obtain relief for his wife. By chance or fate, the young Kahn took down the reading and from that time on, became, along with his family, a friend of Cayce's. Throughout this book, by learning about David Kahn, we also learn more about the incredible man he called "Judge." This is not told by a man who is trying to profit from an acquaintance with a famous person, but rather a story of faith, friendship and psychic phenomena.

Margie Gibson Wins Track Records Broken; 1st Colonial Takes Meet

Miss Margie Gibson, a 17-year-old junior, has been chosen as the 1970 Miss Kellam High School. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gibson of the 3500 block of Rainforest Road, Miss Gibson took the top honors Friday night following competition in talent, poise, modeling, and fashion.

Miss Gibson used her past wins in local and state gymnastic events as a step to winning the Miss Kellam title when she performed a modern dance and floor exercises to Dr. Doobittle's "Talk to the Animals" song.

"My only prop," she said, "was my teddy bear."

Winner of the Miss Congeniality Award was 17-year-old Miss Wendy Howell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Howell of the 3800 block of William Penn Boulevard. That award is given to the contestant judged to have been the most helpful during the week's competition and having the best personality.

Other winners in the contest were Miss Connie Tracy, first runner-up, and Miss Shell Purvis, second runner-up.

The contest was judged by representatives from John Robert Powers and Charm Associates Modeling Schools, Mr. Strickler of the Virginia Beach School Board, Mrs. Yvonne Wilworth, a former Kellam Homecoming queen, and Mr. Richard Abelson, a Kellam faculty member.

First Colonial High School swept the city-wide track meet Tuesday with 84 points behind the outstanding performance of Norman Williams, who scored 26 points with first place in the high and low hurdles and long jump and two second places.

The nearest competitor in the overall competition was Kellam High School with 55 1/2 points, followed by Princess Anne with 38 1/2, Cox with 26, Bayside with 24, and Kempsville with 12.

The day-long competitions also produced a new city record for the 440 yard run with a time of 50.9 seconds set by Ronald Strokhorn of First Colonial. Another First Colonial student, Robert Jones, set the triple jump record with a 44 ft., 11 and three-fourths inch leap.

An 880 yard run record was set by Castello of Kellam with a time of 1 minute, 57.4 seconds, and a two-mile run record set by Riley of Princess Anne with a time of 9 minutes, 50 seconds. Final results in individual events with first places only are:

Shot: Scott; Kellam, 48 ft. 3 1/4 in. Discus: Thompson, Kellam, 145 ft. 9 in. High hurdles: N. Williams, First Colonial, 15 sec. 100-yd. Dash: Cowan, First Colonial, 10.2 sec. One Mile Run: Beagle, Bayside, 4 min. 32.5 sec. 440-yd. run: Ronald Strokhorn, First Colonial, 50.9 Record. Low hurdles:

N. Williams, First Colonial, 19.9 sec. High jump: Goodwin, First Colonial, 5 ft. 10 in. Long Jump: N. Williams, First Colonial, 21 ft. 9 1/2 in. 880-yd. run: Castello, Kellam, 1 min. 57.4 sec. Record, 220-yd. dash: Reed, Kellam, 22.7 sec. 2-mi. run: Riley, Princess Anne, 9 min. 50 sec. Pole Vault: Mercer, First Colonial, 12 ft. 3 in. Triple Jump: Jones, First Colonial, 44 ft. 11 3/4 in. Mile Relay: Haines, Cox, Barnett, Elza, Princess Anne.

Six Local UVA Students Cited

Six Virginia Beach youths were among 150 undergraduate students at the University of Virginia to receive Intermediate Honors for scholastic achievements during their first two undergraduate years.

They are Kristin C. Allen, Walter R. Brookhart, Jon Crookford, Arnold I. Sultz, Ward L. Waltman and Gerald E. Wilson.

They have maintained Dean's List grades or a grade-point average of at least 3.20 for the first 58 semester hours taken during their first two years at the university.

To be eligible for Intermediate Honors, a student must have entered the university directly from secondary school.

Poetry by candlelight was one of the features of the first annual Virginia Beach Festival of Visual and Performing Arts in which students from six high school participated for four days last week at First Colonial High School.

Summerell Signs Grant

Carl Lee Summerell, considered the outstanding college quarterback prospect in the Tidewater area, has signed a full, four-year football grant-in-aid with East Carolina University.

ECU Head Coach Mike McGee announced the signing Friday. Assistant Coach Sonny Randle, a native Virginian himself, personally handled the recruiting of Summerell.

"Carl is one of the finest high school passers I've ever seen," said Randle, formerly an All-Pro receiver with the St. Louis Cardinals. "When you look for a drop-back quarterback which is what all the colleges are looking for these days—you hope to find one like Summerell. He has excellent size and potential."

The 6-4, 185-pound Summer-ell was voted Most Valuable Player for Floyd Kellam High School last fall after he threw for 12 touchdowns and passed for six more for the Virginia Beach school. In passing he was 67-for-146 for 921 yards and accumulated 1,049 yards in total offense.

Summerell was All-Metro honorable mention, first string All-Eastern District and was co-captain of the Kellam football, basketball and baseball squads. A starter in the defensive backfield his sophomore and junior seasons, Summerell was switched to quarterback only last year by Kellam Coach Bill Ralph. The move, of course, was a success.

A winner of seven varsity letters at Kellam, Summerell is considered to be the No. 1 candidate for the ECU freshman quarterback job this fall.

Students Have Day in Court

Eighteen Virginia Beach lawyers went to court May 1 to celebrate Law Day, but this time defendants, prosecuting attorneys and witnesses, defense attorneys and judges.

And with the familiar cry of "Oyez, Oyez," silence is hereby commanded while the circuit court of the city of Virginia Beach is in session, a jury of six boys and six girls rose for the beginning of a mock trial by the city's bar association at Kempsville, Kellam, Cox and First Colonial high schools.

For many of the seniors, it was their first experience with any judicial system and the trials were designed to give young people insight into trial activity by bringing the courtroom to them, said W. Leigh Ansell, bar chairman for Law Day.

Ansell said the trials were given to foster respect for law and understanding of its essential place in American life, to encourage citizen participation in law observance and law enforcement, to advance equality and justice under law, and point out the contrast between freedom under law and governmental tyranny over communism. The students were treated to a narcotics trial involving students from the respective schools, replete with a Virginia Beach narcotics "detective" as the Commonwealth's chief witness.

A narcotics detective testified that he could differentiate the smell of marijuana from other odors, and was asked if the Commonwealth's attorney's after-shave smelled anything like marijuana. Replied the agent: "No, I'd say that was more like Mennen Skin Bracer." But it was not all as funny. The serious business of protecting a client's interests was opened to the public's eye as attorneys argued the validity of evidence and whether the defendants' rights were properly protected by the police.

And following final arguments to the jury during which attorneys noted that there must be reasonable proof for a conviction, the jury of students went out to deliberate.

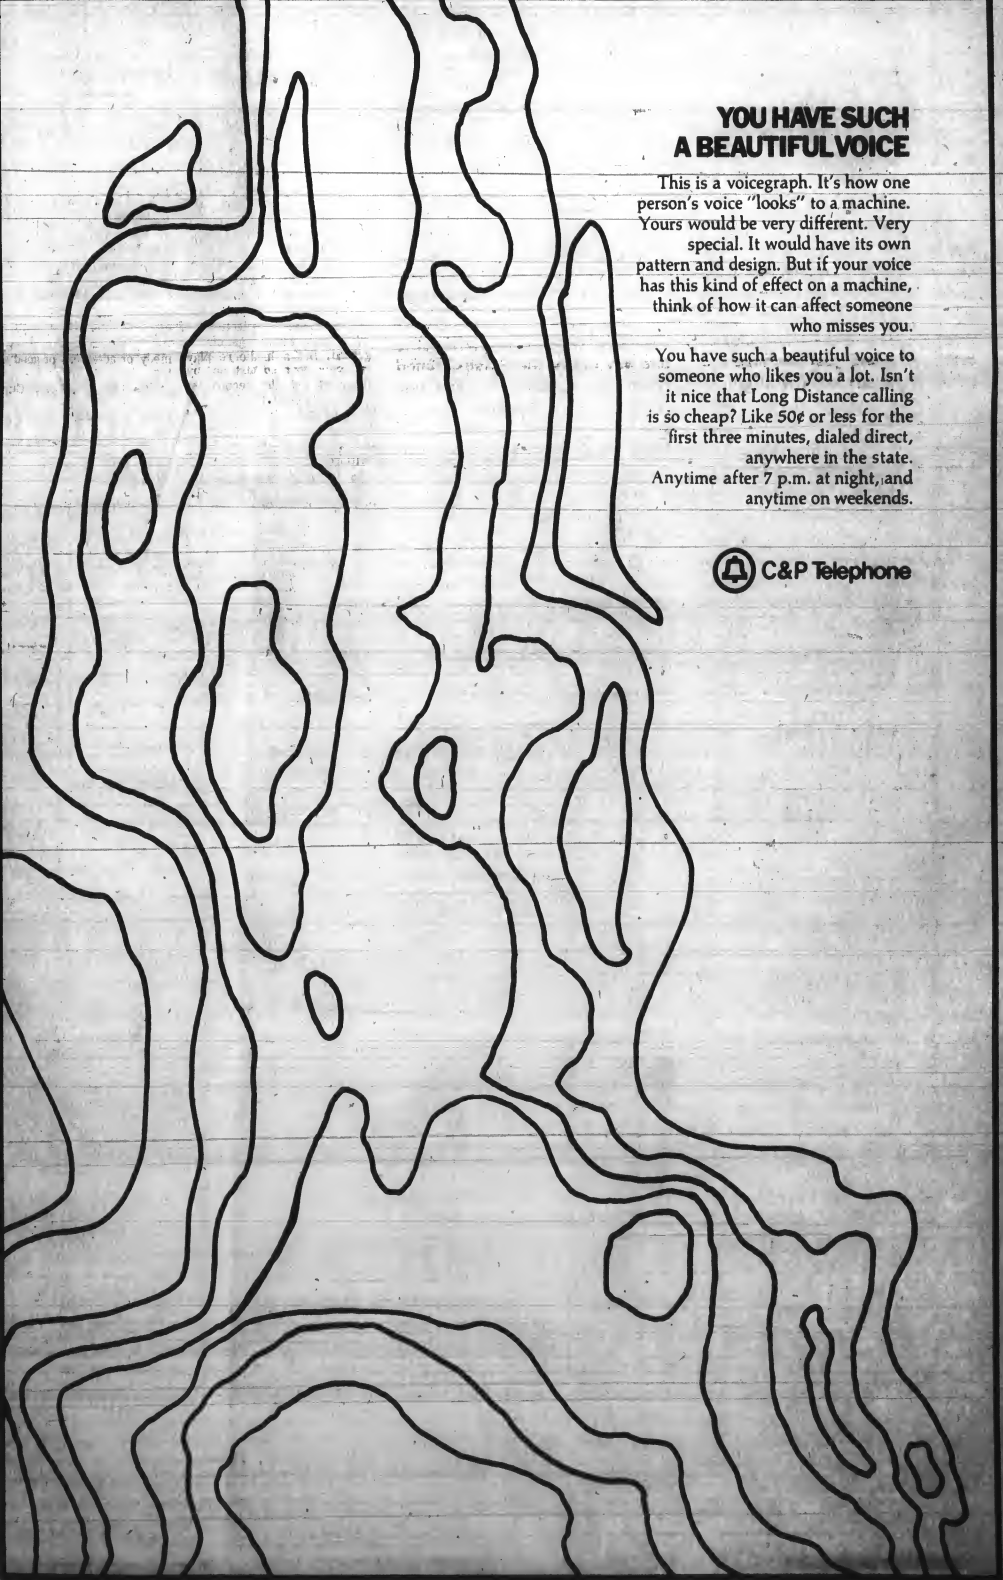

The returned verdict was much the same as that arrived at by the student audience: One defendant found innocent and the second defendant's case producing a hung jury.

During a question-and-answer session during the jury deliberations, students asked the lawyers about the admissibility of particular evidence, about conflicts in testimony, and fine points of jurisprudence.

Participating lawyers were: A. J. Coffman, Constantine A. Spanoulis, Frederick P. Aucamp, Stanley A. Phillips, Joseph A. Gawrys, Winston G. Snider, Lowell K. Clarke, Gay E. Mills, Jr., Ronald Hammers, Rexford A. Cherryman, Gerald Rubinger, John N. Parker, James E. Bridges, Jr., Nathaniel J. Cohen, Thomas F. Betz, Jr., James A. Gorry, III, Michael E. Bowerman, Arthur C. Ruter, Jr.

Marine First Lieutenant Ronald C. Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Harrington Jr. of 4816 Frostburg Lane, and husband of the former Miss Margaret A. Walker of 3713 Mantle Lane, all of Virginia Beach, Va., is now aboard a Seventh Fleet ship as part of the Navy-Marine amphibious team off the Vietnam coast.

Overseer Is Visiting

The Virginia Beach and congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses announce the visit of a special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of N. Y. beginning this week.

Flax Livingston, Clerk Overseer of 20 congregations along the Virginia-Carolina line, will assist local Witnesses in all features of their ministerial activity.

Known for their door-to-door ministry Jehovah's Witnesses in Virginia Beach will be instructed individually by Mr. Livingston to be ministers well pleasing to God.

More than the usual weekly meetings are scheduled to be held in their Kingdom Hall located at 712 Virginia Beach Blvd.

The feature address "Education That Equips You For Life" will be presented Sunday at 10 a.m. by Mr. Livingston. Closing sessions will follow.

Of public interest also is the 9 p.m. Saturday meeting called "New Things Learned."

Here Livingston will question the audience about modern day Bible application and how they are affected. Meetings are open to all with no collections taken.

Methodists Give More

Contributions from United Methodist Churches in Virginia to national and regional programs have shown marked increases in the first four months of the year over the same period of 1969.

Virginia Conference treasurer Raymond D. Cone, Jr., has reported a 22% increase in offerings for World Service and Conference Benevolence, the denomination's basic benevolence and operating fund.

The January-April receipts for 1970 have been nearly $285,000, compared to $233,000 for the same period last year.

Administrative funds for pensions, supplementing minimum salary requirements for ministers and operation of the bishop's office are ahead more than 40%.

Church extension funds are ahead by nearly 15%; the Education Fund (for college operations), 13.5%; world missions, 51%; homes for the aged, 9.5%; and the Youth Service Fund, 33%.

Decreases were reported in only a few items: the Methodist Children's Home (6%), national missions (5%), the College Fund (27%) and the Jurisdictional Fund for Ministerial Education (26%).

Happy Mother's Day!

(Editor's note: Third graders are in a beautiful stage of life. They are old enough to express their thoughts on paper, but they are still young and unsophisticated enough to be almost unaffected by the world's problems. Thus we asked Miss Anne McNamera, a third grade teacher at Kings Grant Elementary School, if she would let one of her groups of children write whatever they wanted to about their mothers. Here are the results. We think they are representative of children in general.)

"I like my mother because of the things she does. My mother might even sign me up for horseback lessons! She brought home some steak for dinner. The one thing that I don't like about her, though, is that she won't go to one PTA meeting! She will let me buy anything I want out of my own money. She will let me stay home by myself for almost two hours!"

John P.

"My mother will smother me with kisses. And when I was in the hospital she always came to see me. When I am very sick she takes me to the emergency room at the hospital. And she takes me in the stores that she goes in."

the movies. I love my mother because she does what is best for me."

Steven K.

"My mother is very special because she is sweet, kind and very helpful. When I don't feel like reading she reads to me. My mother and I love to do things like going shopping and playing bingo and when my friend Sherry comes over we play Aggravation. Of course my mother is to kiss my father when he comes home from work. My mother said I could go to Washington, D.C. because it would be an interesting trip for me. My mother is the greatest mother anywhere!!!"

Donna A.

"My mother is nice because she takes me to the hospital. When someone sleeps over she lets us stay up late. We get to have banana ice cream. When I have a cold she takes good care of me. When I get older she'll buy me a telephone."

Patricia G.

"My mother helps me with my wolf projects. She helps me cook. She helps me with the grass piles. One time I got up and couldn't find my turtle until my mother found it by my bed. On the (Earth) pick up day my mother and I made a poster."

Jimmy W.

"My mother is kind and sweet. My mother in the summer sometimes takes us to the beach. We like to go shopping together. We like to talk about school. We have a big dog. My mother gets mad at him all the time! I love my mother!"

Julie P.

"My mother is nice because she takes me places like to stores and she takes to my friend's house. She helps me on my homework and she feeds my dog, and I think she's very, very, very, very nice."

Ken K.

"My mother means to me... love, happiness, good clothes and good food. My mother means also going places, getting things and having fun. My mother also means that she loves me, and when I need it, she helps me with my work. She also helps me learn. She teaches me things by buying me books and teaching me things that I need to learn, like things that I've never known. Things like fossils and space and whether rocks have radiation waves. She also teaches me things on our planet and on others. My mother's the best mother in the whole world!!!"

Condie M.

"Well, first of all, she's OK. And she's all nice and good and very nice and very good. She is perfect and very perfect. She's all right. She is OK and nice and good, perfect, AND ALL RIGHT."

Peter P.

"One day I was outside. My mother was cleaning. Then I got stung. Then my mother carried me to the kitchen. Then she put baking soda on my foot and wrapped it up. Then I went out to play. Then it was night and she put me to bed and then morning came. My foot was swollen. Then I showed my mother. She saw it. Then she helped me get rid of it. Then it was gone."

Wanda B.

(My thanks to Miss McNamera and her reading class.)

chuck steak and spaghetti. She let me go to Memphis, Tenn. One night my tummy hurt and my mother folded my pillow."

Betty M.

"I think my mother is the best mother in the whole world because she always takes us places and is so nice. My mother sometimes plays games with us. She never forgets us like if she buys my sister an ice cream cone she will never forget me. Sometimes she is so funny. One time we went to the fair and I had an ice cream cone and I smashed it into a mirror and I started to cry. My mother said something funny and we forgot all about it and we went home. That is why I think my mother is the best mother in the whole world."

Sandy

"I am glad I have a mother like I have. Every night she never forgets to kiss me good-night. She helps me get well fast. She will hold my hand if I think a shot will hurt. She will let us do things - if she thinks it is all right to do it. She gets our favorite kind of ice cream. She visited me when I was in the hospital when I was very sick. She read me books, brought me presents and stayed with me every night so I would not get scared of the darkness. I think there is no other mother in this whole world like mine!"

Therese S.

"My mother is a nice lady. She gives me drinks when I am sick. She let my brother have two hamsters. She let a cat come in cause she was wandering around. We go to the movies when we can. We go everywhere when visitors come. We go to grandmother's house every summer. She lets my friends spend the night sometimes. She goes out with my father most of the time. We ask her if we can go to Shaky's but she always says no. We go to the circus almost every-time there is one."

Lois

"My mom is loving. She kisses me good-by when I leave for school. Every day when I come home from school she checks my homework. When I get sick mama takes good care of me! She takes me to get new shoes and clothes. My mom takes me and my brother to

Wait until after supper

A little over a month ago I discussed the non-fatal but very contagious disorder known as the four-hour virus which develops about church time on Sundays.

Now we've got a new one. You know that commercial on television for the Monday morning blahs. Well this is a recent development which is the Sunday night and Monday morning blahs. The same nine-year-old is the victim again. Since she didn't get out of going to church, she's trying to give up school instead. This was the fourth straight week.

Along about three in the afternoon she decides her stomach hurts. By bedtime she's miserable. In the morning she's too sick to go to school until 10 a.m. Then she's fine.

Sunday was one time too many.

First, before she knew what I had planned for supper, she announced she didn't want anything to eat except soup. That was fine. I had one bouillon cube left-chicken. What she didn't know was that we were going to have barbecued ribs and corn fritters—her two favorites. I told her if she had soup she couldn't have anything else, and she agreed.

She looked rather wistful with her bowl of soup—I added extra water and some rice to it—and four stale crackers. I wouldn't even give her any milk.

About half way through the meal she decided she was hungry after all. Her father (whom I consulted before we sat down to eat) and I told her that was just too bad. I did give her two more stale crackers, however.

Pure pain was written across her face later as she watched me put the last fritter down the disposal. What really topped it off was when I let her brother and sister have a bowl of ice cream and made her go to bed.

I'd be willing to bet she won't try that again—at least not unless she's checked the menu first.

Mothers are nothing new

The idea of honoring motherhood dates back to the mother-worship practiced in Ancient Greece.

Mother's Day, as such, was proclaimed officially by Pres. Woodrow Wilson, who designated the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day and directed that the American flag be displayed on all public buildings. Many foreign countries also have a Mother's Day.

Mother's Day was the brainchild of Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia. In 1908 she suggested that a special service be held for mothers in a Philadelphia church. Through her enthusiastic campaigning the idea spread to other churches and then to the public in general. It was she that suggested the second Sunday of May for the observance and also the wearing of a carnation on that day.

On the more practical side, merchants were quick to foresee the monetary advantages of the observance, and gifts, too, became part of the custom of honoring mothers.

There's one thing for sure, though—none of us would be here today without mothers.

Mrs. J.T. Stokes couldn't stand up to pose for the picture, obviously, as members of Lynnhaven Garden Club brought hats made of flowers, fruit and vegetables to Tuesday's meeting. Other blue ribbon winners were, left to right standing, Mrs. D.S. Potter, Mrs. Tom Wood and Mrs. W. R. Payne Sr.

Alumnae elect new officers

New officers of the Norfolk Chapter of the Mary Washington Alumnae Association are: Mrs. Ronald Kessler, president; Mrs. B.R. Middleton, first vice president; Mrs. W. L. Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. M.H. Garrett, recording secretary; Mrs. W.R. Gillings, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L.D. Tamkin, treasurer; Mrs. J.H. Morrisette, historian.

The last meeting of the year will be Saturday May 16 at the home of Mrs. J.N. Garrett, 716 Sterling Point Dr., Portsmouth. It will be a mother-daughter luncheon with installation of officers and a program on Japan.

The short, fuzzy fibers that cling to the cotton seed are called "linters."

Church plans garage sale

A garage sale, sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Lynnhaven United Methodist Church, will be held on Friday May 8 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Saturday May 9 from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the church, 1033 Little Neck Road.

National meeting outlined

Several members of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. will attend the Forty-First Annual Convention, May 17-21, at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

The Garden Club of Illinois will be the hostess state, and have planned a Pre-Convention Tour, May 16th of Chicago's North Shore and a Post-Convention Tour.

The Theme of the meeting is "The Shape of Tomorrow". Mrs. William H. Barton, president of the National Council, will preside.

Speakers are: John Mosiman, Creator of an art form, blending painting and music; Thomas L. Kinsall, exec. director, national Wildlife Federation; Mrs. William G. Milliken, wife of the Governor of Michigan, whose subject will be "Tomorrow's Heartbeat."

Wednesday night will be "The Spectacular", featuring the works and talents of 30 outstanding flower arrangers and horticulturists, all members of the organization.

A promenade of National Officers and State Presidents will start off the Awards Banquet, with State Presidents receiving Awards for their respective states.

Also the "Gold Seal" Award, the highest award of all, will be given to the one who has made an outstanding contribution to society in an area with which National Council is vitally concerned.

A special program is planned for husbands of members during the entire convention; a Day at the Races, a Day with Business, North Shore Tour, and a Day with Science.

All garden club members are invited to attend this meeting. Members who are planning to attend are:

From Tidewater District: Mrs. John Y. Wright from Norfolk, president of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs, Inc.; Mrs. Frank C. Tonkin, National Council Projects Chairman; Mrs. Edward J. Hennessey, District Director, both of whom are from Portsmouth.

Rhododendron group meets

On May 8, 9, and 10, nine distinguished horticulturists will be the speakers for the 1970 Eastern Regional Meeting of the American Rhododendron Society, co-sponsored by the Tidewater and Middle Atlantic Chapters of that Society. The opening of the Regional Meeting will be preceded on Friday, May 8, with an all day bus tour of gardens in Suffolk and Williamsburg.

Meetings will be held at Lake Wright Motel in Virginia Beach on each of the three days. Social hour, dinner and lectures are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings. Lectures are scheduled for Saturday morning and afternoon. Chapter meetings will be held on Sunday morning.

The Friday evening lectures will feature Mark M. Holeman, landscape designer from Indianapolis, Ind., on Plant Photography; and Miss Joan S. Knapp, photographer and slide librarian at Planting Fields Arboretum, Oyster Bay, Long Island, N.Y.

Saturday sessions, beginning at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m., will feature Gordon E. Jones, director of Planting Fields Arboretum; Fred C. Gallo, director of horticulture at Callaway Gardens, Pine Mountain, Ga.; P.H. Brydon, editor of the American Rhododendron Society's Quarterly Bulletin and recently retired director of the Strybing Arboretum in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park; Alfred Fordham, propagator, Arnold Arboretum; Dr. Gustave Mehlquist, University of Connecticut; and

Dr. Robert Ticknor, Oregon State University.

The Saturday evening speaker will be Dr. Charles E. Hays, chairman of the Department of Horticulture and Forestry, Rutgers University. Dr. Hays will discuss "Propagation—Past, Present, and Future."

A special feature of the Eastern Regional Meeting will be the Second Annual Rhododendron Show to be held in the Auditorium of the Administration Building of the Norfolk Botanical Gardens. The Show is open to the public Saturday, May 9, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday, May 10, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Information regarding the Eastern Regional Meeting may be obtained from the Norfolk Botanical Garden.

Four to go to Roanoke

Four Virginia Beach garden clubbers will attend the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs convention in Roanoke on May 11-13.

They are Mrs. A. H. Culpepper, Mrs. R. L. Munn, Mrs. C. H. Reed and Mrs. M. H. Todd Jr.

Mother-daughter luncheon set

Xi Beta Lambda of Beta Sigma Phi will have a mother-daughter luncheon Saturday, May 9 at the F.O.P. Club. Entertainment will be the Baker Dozens.

A fun thing to do with Florida sweet corn: Dip in batter and fry until golden brown; serve on sticks as you would a popsicle.

It's corn-on-the-cob time

There is no doubt that Florida is this country's No. 1 grower of sweet corn. It would require a train of refrigerator cars almost nine miles long—12,178 cars -- to haul the 615,720,000 ears of Florida sweet corn sent to produce counters of more than 40 U.S. cities annually. That was last year's crop and, since the demand for this all-American treat keeps growing, this year's yield will probably top that season.

And surprising as it may seem, Florida's new season is just beginning. The Sunshine State ships most of its corn from fall through spring—a winter present to corn lovers.

Any corn-on-the-cob eater will tell you there's nothing so blissful as settling down at the dinner table before a platter of steaming hot sweet corn. Who needs another thing? (Although sweet corn teams deliciously with beef, pork, lamb, veal, chicken, seafood and fish.)

Florida's corn growers do elaborate things to get sweet corn to us at its freshest. This takes a lot of know-how and masses of chipped ice. At home it's important to keep this corn just as cold, by putting it in the refrigerator as soon as purchased; heat is what all-too-quickly turns corn sugar to starch.

Sweet corn shouldn't be overcooked. Boil it five or never more than ten minutes, just enough to "set" the milk. Or it can be baked, cook-out style. Pull back the leaves just far enough to remove the silks. Then, smooth them back and tie in place. Soak in cold water for 15 minutes. Allow about 15 minutes to bake in a moderate oven. And if you're in the mood for something sweet, do try these delicious sweet corn recipes.

BATTER CORN "POPSICLE"

1/2 cup flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt

1/16 tsp. ground black pepper
1/2 cup milk
1 egg, separated
1 tsp. salad oil
12 ears fresh Florida corn
Flour for dusting
Fat for frying

Sift flour with baking powder, sugar, salt and black pepper. Thoroughly combine milk with egg yolk and oil. Add to flour mixture; blend well. Let batter stand at room temperature for 20 minutes. Meanwhile, husk corn; cut in half. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Dust corn with flour; shake off excess. Dip corn into batter. Fry deep fat heated to 350 F. for 3 to 5 minutes or until nicely browned. Serve on sticks as a "popsicle." Yield: 6 portions.

CORN AND MEAT STUFFED PEPPERS

4 ears fresh Florida corn
6 large green peppers
1 tbsp. salad oil
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 clove finely minced garlic

1 lb. ground lean beef
1 egg, lightly beaten
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
3 tsp. chili powder, divided
1-1/4 tsp. salt
2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce

Cut corn kernels from cobs (makes about 2 cups); set aside. Cut thin slice from stem end of each pepper; remove seeds. Parboil peppers in boiling salted water 5 minutes. Drain peppers; set aside. In a large skillet heat oil. Add onion and garlic; saute 4 minutes. Add meat and saute until browned. Remove from heat; cool slightly. Stir in reserved corn, egg, bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons of the chili powder and salt; mix well. Spoon mixture into peppers. Arrange in baking dish. Mix remaining 1 teaspoon chili powder with tomato sauce. Pour sauce over and around peppers. Bake, covered, in preheated moderate oven (350 F.) for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake 15 minutes longer. Yield: 6 portions.

Rhododendron show planned

The Tidewater Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society will hold its Second Annual Rhododendron Show at the Auditorium of the Administration Building of the Norfolk Botanical Gardens beginning Saturday, May 9, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday, May 10, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Show will display Rhododendron and Azalea cut trusses from the Tidewater Area and other parts of the East. The Show is open to the Public. No admission will be charged.

Dr. David G. Fluharty of Newport News and Jack McEl Baird of Suffolk are co-chairmen of the Show. B. L. Bonney and Milton Larsen of Norfolk are in charge of the stage design and display. Mrs. Malcolm Todd, Jr., of Virginia Beach is in charge of flower arrangement.

dendron Society being held at the Lake Wright Motel.

Neighborhood clean up scheduled

Saturday, May 9 will be clean up day in the Kings Grant-Little Neck area.

It will be done through the combined efforts of the Kings Grant Garden Club, May Farm Garden Club, Kingston Garden Club, Kings Grant Community League, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and individuals. Volunteers who wish to help and do not belong to any of these groups will meet at Kings Grant School at 2 p.m. for assignment.

There will be adult supervision of the children involved. Mrs. W. A. Perkins, president of Kingston Garden Club, has coordinated clean up efforts.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Herman F. Muller, husband of the former Miss Virginia L. Bath of 73rd Street, is now serving at Naval Air Reserve, Jacksonville, Fla.

Nuclear Conductor

That's Mack Wilson's job: conducting visitors through the Vepco Nuclear Information Center at Surry. There, he uses animated displays, movies and other aids to tell the intricate story of the atom in terms even children can understand. With a working model of a nuclear power station, he shows why this is such a safe, clean, economical way to produce electricity.

From the Center's observation deck, he can point to the real thing taking shape just a few hundred feet away. The $327 million Surry Power Station, which will begin operation in 1971, is another of Vepco's giant steps into tomorrow.

Come see it all. It's open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays, just off Route 10 in Surry County. Mack Wilson will help you understand the mighty atom, and how the energy it creates will bring you a brighter tomorrow.

Vepco is people...helping people

The Most Famous Basket in the World

Officers of Linkhorn Park Garden Club were installed Friday at a luncheon meeting at the Thunderbird. Shown are Mrs. Thomas Rose, first vice president; Mrs. J. James Davis, president; and Mrs. Richard Tayloe, second vice president. Other officers are Mrs. J. Douglas Wilson, recording secretary; Mrs. A.B. Midgett, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Phyllis Sever, treasurer.

Marion Crosby

Marion Crosby Garden Club will plant a dogwood tree in the first picnic area in Dismal Swamp in honor of Mrs. Quintin Shelpe, president of the club, who was the first Landscape Design Critic in the Tidewater District of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs.

The club had its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Malcolm H. Todd, Jr. in Chesapeake Colony. Cohostesses were Mrs. E. L. Jordan, Mrs. C. L. Jones and Mrs. M. E. Steffen. Following lunch club members toured Mrs. Todd's garden.

The club is making plans for a bazaar-type sale, and members will have several workshops this summer to make articles for the sale. In addition the club voted to send a contribution to the Blue Star Memorial Highway fund.

Princess Anne Hills

The Princess Anne Hills Garden Club got off to an early start at 8 a.m. for a bus tour of the Eastern Shore during Garden Week in Virginia.

Among the places visited was Cokesbury, a home built in 1800 on the banks of Oanock Creek. Garden club members especially enjoyed seeing an old cork tree which is one of the few known specimens in the United States. Members also toured a restored schoolhouse in the yard of Cokesbury where local children were taught during the Civil War.

May Farm Garden Club

May Farm Garden Club of Kingston is inviting husbands to the dinner for the installation of officers this month.

The date is May 16 at 7 p.m., and the dinner will be at Shore Drive Inn. To be installed are Mrs. H. L. Thompson, president; Mrs. Roland W. Purnell, first vice president; Mrs. J. A. Stannell, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Hayes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William E. Stahl, recording secretary; and Mrs. S.D. Judge, treasurer. They will be installed by Mrs. John C. Brewington, outgoing president.

Thoroughgood

The April meeting of the Thoroughgood Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. L. R. Humphrey on Country Club Circle with Mrs. W. H. Harrison and Mrs. Richard G. Culpepper as hostesses for the meeting as the Thoroughgood Garden Club celebrated its 13th anniversary. Many of the charter members and officers were present to help celebrate this club birthday.

Mrs. R. M. Keever gave a very humorous program as Mrs. Henry Smith from Shenandoah. Her subjects were "Garden Clubbing" and "Diversified Uses of Contemporary Containers."

The membership voted to send letters to Ross Perot endorsing his efforts to assist "Prisoners of War."

Mrs. W. H. Harrison and Mrs. M. F. McAfee were elected delegates to the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs Convention on May 12 and 13 at the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond.

Artistic design ribbon winners were Mrs. Taylor Gray, Mrs. M. W. Thorpe, Mrs. A. R. Brunelli, Mrs. L. R. Humphrey, Mrs. A. J. Cartwright, Mrs. R. M. Reed, Mrs. F. A. Manning and Mrs. C.E. Treake. Horticulture specimen winners in addition to those listed above were Mrs. S. L. Dent and Mrs. L. W. Tilt.

Kings Forest

Kings Forest Garden Club was just organized in March and members have already completed their first project. They have landscaped the markers recently installed by the Kings Forest Civic League at the entrance to the area.

Mrs. Arthur H. Gallagher, president of the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs, Inc., will install the club's officers on May 19 at the home of Mrs. Allen J. Geel at 684 Coral Key. Officers are Mrs. William T. Lunsford, president; Mrs. H. L. Via, first vice president; Mrs. John Ready, second vice president; Mrs. Geel, secretary; Mrs. Grant Hagquist, treasurer.

Cost of the dinner will be $5.00 per couple.

STUDENT ART AT PEMBROKE

The Virginia Beach Public Schools City-Wide Art Exhibit will be held at Pembroke Mall Monday, May 11, through Monday, May 18. Over one thousand pieces of student created art will be on exhibit. The art collection represents selected work from thirty-six elementary schools and ten secondary schools.

The art exhibit will include two and three dimensional work. There will be paintings, drawings, baking, printing, weaving, serigraphs, macrame, ceramics, and sculpture.

7th Graders Visit

By Ronald Todd

Cox High School Monday 400 seventh graders from area elementary schools came to Cox to get a preliminary orientation of high school life for next year. The students were divided up into twenty groups, with one Cox student each, and given a tour of the school and a discussion of what to expect next year.

The Cox class of 1973 is presenting the Freshman Fair this Saturday in the Cox courtyard. Admission is 50¢. The all day event will include games and prizes, with clubs at Cox providing booths. Everyone is invited to attend.

The senior class is finishing preparations for the Prom, to be held next Friday night at Commodore Country Club. The theme is "The Days of Wine and Roses." The band will be the Originals.

Work is still continuing on the spring musical, The Man of La Mancha, which will be presented on May 21, 22, and 23 in the school auditorium at 8:00. Tickets are $1.50 in advance and may be bought in the Cox student activities office the week after next.

Prom Planned

The Senior Prom will be held tomorrow night at the Commodore Country Club. Music will be by Bob Marshall and the Crystals.

The Key Club recently held elections. Barry Bradberry

College Gains Local Players

Three Virginia Beach high school football seniors have indicated their intention to enroll at Randolph-Macon College in September, coach Ted Keller announced today.

Larry Reesman, an end for Floyd Kellam High School, Tom Hazelbaker, a lineman for Bay-side High School, and Eddie Stovall, an end for First Colonial High School, will become members of the defending East Coast Small College Championship team in the fall.

Reesman, a 6'3", 198-pound end, was a top pass receiver for Kellam in 1969. Hazelbaker was captain of the Bay-side eleven in his senior year and was a three-year football letterman.

Stovall won All-District and honorable mention All-Tide-water honors. He caught 18 passes in his senior year and grabbed off two interceptions as a cornerback.

was elected president; Edmund Davis, vice-president; Tom Leaky, treasurer; and John Sackon, secretary.

The Kellam Band was in the Azalea Festival Parade. Director Tom Swanson announced that the Lancer Band will be the host band to the Virginia Beach Band Festival this June.

Grants Given

Fourteen students of Virginia Wesleyan College have received Educational Opportunity Grants, according to Congressman William Whitehurst.

The grants, totaling $7,800, were awarded students of exceptional financial needs through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Junior Civitans

Hold Convention

An address by a congressman and the crowning of a queen will highlight the annual convention of the Chesapeake District of Junior Civitan Clubs to be held Friday through Sunday at the Cavalier Hotel.

Congressman William Whitehurst will address the group at the banquet Saturday night and Miss Chesapeake District Junior Civitan will be crowned at the Governor's Ball immediately afterward.

The catchless savings account.

IF YOU HAVE TO WITHDRAW OR DEPOSIT AT CERTAIN TIMES OF THE MONTH TO KEEP FROM LOSING VALUABLE INTEREST, THEN YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT HAS A "CATCH!"

19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30

This is how F&M's Catchless Savings Account works: Your money begins earning maximum 4½% interest the day you deposit it. And your money earns maximum interest until the day you withdraw it. You never have to worry about losing one cent of interest ...no matter when you withdraw or deposit.

And speaking of interest, F&M has a new way of computing the yield on your savings. This is important because it means your savings earn the highest return you can get at any bank. Anywhere!

At F&M, we figured a savings account shouldn't have any "catches." Because it's tough enough to find money to save in the first place.

If you feel the same way, you should open a Catchless Savings Account of your own. It's as easy as dialing this number: 857-0631. Or you can drop by your nearest F&M office. Where you'll deal with friendly people who want your business.

But want to deserve it, too.

WATER
A baywatch. Searching for an overdue boat can be as frustrating as looking for that proverbial needle. Sometimes it can be even more so, since the boat for which we're searching doesn't stay in one place, and those who want to find it have no idea at which one of a dozen places it might be.

The Coast Guard Rescue Coordination Center in Portsmouth handled over three hundred Search and Rescue cases involving "overdue" boats last year. Ninety percent of those cases involved pleasure craft, not a few of them small boats. The reasons for their being "overdue" included such things as being broken down, lost, out of fuel, and others. But in over two-thirds of the cases there was nothing wrong with the boat or the equipment. There was no emergency. The persons who were in the boats were in no danger. They knew exactly where they were!

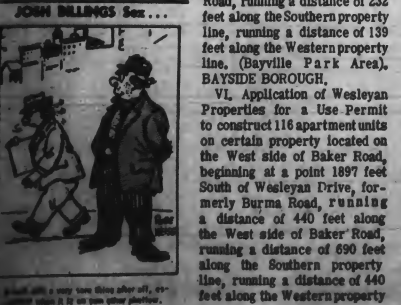

Why overdue, then? They were reported as being "overdue" by some concerned relative, neighbor, or loved one who didn't know where they were and who became worried when they didn't appear at the appointed time. If in fact there was an appointed time, and even though almost every one of them were safe, they didn't tell anyone where they were. They might have said that they would be at a certain place a certain time - but they weren't there. It's not illogical, then, to presume that something untoward had happened. Especially on the water!

CAUSE FOR CONCERN

Every "overdue" case is different - yet alike. Different in that the circumstances surrounding the cases are different. Alike, wind, weather, etc. But alike in that each case was initiated in the same way. Some distraught relative, friend, or loved one notified the Coast Guard - sometimes tearfully - that the boat is overdue. The caller doesn't have any idea where the boat may be nor what its operator intended to do. It almost always happens like that. Location of the "overdue" may take only a short time and a communication check with the various marinas. But it could, and often does, take many hours, many boats, and sometimes planes and helicopters. The amount of time and money spent searching for boatsmen IN NO DISTRESS is staggering. Even so, that is not the real cause for concern; after all, that is a part of the responsibility of the service.

The real cause for concern - one which every boatman should always keep uppermost in mind - is the peace of mind of those relatives and loved ones who are worried about the "overdue". This is another cost which cannot be counted. Just think of how many hours of anxiety were suffered by those waiting on the beach. Almost every one of the "overdues" are located with the persons on board in perfectly satisfactory condition. Just think how much suffering could have been eliminated if a few simple things had been done. And just think how many of those "overdues" could have resulted in much greater distress. It is extremely fortunate that almost all of them had a happy ending. DON'T change your plans after you leave - UNLESS you also advise someone of your changes. Your boat plan could be rendered meaningless. Do be sure to advise the necessary people when you are safe at some destination. Completion of your FLOAT PLAN in all respects will contribute to a safer boating season. DO IT! DID YOU KNOW?

...that if you're a trailer boat and you want to launch it without getting your rear wheels in the water - the simplest way is to have a temporary hitch on your front bumper and handle it from the front. Make safe boating your "cruise-aid". For a sample

Lightships Are Memorialized Aboard Museum

A memorial ceremony was held Friday on board the former U.S. Coast Guard Lightship Portsmouth in celebration of the third anniversary of the Coast Guard Museum at the London Slip on the Southern Branch of the Elizabeth River in downtown Portsmouth.

The ceremony also marked the dedication of a new collection of maritime artifacts being added to the museum for its initial display to the public, as well as the installation of a taped commentary explaining the significance of the lightship during its use as a navigational aid on waters along the Eastern Seaboard.

This commentary, which contains the voice of Virginia Beach Sun staff reporter Les Lehigh, is fed throughout the lightship over a public address system. Those touring the lightship are informed by means of the tape of the function of the various equipment on board and of the various methods through which the lightship served mariners. The artifacts contained in the museum include various types of U.S. Coast Guard equipment including maps, charts, photographs, documents, radio and navigational instruments and early uniforms.

Rear Adm. Edward C. Allen, Jr., Commandant Fifth U.S. Coast Guard District, in speaking for the ceremony, pointed to the role the Lightship Museum will play as a tourist attraction for the area.

Allen also described the importance of lightships, and the Portsmouth Lightship in particular, from the Civil War period to modern times. He pointed out that the first U.S. lightship was placed in service off Craney Island in 1820, and that the lightship service reached its peak in 1858 when 48 such vessels were in service. Allen also cited various reasons for the gradual replacement of lightships with offshore Navigational Light Towers, such as the Chesapeake Light Station off the Virginia Beach coast, and large navigational buoys beginning in 1907.

The Portsmouth Lightship has special significance to Virginia

Beach, since a great many years of her service were in duty off Cape Henry.

The lightship was placed in service in 1916 at the Smith Island Shoals off Cape Henry where it remained for eight years. The vessel was later stationed at various points along the Eastern Seaboard until it was retired in 1964. The lightship was manned by a crew of 11 men who rotated their tours of duty through a system of four weeks on board the vessel and two weeks on shore and provided for two thirds of the crew to remain on board at all times. The lightship acted as a navigational aid to mariners through broadcasting radio signals, the use of a 3000 candlepower light casting a rotating beam over the waters, and a fog horn during periods when weather restricted visibility.

The public is invited to tour the museum between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. The Museum is closed on Monday's.

Jane Waller Is Speaker

Virginia Beach Ecumenical Association meets Monday May 11, 7:30 p.m., at Thalia United Methodist Church.

Miss Jane Waller, a sophomore at Virginia Wesleyan College, will speak on experiences at Geneva, Switzerland where she recently attended the third annual meeting of the continuing Conference on World Religions. Jane is a Quaker and feels strongly about the role that religion must play in the attainment of world peace.

Youth of all churches are invited to attend.

Beginning its work in the Rudee Inlet channel is the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission's ten-inch dredge. The pump, moved into the inlet Monday evening, will have completed its task by the end of the

Even City
Requires Bank Loan

A surprise was added to City Attorney Harry Marshall's City Council agenda Monday which authorized the city to borrow $2.5 million on short-term loans for school bonds and general improvements.

The resolution stipulates that the money will be borrowed from Virginia National Bank, reportedly at 5 1/4 per cent interest.

A 30-day loan for $2 million will be borrowed in "anticipation of taxes," Marshall told council.

The school loan of $1.5 million will be on longer terms. The city expects to repay that loan in six months from the anticipated sale of bonds.

The largest portion of the general funds will be used for street and highway improvements. Projects will include: Route #225, $125,000; Rosemont Road, $405,000; South Lynnhaven Road, $445,000; Birdneck Road, $235,000; Great Neck Road, $145,000; additional repairs to routes 60 and 190, $100,000; and Oceana Area Headquarters, $45,000.

The remaining $500,000 in this loan will cover such projects as the municipal golf course, $270,000; Bayside Health Building, $45,000; third floor of the Administration Building, $130,000; heating plant equipment, $15,000; and sites for recreational purposes, $40,000.

Closing Favored

The Sun Survey readers certainly "squared off" on last week's question: "Do you think the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge beach, south of Sandbridge, should be closed to vehicular traffic?"

The response was 61.5 per cent in favor of the closing.

There are, in fact, three letters to the editor in today's edition of the Sun in favor of this action.

The Sun Survey now poses a question concerning pari-

From Record Setting Missions

Attack Squadron VA-85 returned to its home base at Oceana NAS shortly after midnight last Friday morning after an absence of 11 months, which included an eight month deployment to Southeast Asia. This deployment not only consisted of operations off the coast of Vietnam but off the coast of Korea as well, during which the squadron earned the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal. The Squadron's 11 month attachment to the USS Constellation was marked by a number of calls at foreign ports. Men of the Squadron spent last Christmas day in Olanogap, in the Philippines, where they staged a Christmas party complete with gifts for 250 orphans.

VA-85, participating in its fourth consecutive combat cruise to Southeast Asia, conducted in excess of 1,630 combat missions against the enemy and delivered 12,000,000 pounds of ordnance. The squadron has the distinction of having dropped more ordnance on an enemy than any other squadron in Naval history.

However, more important to the squadron and its families is the fact that Attack Squadron Eighty-Five, upon returning to Oceana, returns with all aircraft and all aircrews.

Hearing
To Settle Closure

A public hearing concerning the closing of the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge to vehicular traffic will be held at the Civic Center Monday at 8 p.m., according to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife regional offices in Atlanta.

The hearing, called by First District Rep. Thomas N. Downing, follows two weeks after refuge manager Robert Gilmore announced that because motorists were destroying sand dunes in the refuge, traffic would have to be limited to landowners south of the refuge beach.

Gilmore said the dunes, which protect the refuge from the ocean, are being destroyed by motorists who ignore no-trespassing signs.

He added that the volume of traffic on the beach constitutes a hazard to picnickers and bathers. Last year, more than 70 cars per hour used the beach during the summer.

The beach provides access to Nags Head, N.C. and its use has been increasing as dune-buggies become a popular form of recreation in the area.

All interested persons, including federal, state, county, municipal agencies, local interests and individual citizens are invited to be present at the above time and place.

Oral statements will be heard but for accuracy of the record all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing. Statements may either be mailed to the regional director, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Post Office Seventh Building, Atlanta, Ga. 30333, or handed to the regional officer at the hearing.

The Bureau encourages written expression concerning the subject under discussion.

Gilmore said that the results of the hearing would not be known for several weeks following the hearing, and that a moratorium might be declared until the question is resolved.

'It's Just Too Much' Student
Says of Kent State Shootings

By JAMES TURNER

While college students across the nation were memorializing the tragedy that struck Kent State University last week by closing schools and boycotting classes, many of that school's students came to Virginia Beach to forget.

"I had thought about going to Washington Saturday for the anti-war rally, but I don't think I could stand to see the helicopters and troops and guns and tear gas again," said one of the group.

"I just don't want to remember," he said. "I was standing right next to one of those killed and I don't want to remember."

Steve Phillips, a 20-year-old junior from Youngstown, Ohio, equally as frustrated, went to high school with Sandy Scheuer, 20. "I thought maybe they knew who they'd shot, but when I heard that Sandy had been killed, I knew they were wrong."

Phillips said he was walking toward the campus when he heard the gunshots. As he walked around the corner of Taylor Hall, site of the slayings, he said he saw the blood on the ground and the shattered windshields of the cars.

"Then I realized what had happened. I was so shocked, I didn't know what to do," he said.

Along with many others, Phillips said he walked to the Commons and listened to two graduate students talk about the event and tell the group they had better leave. "That night, I went to my girlfriend's dorm and we talked about it. The next day I left. I couldn't see staying around. I was spooked with all of those machine guns."

The National Guard may have been right to have been on the campus, he said. But he doesn't think the Guard was correct in firing into the crowd of students.

"Sandy was on her way to a class when she was shot. It looks like they just started shooting into the crowd."

While the facts surrounding the tragedy are still not clear and it's doubtful that they will ever be fully understood, but Phillips said he understood the students on the Commons behind Taylor Hall had been throwing rocks and tear gas canisters back at the troops.

Melissa Morgan, 18, confirms the fact that the students were throwing projectiles back at the guards. She said she was on the sundeck of Lake Hall with some friends watching the activity on the Commons, and saw students advancing on the troops. "The students would move up, and then the guard would advance; the students would move back and the guard would go back," she said.

When the guards went back around the corner of Taylor Hall, she said she heard the shots. "I didn't know what had happened."

Now that Miss Morgan is aware of what took place, she still doesn't blame the guard. "They were just standing around and it happened. I think one fired and the rest joined in," she said.

"They shouldn't be punished," she added.

Shame was about the only feeling Miss Morgan said she could describe. "My parents called me the night before and said that it was just terrible that we were giving them so much trouble. Of course, my parents are fairly conservative. "Then I called them after it happened. They were pretty upset. They didn't really say much about it. They just want me to leave Kent. I won't," she said.

Miss Morgan said the Weathermen, a militant branch of the Students for a Democratic Society, probably started the activity, but added that it was also the university's fault. "They teach us idealistically and then tell us to go out and live in a world of reality."

"It's just too much," said Larry Carter is not so sure the Weathermen started the battle that led to the four deaths and ten wounding.

"I was in one of the bars on Lake Street Friday night when a motorcycle gang from Youngstown came riding up," he said.

"They started a fire in one end of the street and then started breaking out windows of the establishment stores," Carter said. The "establishment" stores were the Ohio Edison Power Company building, the Revco drug store, and the Portage National Bank.

When the other students in the bars that line Lake Street heard all the activity, they poured out of the bars and into the street. "Some of them joined in with the window-breaking; it's almost natural today for that to happen."

"But when I saw what was going on, I didn't care for the idea and didn't want to be part of it. I left," the 21-year-old sophomore said.

He said the police moved in with riot sticks and helmets and started clearing the street.

But while it may have been an outside group that started the activity, the rioting and burning were soon carried out by the students with little or no assistance, he said.

Carter said he wasn't near the commons when the students were killed. "But when I heard about it, I felt real hollow. The same way as when President Kennedy was shot."

"What bothers me is that they robbed somebody of life. All they wanted to do on the Commons was ring the Freedom Bell."

Of the students visiting Virginia Beach, none seemed to have any desire to disrupt the educational process, but almost all expressed an intense desire to see American troops leave Vietnam and halt the new push into Cambodia.

"That's what started it all. When the speech came out that troops were going into Cambodia, that was the trigger," Miss Morgan said. "Sure, they're taking away our education. But now I'm in no hurry. I've got nothing to lose," Phillips said.

TOWNHOUSES
PLAGUE CITY

"Council is in the unenviable position of being caught between the builder, the civic leagues, the church and the college and I am not unsympathetic to any of them," Vice Mayor Robert Cromwell said at council meeting Monday before making a decision on a townhouse project across the street from Virginia Wesleyan College.

The decision? To study the possibility of setting up a historical zone around the college, such as that around the City Hall complex, to retain the beauty of the college area.

Council agreed to send the matter back to the Planning Commission, which had brought E. V. Williams Company and Associates' change of zoning request before council with a recommendation of approval, for study of a "historical bumper zone."

Cromwell requested Tim Barrow, acting planning director, to have the study ready in 60 to 90 days.

E. V. Williams' application for a change of zoning from residence suburban to multiple family residence and general commercial had been deferred by council at its April 13 meeting. This particular application had become considerably controversial after it was opposed last month by attorney Robert Boyd, representing the college's Board of Trustees. The townhouses had been opposed by an area civic league but it was the first time the college had made its opposition known.

Boyd was back at Monday's meeting, as was a representative of the civic league. Their opposition was offset this time, however, by the appearance of attorney Hugh Meredith who spoke on behalf of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia. The Diocese, he said, had purchased adjoining property for a church with the understanding the townhouses would be built.

"These townhouses will attract people, and we want to go where the people are," he said.

While council, in essence, delayed firm action on this particular project, it denied action for Whitecliff Corporation to construct 216 townhouses on Little Neck Road.

The denial, recommended by the Planning Commission, was based on the traffic situation

Surfers Organize for Strength

Surfing in Virginia Beach was thrown into a ring Sunday as about 3,000 young people gathered at the Steel Pier for a rock concert and the formation of the Virginia Surfing Association.

Comprised of surf board dealers, members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and interested surfers, the VSA came into existence to "give surfing a fair shake," said Jack Jennings, chairman of the group.

Surfing hasn't been mistreated too badly in the past, but what the VSA is afraid of is its future, Jennings said.

"We're afraid that the hours will become more restrictive and that the present surfing area at the Pier will be taken as the beachfront expands," he said.

Presently, surfers are restricted from surfing along the beach from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. except within a 300-yard area to the north of the Steel Pier and at a special surfing area at the Little Island Station at Sandbridge.

Jennings said the VSA would like to see Camp Pendleton put to better use. "There are acres of ocean front that are used only three weeks out of the year, and I don't see why we can't use it the rest of the time," he said.

These kids have left. They wonder why they have an increasing drug problem," he said. "It's a paradox."

"This is the only thing that's occupying their minds and they enjoy it. It's not baseball anymore, it's surfing," Jennings said.

Jennings said the VSA is planning several projects to make the city aware of their aims, but emphasized that the VSA is going to act only in a responsible and intelligent manner.

Trash cans will be placed along the entire beach front within the next week, and the VSA will make an attempt to seed the dunes at Back Bay with sea oats, Jennings said.

But even though the VSA is interested in conserving the Back Bay area, it will oppose the closing of the Back Bay refuge beach to traffic.

Jennings said the closing of the beach by the Department of Interior seems to be an extreme measure. "I think there should be some attempt made to get more money so they won't have to close it but be able to patrol it and see that the rules aren't violated."

Jennings said that the VSA is asking its members and parents of members under 21 to vote only for City Council candidates that will support surfing and its expansion. "We intend to make

Anti-pollution monuments rise rapidly from the sand.

Fort Story To Open Doors Sat.

Fort Story will host an open house on May 16 when the nation celebrates the 20th anniversary of Armed Forces Day. Celebrated on the third Saturday of each May, Armed Forces Day serves as a report to the nation of the unity and common purpose of the Armed Forces in the fulfillment of our national security.

Fort Story Commander, Colonel Daniel K. Byrne, has invited the public to join the post personnel in the festivities of the day and to observe the demonstrations and displays to be featured throughout the installation.

Sky-diving exhibitions, underwater diving demonstrations, inspection of a field kitchen, displays of weapons and military equipment, rides over sand dunes in amphibious vehicles, and jeep rides and cartoons for the children will fill the action-packed day.

The numerous military units actively engaged at Fort Story will combine their efforts to insure a memorable Open House, Major Robert P. Connor is Chairman of the day's activities. Several of the features follow:

The 70th Transportation Battalion will demonstrate the capability of the LARC's, amphibious vehicles that traverse land and sea with no hesitation. Personnel of the 70th will also conduct the jeep rides for the public.

The Navy's Explosive Ordnance Disposal Group will have scuba divers demonstrate their techniques. A portable diving tank will be used to allow viewing by the public.

A new attraction will be at this year's Open House. Patrolmen of the Virginia Beach Police Department will display patrol dogs and demonstrate the techniques used in training the dogs.

The Navy's Seal and Underwater Demolition teams will perform free-fall parachute jumps twice during the day at 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

The Amphibious Branch of the Army's Transportation School and Army Transportation units will display methods of training and innovations in Army equipment.

Open House commences at 9:00 a.m. with activities continuing until 4:00 p.m. With the day's theme "Forces for Freedom," Fort Story opens the post so the public may see the part Fort Story plays on the nation's defense team.

Physicist To Lecture At A.R.E.

A week's conference on the theme, "The Spiritual Path will be held at the Association for Research and Enlightenment, 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue, May 17-23.

Featured prominently throughout the week will be Raynor Johnson, Ph.D., from Australia, who will lecture on Monday, May 18th on "The Situation of Modern Man," again on Friday, May 22nd on "The Importance and Unimportance of Life," and again on Monday, May 25th on "Toward a Philosophy of Life." These lectures will be at 8 p.m. and are open to the public.

Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Oxford and London Universities, was a lecturer in physics in Belfast and in King's College, London. He was Master of Queen's College, University of Melbourne in Australia for 30 years. He is the author of two books in the field of physics and of a number of books in the field of parapsychology. He is on a lecturing tour of this country for the A. R. E., scheduled for 30 lectures in all.

A talk on "The Secret Place of the Most High" will be given by Hugh Lynn Cayce, managing director of the A. R. E., on Tuesday, May 19th at 8 p.m. On Thursday, May 21st at the same hour, Miss Violet Shelby will talk on "Symbols of the Way." A question and answer period will follow all lectures. Further information may be obtained by calling the Association.

Training Scheduled

General Hospital of Virginia Beach will be the site of a training course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation on Saturday, May 23, 1970, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., announced Marvin R. Hines, of Virginia Beach, CPR Project Director for the Virginia Heart Association.

The course will be held in the training auditorium, north wing, and is being offered to teams from hospitals located in the area covered by the Tidewater Hospitals Council of Virginia Hospital Association.

Canadians Visit Little Creek

The students and staff of the Canadian Land Forces Command and Staff College, headed by Brig. Gen. D.S. MacLennan, Commandant of the College, visited Landing Force Training Command May 1 to gain additional knowledge of amphibious operations.

The 105 students/staff, with the rank of Majors and Captains, attended a series of lectures, displays and tours, as they started an 11-day tour of East Coast Military installations.

The Canadians were welcomed to LFTCLANT by its Commanding Officer, Col. W. H. Souder, Jr., upon their arrival early in the morning.

The morning was filled with lectures and demonstrations on various landing techniques used by the Navy/Marine Corps team.

First on the agenda in the afternoon was a visit to Little Creek Cove where Beach Master Unit-TWO and Amphibious

Construction Battalion-TWO, presented a joint display of the equipment used by their units and the part they play in a successful amphibious landing. After a brief lecture the students were given an opportunity to inspect each piece of equipment and talk to the attending sailors. This proved to be a fruitful experience to all.

They then boarded buses and departed for the Naval Station to tour the USS LA SALLE. The LA SALLE, the third Amphibious Transport Dock (LPD-3) to be built, is in principle a combination of three older type amphibious ships, the LSD (Landing Ship Dock); APA (Attack Transport); and the AKA (Attack Cargo Ship).

The members of the Canadian Armed Forces, after being welcomed aboard by Capt. Maynard, Commanding Officer of the ship, were divided into groups and were given complete tours of the new ship.

Following the visit to the USS LA SALLE the group was transported to Naval Air Station, Norfolk, where they departed the Tidewater area for their next destination.

Retired Officers To Meet Friday

The Hampton Roads Retired Officers Association will hold a monthly dinner meeting at the Ft. Story Officers Club Friday. Social hour will begin at 7 p.m. dinner at 8 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Congressman Thomas N. Downing, 1st Virginia Congressional District.

Retired officers of all the uniformed services--and their ladies--are invited to attend.

PUBLIC AUCTION AUTOMOBILES & TRUCKS USED AND SURPLUS

The City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, will receive bids at public auction for 48 units used automobiles and trucks of various years of manufacture and makes on the grounds of City Garage located on Lee Roy Drive off Seaboard Avenue near Princess Anne Court House at 10:00 A.M. for automobiles Tuesday May 26, 1970 and trucks 10:00 A.M. Wednesday May 27, 1970. Interested persons may view the units during normal business hours Monday through Friday on the grounds of City Garage and, at the same time, will be given a detailed listing as to registered identification for the units, which listing is made a part of this advertisement by this reference. The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Successful bidders must be prepared to pay for each unit at the closing of each sale to receive title transfer. Employees of the City of Virginia Beach and members of their immediate families are not eligible to bid.

Danny Thomas

THE MAN OUTSHINES HIS TV PERSONALITY

"These kids have a right to ask for answers, but the way they are going about it is dead wrong," said the famous entertainer Danny Thomas.

In an informal meeting with press representatives, Thomas was openly concerned about the course young people are taking in making themselves heard. But it was apparent he sympathized with their cause.

"I am not against them," he stated emphatically, "I am for them, but I am against those who are egging them on."

"I am for many of the things these kids are for, but I am not for violence and destruction. Man is a sheep and they are being led on by outside forces," he said.

Thomas was here for several performances in the Tidewater area to benefit the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, including a large dance Friday night at the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

Danny Thomas in person is the same Danny Thomas who has become a "member of the family" via the television screen. Except in person he is more vital, more aware, a man rather than a personality.

There is nothing shallow or pretentious about the man. Always there is the influence of the comedian but his quips merely add humor to the seriousness he exudes.

He carries on a constant conversation, never at a loss for words, but what he says has merit, he makes you want to listen, whether he's discussing his diet (dinner only during the week and half-blast on the weekends) or religion (we need organized religion).

The fact that Danny Thomas spends so much of his time raising funds to support the hospital for leukemia victims is evidence of the man's concern for fellowman. He is dedicated to the cause, to the caring of victims of the disease and researching for a cure. And his enthusiasm is contagious. Even to the fairly blasé representatives of the press.

It isn't easy being a performer, and a humanitarian. Thomas laughingly discussed his grueling schedule. "You have a full day of performances and after you wrap up the last one at night everybody wants to sit around your hotel room and help you relax. You don't need help...all you want to do is go to sleep!"

In personal appearance, Thomas is just as he appears sincerely.

As one man observed: "He's the kind of man I'd like to sit down and talk, really talk, with."

Animals Blessed

Holy cats!...and dogs, and parakeets, turtles, rabbits and little white mice.

That was literally the scene Sunday at the Blessing of the Animals at the Eastern Shore Chapel on Laskin Road.

Nearly 125 parishioners and children brought their pets to the service which concluded the observance of "Be Kind To Animals Week."

Most of the animals had their paws laid in adjusting to the reverent atmosphere in the church. Many of them covered beside their masters and sniffed nervously as Reverend R. Sidney Saunders, Rector, and Reverend Ben R. Duffey, Curate, conducted the ceremonies.

The first chords of the organ provoked even more starts and by the time the pets were actually due to be blessed they seemed not quite sure what to expect.

One by one, parishioners led their pets to the altar rail. A St. Bernard and another matched pair of collies offered some doubts as to who was leading whom. One dalmation, striking a solemn profile in the pews, acted like he attended regularly.

"Bless this pet and your love for him," the clergymen said slowly and deliberately offered some doubts as to who was leading whom. One dalmation, striking a solemn profile in the pews, acted like he attended regularly.

Some of the pets never did shake their fears--of the formality or the presence of their bigger and stronger counterparts--until they were actually running free again on the green grass outside the church.

As one trembling bunny rabbit was overheard to say with a sigh of relief as he exited the church after the service.... "Amen!"

Young Art Exhibited

An exhibition of art works by Tidewater area young people at the Village Gallery at College Park began May 7 and will run through May 31. The artists are students from various junior and senior high schools throughout Tidewater.

The show is being sponsored by the Larrymore Foundation so that recognition may be shown to those young people who have endeavored to participate in the creative arts and to stimulate and encourage those who did not.

The show will boast mixed media ranging from oils, acrylics, ceramics and stichary to pen and ink and sculpture. The Gallery will be open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday hours are 12:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Cause of Cruiser Fire Sought

An investigation is underway to determine the cause of a fire which destroyed a 29 foot, fiberglass cabin cruiser at the White Heron Motel on Laskin Road early Tuesday.

Authorities said the boat was engulfed in flames when an unidentified guest of the motel saw the vessel, moored behind the Bay Harbour Club, and sounded a fire alarm.

Men of the Beach Borough fire department worked for about an hour in extinguishing the blaze.

Although a portion of the dock was burned slightly by flames, no other boats in the vicinity were damaged. No one was on board the boat at the time, and there were no reports of any injuries.

The "Critchfield" cabin cruiser was reportedly valued at $15,000 with the owners listed as Leo Carroll and Aubrey Pallette of Virginia Beach.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the upper structure of this cabin cruiser early Tuesday morning.

'Woodie' Is Back At The Piano

"Woodie" Harold Woods, pianist, has opened the resort season in the 19th Hole & Fairways Dining Room at the Golf Ranch.

Popular in the local area, "Woodie" will be featured at the piano 7 P.M. to 11 P.M., nightly, except Sunday.

Following dinner music he turns entertainer with songs and music to his audience's choosing.

First Tenant Occupies Space In Lynnhaven Industrial Park

United States Sales Corporation has become the first business firm to open its headquarters in the Virginia Beach Industrial Park off South Lynnhaven Road.

The United States Sales facility located at 2644 Barrett St., at the Lynnhaven exit of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, occupies 25,000 square feet of floor space. Various offices occupy 5,000 square feet with the remaining space devoted to plant facilities. The new structure represents a $400,000 investment.

The Corporation maintains its personnel, printing and IBM offices at 1353 Laskin Rd. This also is the location of a subsidiary USSC business, The Employment System, which is described as the most modern and unique employment agency in today's business world.

The USSC offices on Barrett Street serve as the company's headquarters for operations in the United States consisting primarily of servicing some 300 military post exchanges in 48 states. Products of 40 top manufacturers are among the accounts of USSC in servicing post exchanges.

USSC recently expanded its operations into the manufacture and sales of pleasure boats, including inboards, outboards, sail boats, and canoes. This new living quarters.

phase of the Corporation operates under the title Nautical Boat Works and, in addition to maintaining manufacturing facilities at the Barrett Street location, operates a manufacturing plant in Gloucester, Va.

Nautical has already gained national prominence for the quality of its products, with its "Gloucester Fisherman", a 16 foot tri-hull, fiberglass, outboard, run-about, being acclaimed in such national publications as the "Boating Industry" and "Rudder" magazines.

USSC Pres, Harry L. Snyder directs the Virginia Beach headquarters operation overseeing an administrative staff of 30 and a manufacturing force of 35 employees.

Snyder's background boasts of more than 20 years of successful merchandising experience. He was educated at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., and the New York University School of Retailing. He is well versed in the needs of military exchanges through his military service with the Quartermaster Corps.

Snyder also is an asset to the Virginia Beach business world in executive capacities with such organizations as the First Colonial Bank, Virginia Beach General Hospital, Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults, American Cancer Society, TIONIC fiberglass homes, as well as the College of William and Mary Board of Visitors.

Two Attend Seminar

Joseph Foulkes, manager of leasing and management department of Larasan Realty Corporation and Thomas C. Kyros, Vice President of Commercial Division, have returned from the International Council of Shopping Centers in Miami Beach, Fla.

The Convention which claims membership throughout Europe, South America, the Philippine Islands, Japan, Canada and Australia, plus representatives of the national chains, mortgage companies, insurance companies, architectural firms and construction companies, met in Miami to review the Shopping Center industry and exchange ideas. There were classes on how to develop neighborhood and regional shopping centers, classes on construction, financing, merchants associations, promotional advertising, leasing and management of shopping centers. Larasan Realty Corporation has been a member of International Council of Shopping Centers for over seven years.

Firemen enter smoking remains of Indian River Road home destroyed by fire leaving eight persons homeless.

Fire Leaves Eight Homeless

A family of eight was left homeless when a fire destroyed their one-story frame dwelling and all their belongings about noon last Thursday.

Officials listed occupants of the home, in the 2400 block of Indian River Road, as Theodore Basnight, his wife Martha, another unidentified adult, and five children ranging in age from 7 months to 18 years. The home was unoccupied at the time of the fire with occupants at work or school.

Authorities at the scene quoted Mrs. Barbara Aylesworth, of Portsmouth, with saying she was driving past the house when she noticed smoke coming from the windows. She drove a short distance to locate a phone to sound the alarm, and by the time she returned the home was engulfed in flames.

Men of the Courthouse Volunteer Fire Dept. were dispatched to the scene, and were backed up by men of the Kempsville Fire Dept. Men from the Beach Borough Fire Dept., who were off-duty and learned of the alarm, were also at the scene and assisted in extinguishing the flames.

Investigators said the fire was apparently caused by a faulty space heater in the living room.

The City Welfare Department supplied those left homeless by the fire with immediate supplies of food and clothing, and they have been sheltered by friends until they can locate new living quarters.

Cash Taken

Police are investigating the theft of a bank bag containing $810 in cash from the trunk of the car of Al Malhes, Jr., early last Monday. Officials quote Malhes, of 6th Street, with saying the money was taken while his car was parked outside the Heritage Restaurant, at 18th Street and Pacific Avenue. The money represented receipts of the Rogers Gallery, on Virginia Beach Blvd., where Malhes works.

Drugs Discovered

George J. Schaum is awaiting court appearance on a charge of possession of narcotics. Officials said Schaum, 18, of Quail Point Road, was arrested Monday night in connection with a quantity of marijuana and a bottle of white capsules which investigators said they discovered during an investigation in the 200 block of 21st Street.

Articles Recovered

Police Officials say they have charged Michael C. Themides, 19, of Chesapeake and a 17-year-old juvenile in connection with a series of thefts from parked autos in Virginia Beach. Investigators said that more than $1,500 in assorted articles including power tools, clothing, tape decks, stereo music tapes and cameras were recovered with the arrest of the suspects. According to authorities the articles were reportedly taken during a two hour period from unlocked cars parked in the area between Kings Grant and Eastern Park.

Marines Arrested

Court appearance is pending for two suspects apprehended shortly after the reported strong armed robbery of the attendant of the Kays Service Station in the 1400 block of Virginia Beach Blvd. Police identified the men as Michael T. Allen, of New Orleans, La., and Charlie Green, Jr., of Macon, Ga. Officials said both men were 20-year-old Marines stationed at the Oceana Naval Air Station. Police quoted 19-year-old Kenneth Friedman, of Baltic Avenue, with saying two men entered the station, while he was alone and demanded he give them the station cash receipts. The men reportedly fled with over $60.

Sailor Drowns In Blackwater

Search teams recovered the body of a Navy man shortly after he drowned in waters of Blackwater Creek when the outboard in which he was a passenger capsized Sunday afternoon. Officials identified him as 25-year-old Willie Bland. Two other Navy men, Norman Still and Clint Brown, also in the boat at the time swam to shore. Authorities said all of the men were attached to Atlantic Fleet Headquarters.

Townhouse - a Headache

Townhouses, apartments, any multiple-family residences are becoming a big problem with the Planning Commission and City Council. Each session the list of proposed complexes grow in number and units. It's no longer a matter of 20 or 30 units...it's hundreds at a time.

It is understandable why the civic leagues are concerned, why so many individuals oppose this continued construction. The arguments are always the same: lack of classrooms or schools, congested traffic, inadequate sewage lines, etc. And the arguments are usually valid.

However, there is a place in this community for multiple-family residences. There is, in fact, a need for them. The population of Virginia Beach is heavy on single, military and retired persons. These are the residents who require townhouses and apartments. They should not be denied housing in keeping with their needs.

The demand for multiple-residence is obvious. There are waiting lists at most of the city's nicer complexes. The need is there.

Those who oppose this type construction are usually justified in their stand. Townhouses should not strain schooling and traffic which in many areas are already over strained. But in a city as large as Virginia Beach there must be a place for Planned Unit Development construction.

The city's master plan, when completed, will presumably solve this particular problem. But it won't solve the concern of citizens who fear the deterioration of their communities.

Some guidelines must be effected before there can be better communication between builder and civic leaguer. Until these guidelines are established, until each side knows exactly what to expect, City Council will continue to find itself caught between two fires.

And, as Vice Mayor Cromwell commented Monday, "...this is an unenviable position..."

Support The Military

Saturday is Armed Forces Day, the one day a year the citizens of Virginia Beach can show their appreciation to the military bases within the confines of the city.

Every day of the year the military personnel of these installations--Fort Story, Oceana Naval Air Base, Little Creek Amphibious Base and Dam Neck--support this community through the merchants, the churches, the civic organizations, and the schools.

Members of the armed forces and their families are, in fact, a very stable part of this area and contribute greatly to the city's financial well-being.

Saturday the citizens of Virginia Beach will have their opportunity to show the military how much this support means.

Residents are urged to attend the parade Saturday through the resort area of the city. There is nothing so appreciated to a marching unit as a cheer from the crowd.

Some of the bases will be open to the public Saturday and there will be an Armed Forces Day Ball that night at the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

ETERNAL SPRING!

Action Illegal

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN: The recent illegal action of employees of the Post Office Department in various parts of the country, was the most heinous, and deplorable crime ever committed against over two hundred million innocent victims by employees of the Federal Government, yet not one thing has been done to bring the ringleaders and communist agitators before the bar of justice; instead they were given a pat on the back and put back to work, and the two hundred million victims will pay the bill in the pay raises they were promised.

If the Federal Government refuses to enforce the laws in regards to its own employees how can they expect anyone to have any respect for the law and order they constantly prate about, if they don't make examples out of these men, it is my humble opinion they can kiss law and order good bye in this great land, it is better to be without mail service for a while than to give in to such lawless actions as they took, and it is going to be a matter of grave concern if the Government refuses to do any thing about it.

I am sure that all over this land millions are thinking the same as I do in regards to the matter, and they can see the dangers to our way of life if these leaders so forth are let off scot free, otherwise you are lowering the bars to other actions that two hundred million Americans will have to pay the price for, and I don't think they will stand for it, it is my opinion the best thing our officials can do is give this matter some very deep and sober thought. Sincerely Raymond C. Purvis.

Letters to the Editor

Beach Closing

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN: For the following reasons traffic on the beach south of Sandbridge should be limited to responsible residents only:

1. The unyielding and complete disregard by poachers, trespassers and hot-rod enthusiasts for the law or property or rights of others.
2. The absolute absence of any civil control or authority.
3. The absolute absence of any means of communication; telephone, radio or anything else with the mainland or outside world.
4. The irreparable damage and danger of fire and other wanton destruction instigated by the carelessness of these same people.

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN: Why should the beauties of nature be denied people who enjoy companionship with old mother nature? How could a road down the shore damage the wild life? We need to live closer to nature and learn to appreciate our environment. Belva Hardy

Cavalier Makes The Scene With Tearful Comedy

The Cavalier Dinner Playhouse, after being closed for several weeks by a fire in its rehearsal hall, has re-entered the scene with a sparkling new face-lift and a bright, spirited play.

Although the grim remains of the nearly disastrous fire are still apparent at one wing of still apparent at one wing of the building, the main lobby is sporting a new black and white decor with touches of green for emphasis and the stage has been enlarged to provide more versatility.

The selection of Arnold Schulman's "A Hole in the Head" as the opening play is a wise choice.

It is a warm but hilarious comedy. It runs the gamut of emotions...anger, fear, jealousy...but primarily it is a play of love, love of a father for his son, of a family for each other.

The plot basically is this: a slightly aging playboy widower lives with his very mature young son in the downhill hotel he owns at Miami Beach. If he doesn't the audience he shows more responsibility than his ne'er-do-well father. The role was challenging but the youngster came through as a real trouper.

Toby Stephens portrays Sidney, the widower, with considerable bluster, too much so, in fact, for the sensitivity the part demands. He should have had so much bluster when he portrayed Richard in Norfolk Little Theatre's "The Lion in Winter."

Stephens' portrayal isn't noticeably off-key until the more emotional scenes with the boy. There is a lack of communication, a lack of warmth, between the two and these ingredients are necessary if the audience is to sympathize with Sidney and his problems. Maybe what the role needs is a little less Sidney and a bit more Toby, who is by nature a more sensitive person than the Sidney he portrays.

The three female performances are all well done: Maureen Casey as Shirli, Sidney's sexy love interest, is a delight for all the men and the envy of all the women--except soon raise some $5,000 he will lose the hotel. So he calls on his well-established brother in New York to help him out. The brother and his wife fly to Miami Beach to see the situation for themselves and are soon convinced they not only shouldn't loan the widower the money but should also take his son to New York with them to give him a better home.

The plot obviously is a tear-jerker. But it's blended so well with rollicking comedy that somehow it's hard to tell exactly what the tears are for.

Hank Mauro as Max, the brother, is a scene-stealer from beginning to end, whether he tries to ease his hulking physique out of a butterfly chair or lets his taciturn tongue back into an explosive conversation.

Mauro walks away with the play. And that isn't easy when there's a beguiling youngster onstage. Parlan McGaw, son of the well-known theatrical couple Marty McGaw and Gerry Rowe, is sheer delight in the role of Ally, the boy. He has just enough of a wall-like quality to make him endearing yet enough maturity to convince pecially in the near-nude black swimsuit; Pat Finkelstein is exceptionally good in her sensitive portrayal of Sophie, Max's wife, who is eager to take the boy even though she has already reared her own family; and Belinda Efrid was refreshingly wholesome as Mrs. Rogers, the widow Sophie hopes Sidney will marry.

Miss Efrid handles the role quite well, but it is difficult to visualize her as the fireball who will, perhaps, lure Sidney into marriage. She needs a more chic costume, for one thing, and an added sparkle to her personality, before the audience will go away wondering whether or not the playboy widower is finally going to settle down to make a home for his son. Sidney is hardly the type character who will settle for a dishrag.

Overall, however, the play is delightful and truly a welcomed change from the usual dinner theatre fluff. It is a comedy with a tear in it's eye, and director Jon Dawson brings it through with his usual flair. It is a play you will enjoy.

To Eisenhower

Dear Sir:

This being the first anniversary of the death of former President General Dwight D. Eisenhower, I am sending you the Poetic Eulogy I sent to Mrs. Eisenhower, on that sad occasion, thinking you may want to publish it as a salute to that great man on this first anniversary and maybe in future anniversaries in the years to come, we need some thing or some one to get our minds out of Wars and bad news that we get everyday in our news media. Raymond C. Purvis

PS. It is not for sale as I am coming out with a book soon and want this in it.

To The World In Normandy, Standing row on row, Crosses white as the driven snow,

Tell of those that live no more, As brave men died storming ashore,

Falling never to rise again, From the mountains hill and plain,

The youth of this great Nation, From every walk of life, and station,

Commanded by a man of humble birth, His brilliance was salt of the earth,

Yet all obstacles he overcame, In his climb to World wide fame,

Now that he has gone to rest, We now know he loved the best,

The place of his early boy-hood, With his loved ones he understood,

In death he desired simplicity, And not the sham of eccentricity,

There is no eternal flame burning, Only a truly great man returning,

After a long and arduous fight, For justice and right over might,

Windows Close On Saturdays

Postmaster J. T. Crosswhite has announced that Saturday morning window service at the Virginia Beach post office will be discontinued effective May 16.

The lobby will be kept open for the convenience of boxholders. Saturday home delivery service will continue.

Window service on Saturday morning is also being discontinued Saturday in the towns of Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Hampton, Newport News and Norfolk, as well as in Virginia Beach.

Saturday morning window service has been discontinued in other cities recently without affecting customer requirements.

The post office will be open as usual on Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Customers desiring to purchase stamps on Saturday may obtain them from vending machines placed in the lobbies for their convenience. Twenty-four hour postal service will also be available at the Self-Service Postal Unit located at Pembroke Mall.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell, Ph.D.

Recently one of my columns mentioned what I believe to be a coming innovation in education, the "Educational Voucher" system. The system is very simple, parents of children eligible to attend the public tax supported schools would receive a voucher each year representing their children's share of the public school budget. The voucher then could be spent at the public or private school of the parent's choice.

The thought is that the public school system is so sick, rotten, if you please, that the only way it can be changed is to make it give up its monopoly and compete on the open market. Many people in and out of the educational field believe that if parents had a choice, they would abandon the public schools and allow them to simmer in their incompetence.

Well, it seems that my column hit an exposed nerve with many of my readers. My mail indicates that I am not alone in my hope for the educational voucher system. To evaluate the response to my column I had to discount the reaction from the teachers and administrators in the present system (public). These people have a vested interest in holding on to their monopoly - mainly their JOB! For the most part, this "Flock" feels that competition in education would be unfair to them and the years they have devoted to what ever it is they have been devoted to.

The response from those concerned - the parents and tax payers - indicates that the long love affair between the people and the school system has ended and divorce is imminent. It seems evident that the parents are going to seek custody of their children. Since most of our officials are elected by the concerned parents, I wouldn't be surprised if the parents and tax payers win.

Let me present a few of the thoughts that have been expressed to me. First of all, in the past, our government has been supporting the existing school SYSTEM. Many feel this should be changed and that the support should be to EDUCATION, not the system or kingdom that has been built on tax dollars. The educational voucher system would be support of education and change the present empire building direction.

It is not just my readers who like the idea of competition in education. If you listen to the teachers and administrators they would have you believe everyone is happy with the present mish-mash. Well, tant lo! According to a recent Gallup poll, 30 percent of parents would send their children to private schools if they could afford it and another 29 percent would send their children to parochial (church) schools if they could. This means that over half the parents would take their children out of the present public system if they had a chance or the choice.

Since most of our elected officials follow the polls and try to stay one jump ahead to the wishes of the voters, the outlook for some kind of an educational voucher system looks favorable. Like most major changes in direction, the first laws might be just a step but the hand writing is on the wall. The parents no longer love their school system. The honeymoon is over and a good case of incompatibility seems to have set in. Legal separation is about to start.

What is being done to bring about the past due change? In Illinois a bill that proposed, in effect, a partial voucher, was supported by the governor and passed in the house but failed in the senate. In California, Assemblyman William Campbell has introduced a bill that would set up a complete voucher system. With such a base of support, it seems only a matter of time before a number of States take action. Once this starts, it will spread rapidly.

How will this effect the existing public school system? Right off the bat competition would rear its head. The educational entrepreneur who found a way of providing a better education at lower costs (this wouldn't be very hard to do) would draw off the better teachers right away. No doubt such a business approach would not want the present administrators so they would be condemned to the public system.

With nothing left but the administrators and the teachers no one else wanted, the public system would soon pass from the scene.

For years we have been told, over and over and over, that all the public school system needs is more and more and more money. For years we have watched its per pupil spending rise and its results go down, down and down. It is time we tried something different. Since it is almost impossible to teach old dogs new tricks, the only thing to do is start new with a new system.

Realtor Week Is Observed

Mayor Frank A. Dusch has proclaimed May 17-23 as Realtor Week "to acquaint the public with the high standards of service rendered by realtors". The observance is being celebrated throughout the country by more than 91,000 realtors, among them the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors.

As one of their service projects, the Bayside and Kempsville Lions Clubs of Virginia Beach have donated funds so that large print books may be bought for the partially sighted or visually handicapped reader. Large print books are those in which the type is 16 point and up; the paper is treated so as to be as glare-free as possible.

Not only are the more popular and classic works published in large print, but also encyclopedias, dictionaries and other reference works. A few of the titles available at the various branches of the library are: THE GOOD EARTH, by Pearl Buck, Zane Grey's THE ARIZONA CLAN, THE SCARLET LETTER, by Nathaniel Hawthorne, TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD, by Harper Lee, Helen MacInnes' DECISION AT DELPHI, Mary Stewart's THIS ROUGH MAGIC, Hemingway's A FAREWELL TO ARMS.

There are also children's books, such as BLACK BEAUTY, HEIDI AND THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS, biographies, short stories, mysteries, and the Bible. The Windsor Woods Branch has a set of the World Book Encyclopedia in large print.

New titles are added to the collection at regular intervals, and we hope that those who have difficulty in reading standard print will avail themselves of these fine books. If you know of any such person, please pass the word along!

Surfers Continued

surfing an issue in the City Council general election," he said.

Bob White, a surfboard manufacturer, was more to the point: "Get yourself together. Then get out and support only the people who will support surfing in Virginia Beach. Write your congressman. Change the silent majority into a loud and expressed majority."

The master of ceremonies for the five-hour affair, White repeatedly told the gathering to "Get your trash together." And they did.

Throughout the day, freeform metal sculptures rose from the beach as the youths collected drink cans and filled them with sand for easy collection. "What we're building on the beach is a monument to anti-pollution," White told the crowd.

Emphasized by the VSA was the fact that the organization was not initiated to replace the East Coast Surfing Association, but to improve the status of surfing in the city. "We want to prove to the city that we aren't as bad as they think we are," said 19-year-old Russell Adams. "But we don't want to demand anything."

A member of VSA's board of directors, Adams repeated the theme of activity. "If they want to keep us off the streets, then they (the city) should give us something to do."

The VSA's board of directors has been structured so that it includes five surfers at large, two surf shop dealers, a city representative, a member of the chamber of Commerce, two citizens from the community at large, and four Jaycees.

Basic membership is $3 per year, charter membership is $5 the first year and $3 thereafter, patron membership is $25 a year and life membership is $100.

Jennings, who is also vice president for external affairs for the Jaycees, said the organization is designed to provide one thing: a voice for surfers and a forum for the development of surfing in the city.

The VSA will hold another outdoor rally within 30 days and an indoor meeting where surfers can talk with the VSA's directors.

Surfing enthusiasts gather by the Steel Pier for surf rally.

Science Fair Unifies School

For many of these seventh grade students at Kempville Meadows School, the recent Science Fair held there was more than just a chance to win awards, said Mrs. Leona Russell, a teacher at the school.

"It was a way for them to expand their learning experience, without me having to prod them into doing something they wouldn't want to do," she said. "They tend to learn quicker.

If you show them something in the book, the students seem to shrug it off. But let them handle it and see it and they enjoy it more and take a greater interest," Mrs. Russell said.

Another major factor in using this type of learning experience is the togetherness it promotes among the students, she added.

"When they started working on the fair, they all began to work as a unit," she said. "And that togetherness carried over. Winners for the affair were: Keith Libick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Libick of Princess Anne Road, first with an exhibit on bees; Kenneth G. Wyatt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Wyatt of Masters Court, second with a display of shells; and Bryan Abbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Abbott of Heather Drive, third with a weather station.

High School Students Eligible for College

A comprehensive listing of courses are being offered at Tidewater Community College during the 11 week summer quarter from June 15 to August 28.

Through its wide selection of offerings, the summer program will provide exceptional opportunities for students. In addition to its full-time students, the college offers opportunities to students from other institutions of higher learning who wish additional courses or who are interested in removing deficiencies.

One unique feature of the college is that high school seniors (between junior and senior years) may enroll in the college courses provided they have permission from their high school principal.

Courses which are being offered in the summer day school are General Biology, Business Office Procedures, Business Office Machines, Principles of Business Management, Principles of Accounting, Drafting I, II, and III, General Inorganic Chemistry, American Economics, Principles of Economics I and II, Verbal Studies, Reading Improvement, Communication Skills I and II, English Composition I, II, and III, Speech Communications, English Literature, Elementary French, American Constitutional Government, U. S. Government, History of Western Civilization I, II, and III, Developmental Mathematics, Fundamentals of College Mathematics I, II, and

III, Engineering Technical Mathematics, College Algebra and Trigonometry II and III, Introduction to Mathematics Analysis I, Business Mathematics I, Mathematics of Finance II and III, Mechanics of Materials, Police Organization and Administration II, Criminal Law II, Advanced Criminal Investigation, Applied Psychology, General Psychology I, II and III, Radio and Television Repair III, Typewriting, Short-hand, Introduction to Sociology III, and Elementary Spanish.

In addition, a number of classes are being offered in the evening program.

Maynard, Parker Are Selected

Deborah A. Maynard and Susan M. Parker of Virginia Beach, have been selected as members of the Campus Center Executive Program Council at Bridgewater College the next college year.

Miss Maynard, a sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Maynard, Sandy Bay Drive. An English major, she plans on a career in journalism.

Miss Parker, a junior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Parker, Quimby Road. A sociology major, she plans on a career in social work.

Caps Star Calls Area Green Bay of Sport

Mike Barrett, a Rookie of the Year Guard for the ill-fated Washington Caps, said Tuesday the Tidewater area could be "the Green Bay of basketball."

Speaking to the Virginia Beach Sports Club, Barrett said Caps owner Earl Foreman had considered several new sites for the fledgling ABA team, but that the Tidewater area seemed to offer the greatest appeal.

"Mr. Foreman would like to retain ownership of the team, but if we moved to Kansas City or St. Louis the people there wouldn't let him," he said. "And one thing Mr. Foreman is interested in doing is retaining ownership."

Foreman bought the franchise from Oakland, California last summer and moved the team to Washington, but met with little success at the box office of the Washington Coliseum.

"What makes it tough to compete in Washington is that you're up against living legends like Ted Williams and Vince Lombardi," Barrett said referring to the manager of the Washington Senators and coach of the capitol city's Redskins.

Every time these legends got hurt cutting the grass or were sick it made the top of the sports section, but the Caps couldn't even get game scores in the Washington papers, he said.

"They made it tough to compete," Barrett said.

Barrett said he was elated when he heard the Tidewater area was being considered for the franchise. "But we need someone to convince Mr. Foreman that this area can support a team."

Groups such as local sports clubs can do much to influence Foreman's decision, but they have to make their sentiments known, he said.

Referring to Foreman's inspection tour of the area Monday, Barrett said that the owner couldn't see everything the area has to offer, but he was sure that the opportunities available

IF YOU HAVE TO WITHDRAW OR DEPOSIT AT CERTAIN TIMES OF THE MONTH TO KEEP FROM LOSING VALUABLE INTEREST, THEN YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT HAS A "CATCH."

This is how F&M's Catchless Savings Account works: Your money begins earning maximum 4½% interest the day you deposit it. And your money earns maximum interest until the day you withdraw it. You never have to worry about losing one cent of interest ...no matter when you withdraw or deposit.

And speaking of interest, F&M has a new way of computing the yield on your savings. This is important because it means your savings earn the highest return you can get at any bank. Anywhere!

At F&M, we figured a savings account shouldn't have any "catches." Because it's tough enough to find money to save in the first place.

If you feel the same way, you should open a Catchless Savings Account of your own. It's as easy as dialing this number: 857-0631. Or you can drop by your nearest F&M office. Where you'll deal with friendly people who want your business.

But want to deserve it, too.

Davis Corner Volunteers Fight A Harder 'Battle'

By LES LENIGH

for the first time.

The "water battle" consists of placing a bucket at midpoint of a 100 foot long wire secured about 15 feet above the ground. Opposing teams of five volunteer firemen direct a pressurized stream of water from inch-and-a-half hoses at the bucket (and occasionally each other) to drive the bucket to the end zone of their competitors.

This marks the fourth year in the five years of staging the "water battle" that Davis Corner Volunteers have captured the first place trophy.

The winning team was comprised of John A. Scanlon, Michael W. Wade, Ronald K. Smith, "Dixie" Taylor, and Paul E. House.

More than 100 men from various volunteer fire departments took part in various categories of competition during the "contest".

Virginia Beach competitors included volunteers from Plaza (who served as hosts for the event), Oceana, Davis Corner, Thalia and Kempsville fire departments. Men from the volunteer fire departments of Phoebus, Hampton and Smithfield, Va., traveled to the resort city to take part in the annual event.

Other contests featured five men teams racing against time, donning complete outfits of "turn-out gear", with first and second places going to Phoebus and Hampton respectively; "one man hose coupling" consisting of timing individual firemen in the "breaking" of couplings of two hose segments and properly attaching a nozzle, with Hampton and Smithfield taking first and second place awards; while Hampton and Phoebus earned first and second place trophies in the "four man hose coupling" competition, consisting of four men teams racing against the clock in "breaking" the couplings joining three hose sections, removing the middle section, recoupling the remaining two segments, attaching a nozzle to one of the remaining ends, securing the other end to a fire hydrant and sending water through the hose and out the nozzle.

Davis Corner Volunteers (right) advance on Thalia Volunteers to capture first place in the classic firemen's "water battle".

He was a member of Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Gloversville Masonic Lodge 429; Virginia Beach Shrine Club; Cavalier Golf and Yacht Club and Country Club of Virginia.

Obituaries

Raymond J. Saleeby

Raymond Joseph Saleeby, 7, a son of Theodore R. and Mrs. Samia Ashi Saleeby of 5483 Virginia Beach Blvd., died in a hospital Sunday after a short illness.

He was a lifelong resident of the Norfolk and Virginia Beach area. He was in the second grade at Point of View Elementary School. He was a member of Thalia-Lynn Baptist Church.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Joann Saleeby of Virginia Beach; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Adma Ashi of Lebanon.

Samuel Schwartz

Samuel Schwartz, 59, of 4213 Thalia Drive, the husband of Mrs. Mildred Lockamy Schwartz and a son of Morris and Mrs. Elizabeth Charney Schwartz, died in a Norfolk hospital Sunday.

A native of Hartford, Conn., he lived here several years. He helped develop River Oaks, Fairlawn Estates, and Thalia Manor.

Besides his widow, surviving are a son, Samuel Schwartz, Jr. of Virginia Beach, and a number of brothers and sisters, all of New York.

Alertness Pays Off

Three men were arrested on charges of statutory burglary and grand larceny early Tuesday morning as the result of the alertness of Police officer A.J. Guertin.

Guertin, patrolling his 3rd Precinct territory with his K-9 German Shepherd "Fritz", was attracted by a car containing three men hauling a small trailer.

After stopping the vehicle, he discovered a box containing a quantity of copper fittings, which later were reportedly identified as a portion of copper tubing and fittings worth some $1,000 taken from the Lake West construction site near the intersection of Newtown Road and Haygood Road.

Authorities identified the suspects arrested as Edward O. Smaw, 29, of Chesapeake; Calvin Wood, 33, of Chesapeake; and Marshall W. Sinclair, 28, of Norfolk.

Foy J. Shaw Sr.

Foy J. Shaw Sr., 64, owner and operator of Shaw Paint Company in Durham, N.C., died Sunday in a Durham hospital.

He established the paint company in 1931 and in 1941 opened a Norfolk branch and in 1946 opened another branch in Hampton.

A native of Durham County, he was the husband of Mrs. Nola Thompson Shaw and a son of Calvin R. and Mrs. Ora Beavers Shaw.

Besides his widow, surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Paul H. Reeves of Durham; a son, Foy J. Shaw Jr. of Virginia Beach; three sisters, Miss Dora H. Shaw and Mrs. Newton Vickers of Durham, and Mrs. C. C. Clark of Venice, Fla.; two brothers, O. O. Shaw of Durham and Dr. William H. Shaw of Columbus, Ga.; and three grandchildren.

Training Course Set At Hospital

A training course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation will be held May 23 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Virginia Beach General Hospital.

The course is being offered to teams from hospitals in the Norfolk-Virginia Beach area covered by the Tidewater Hospital Council of Virginia Hospital Association.

Fire Blamed on Youth

A 14-year-old Virginia Beach juvenile is facing court proceedings on a charge of arson in connection with fire at the Creeds Elementary School on Sunday April 5th.

According to City Fire Investigators W. H. Cartwright and J. E. Hundert two restrooms in the rear of the school gymnasium were heavily damaged by a fire which was deliberately set.

Officials indicated that since the fire occurred when the school was unoccupied, it had been burning for some time before it was discovered.

Someday your family will need the answers to these questions

THIS PRACTICAL FAMILY GUIDE MAKES SURE YOU WILL HAVE THEM. YOURS FOR THE ASKING.

Bereaved families too often are confronted by estate tangles, missing papers, and questions that should have been answered ahead of time — but weren't.

A new booklet written by a lawyer and an estate-planning expert, Let's Face It — Now, tells you how simply these problems can be avoided or minimized by planning now. This easy-to-read booklet tells you:

- What four phone calls must be made when death occurs
- How to claim life insurance benefits — and how you can protect these benefits now
- How to claim veteran's, company, fraternal and Social Security benefits
- Why you need a will — and what to do about it
- How to buy a cemetery plot
- How to make sure the information your family will need is available when it's needed

A special section at the back of this booklet provides a place to record vital family data. You will want to keep Let's Face It — Now among your important papers — as a sort of stand-by family counselor that will answer your questions in time of need. These are not questions that may arise. They will arise, sooner or later, in every household.

This booklet is about you and your family. We think every family member should read it. Return the coupon and we'll be glad to send you a copy. At the same time we'll send you full information, including prices of single and family plots. All without cost or obligation.

Robbery Suspects Hunted

Two men are being sought in connection with the armed robbery of the Associates Finance Corp. office in the 1700 block of Virginia Beach Blvd. last Thursday afternoon.

Investigators quote the 20-year-old clerk of the office, who was alone at the time, with saying the men, one of them armed with a pistol, entered the office a few minutes before closing time and demanded she hand over all the money on hand.

The bandits, described only as Negroes in their 20's took an undetermined amount of money in cash and checks then fled in a waiting auto.

Overall plan needed

Disinterest threatens beautification commission

Instead of the pats on the back they were apparently expecting, it was slapped hands the Virginia Beach Beautification Commission received from Richard Hackendahl, director of the National Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up Bureau in Washington, D.C.

He was speaker at the Beautification Commission's annual meeting last week at the Cape.

"You've got a great challenge," Hackendahl commented. "According to attendance figures you're dying. And you shouldn't die because you'd be going against the tide of organizations in other cities, and you've got a tremendous challenge and potential."

Hackendahl, who is also chairman of the subcommittee on Urban Problems to the Secretary of Commerce, reflected that when he spoke to the local group two years ago, 125 members attended, Thursday there were 26. And last year's annual meeting was attended by 75.

He told the Commission that they had to have a definite plan in mind so they would have a "product" to sell to local citizens. And he suggested a sales pitch similar to what successful salesmen use—having a "product" and being able to tell people why they should buy it.

Then Hackendahl warned them not to overreact. He pointed out cities which had used concrete tubs in beautification projects as an example. "They are trash collection areas. Check to see if the plants you plan on using will grow. Check maintenance."

Hackendahl also encouraged the involvement of youth into beautification plans. He said that in Detroit one adult was involved in organizing a teen beautification and clean up program for ghetto areas in the city.

Hackendahl also suggested calling upon colleges and universities as resources to design streets and the law schools to draw up codes and ordinances.

"We're becoming a little more sophisticated," he said. "We don't sit back and say 'we have to bury the underground wires.' (In reference to a suggestion made by a Commission member earlier). We've got to get to know the city and what it needs."

"Every city has a unique character. What does the city want to be? The Beautification Commission is really the voice of the citizens. 'Bring together the resources (various clubs and groups) to help achieve the goals. When you do this you'll fill the room."

"It means total involvement in the problems of the city. Take down the overhead wires and you see signs. Take down signs and you see colorless buildings and bare cement. You find yourself involved in a total concept."

summer. There were 6,000 teens the first year, 14,000 the second and 23,000 the third year. Contacts were made through disk jockeys on radio station to which the teens listened. Local rock bands within the high schools provided music at clean up sites.

"The first beautification commission was formed in Memphis, Tenn., in 1930. When they have a meeting they'll have 1,000—the mayor, the city council, the power structure. You know why? They know what they want to do."

Said Col. Joseph Viner, executive vice president of the Commission, "City pride must be nurtured and encouraged by all of us. It doesn't happen by itself. All of the garden clubs were invited. Two out of 51 came. Why have 60 garden clubs just for conversation. We need their help. We've got to get the garden clubs or we're a failure."

New officers were installed by the Commission. They are: Adm. Goldsborough Patrick, president; Joseph Viner, executive president; Ned Caton, Herbert Smith, III, Adm. Robert Pirle, Burkes Withers, vice presidents; Fielding Jeter, treasurer; Clenton Shanks, secretary. Elected to the board of directors were Ward Ellis, Alexander Donnan and R. O. Goodykoontz.

secretary of Commerce, reflected that when he spoke to the local group two years ago, 125 members attended, Thursday there were 26. And last year's annual meeting was attended by 75.

McAllen's ALLEY

By Carolyn McAllen

Men deserve equal rights

As a mother, I'm glad to find out I'm worth one day out of the year. Although Monday morning after I forgot to set the alarm clock I think my loving family was ready to forget the day before.

Not only did I forget to set the thing, I forgot to even wind it. My husband, as he went out the front door without even a cup of coffee, said he was going to buy a new alarm clock. I told him a new one wasn't any better than the old one if nobody remembers to set it. Besides, an alarm clock doesn't wake him up. And I refuse to be responsible for two of them.

Not only that, I've developed a sentimental attachment for the one I've got. I've had the thing since 1955. It's been to college with me, El Paso, Houston and Texarkana, Texas, has lasted through three kids, numerous drops from tables, etc., and still keeps reasonably good time.

I could never adjust to an electric one. I have to get up as soon as the thing goes off or not at all. If it allowed me a ten minute respite before going off again, I would either go back to sleep and not wake up again or I would lie there a nervous wreck counting the seconds until it alarmed the second time.

What was bad about Monday was that it was the second time in five days that I've forgotten to set the thing. The first time was last Thursday, I woke up at 8:15 then—after the school bus came by for the brats at 7:40. Somehow or other we got to the nine-year-old's dentist appointment at 9:45 only five minutes late. (That in itself was a traumatic experience—Her first braces.) While my husband dumped one at kindergarten and one at school with an apologetic note, I whisked the other to the dentist.

Then Friday the thing went off at 4 a.m. I still don't know how. I noticed it was sort of dark outside when I went over close the window. (Please note who gets up and fixes breakfast while everybody else sleeps.

However, would you believe that Monday morning I woke up at 7:25 and the girls caught their bus at 7:40? They got dressed, ate a package of peanut butter crackers each and drank a glass of milk while I packed their lunches. Nutritionists please look the other way. At least they ate.

I even had time to heat coffee left over from the night before for myself while I fixed breakfast and lunch for the six-year-old and myself. The only one who lucked out was my husband. I even got to the office on time. Not to mention that I forgot to take anything out of the freezer for supper.

May I say in my own defense that the two times in five days were the only times in 10 years that I've forgotten to set the darn thing. That's not mentioning the times I've slept through it entirely—I once slept through a fire alarm in college. Three kids re-educated my hearing so that I would wake up at the slightest noise at night. Maybe the fact that the youngest has reached six has swung the pendulum (no pun intended) the other way.

Alright, dad, for Father's Day I'll get you the loudest alarm clock I can find—and train you to get up for the next 10 years. It's not the clock that needs replacing, it's me. Fair enough? I'm for equal rights for men!

G.C. of Va. celebrates 50th year

The James River Garden Club will be hostess club for the 50th Anniversary Meeting of The Garden Club of Virginia, to be held at the John Marshall Hotel on May 19, 20 and 21. Mrs. Harris Brown is chairman of the meeting and will be assisted by Mrs. James McCraw Parrish as co-chairman.

Registration will begin at 2 p.m. on Tuesday and Horticultural Exhibits will be placed in the Roof Garden on the 14th floor.

The Board of Directors will meet in the Byrd Room at 3 p.m.

Guests will leave the hotel for a cocktail party at Virginia House with The Boxwood Garden Club as hostess club.

Mrs. Lucius J. Kellam, president of The Garden Club of Virginia, will call the meeting to order in the Roof Garden at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, after which The Tuckahoe Garden Club will entertain at luncheon at "Shooter's Hill", home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. L. Miller. A tour of Tuckahoe Plantation will follow. The Annual Banquet will be held at the Virginia Museum.

After the business meeting on Thursday morning, members will depart for Windsor for luncheon as the guests of Miller and Rhoads.

Attending from Virginia Beach will be Mrs. W. R. Miller, Jr. president of The Princess Anne Garden Club and her delegate, Mrs. M. Bagley Walker; and Mrs. D. L. Madala, President of the Virginia Beach Garden Club and her delegate, Mrs. George Phillips.

POW-MIA seek ad in Times Awards

The latest effort of the POW-MIA movement for the release or better treatment of prisoners of war is being directed toward the purchase of a full page advertisement opposite the editorial page of the New York Times.

Cost of the page will be $9,480, and funds are being contributed primarily through the military. The plan for the ad is the result of the POW-MIA rally at Independence Hall several weeks ago.

"We want to call attention to our efforts to as many people as possible," said Mrs. Sue Burroughs as she spoke Saturday to the Princess Anne County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Ft. Story. She added that Mrs. William Whitehurst, wife of U.S. Rep. Whitehurst of Norfolk, contributed the first dollar.

New Federation president speaks to woman's club

Mrs. James B. Roberts, new president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, from Fairfax, was speaker at Tuesday's Federation Day meeting of the Women's Club of Chesapeake Beach at the Holiday Inn on Northampton Blvd.

The business meeting, directed by the new president, Mrs. W. B. Hughes, was followed by a luncheon. While a delegate to the Federation of Women's Club meeting in Arlington, Mrs. Hughes accepted a first place in international affairs award won by the club for support of Project Hope. The club also won a joint award with the other clubs in the Virginia Beach Council of Federated Women's Clubs for its crusade against drug abuse.

The theme for Mrs. Roberts' two year term will be "Concern for World Community". The theme contains a dual role of a healthy environment and the upgrading of the care and treatment of the mentally ill.

Mrs. Roberts is a member of both the Falls Church and the Pine Ridge Women's Clubs. Stepping stones leading to the top executive level have included administrative positions at local, district and state levels ranging from conservation to special education. Mrs. Roberts holds a degree in sociology from the University of North Carolina and taught history and English for five years before moving to Virginia.

Invited guests for Tuesday's meeting were presidents from Cape Henry, Kempville, Ocean Park, Princess Anne Senior Clubs and from the Bayside Junior Club.

to be given at luncheon

The Annual Awards Luncheon of the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach, Inc. will be held May 27 at the Admiralty Motel in Norfolk.

Among the awards to be presented will be the HANDS (Home and Neighborhood Development Sponsors) awards which will be presented to winners by James Fletcher, manager of Sears which is the leading sponsor of the nationwide contest.

Awards will also be presented for winning scrapbooks, yearbooks, attendance, and anti-litter, and this year three new awards, honoring past presidents of the Council, will be given.

The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. with luncheon at 12:15. Tickets at $3 per person may be purchased from Mrs. E. W. Learnard, 340-5676.

400 expected at ball Sat.

The Armed Forces Ball Saturday night will climax the day's commemoration of Armed Forces Day.

The Ball, sponsored annually by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, is expected to draw some 400 persons from civilian and military ranks for an evening of enjoyment by all.

Music for the Ball, which begins at 8:30 p.m. at the Civic Center, will be provided by Johnny Horae.

Decorations will include a paper chandelier with streamers, and the walls will be hung with ships' flags from the commands represented. Michael Savvides is Ball chairman.

Mrs. Perillo doesn't seem to be quite as enthusiastic about the smooch as her husband is.

Couple renews vows on 50th anniversary

Saturday was quite a day in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Perillo.

They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Ragtime was more in style when the couple was married on May 9, 1920 in Brooklyn, N.Y., but it was rock that was being played at the anniversary party at the Bay Harbour Club Saturday given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Napolitano. Mrs. Napolitano is their only daughter, but the ballroom was filled with four grandchildren, numerous nieces and nephews, including one from Italy, and a number of friends.

The Perillo's renewed their wedding vows at an 11:30 a.m. mass Saturday at Star of the Sea Catholic Church. When Mrs. Perillo was asked if "she took this man", Mr. Perillo became impatient and answered for her, "sure she does."

The couple moved to Virginia Beach five years ago and live in the Mayflower apartments.

HERE COMES OLGA!

Friendly pies in the face marked competition as salesmen from Rosewood Memorial Park and Princess Anne Memorial met for cocktails and dinner at the Plaza Pancake House Friday night. It was also a time for awards and encouragement as sales progress was noted.

George Fields was presented with a plaque for top salesman of the month as well as a pocket secretary by Charles C. Kirkpatrick, President of Rosewood and Princess Anne Memorial Parks. When Kirkpatrick handed Fields the pocket secretary his first question was where is the money? The thing that was so noticeable about these people was not only work as salesmen but in the office of both memorial parks was the great relationship. You could really feel in the atmosphere the friendliness and sincerity of all of them towards each other as well as their work.

Other guests were Otto Balch president of First & Merchants Bank, and John Mahon manager of First & Merchants. Balance I was very happy to see after so many years. I worked with him for a while and he was such a great boss.

Dinner over and business finished the pie throwing time started. The Memorial Parks have teams of salesmen consisting of two people. The winner of the team had the right to throw the pie at the loser.

The first person to get the pie in the face was Charles Kirkpatrick and the pie was thrown by Mr. Charles Field. Can you imagine what a feeling it must be to be able to throw a pie at the boss? I know some years ago I had a couple of bosses that I would have delighted in throwing a pie at. In fact would you believe even a brick bat?

The next up for the pie was Jean Lombardi and the pie thrower was Marsha Dagres. She at least did ask Jean what kind of pie she liked. Someone yelled chocolate, so there went chocolate pie, but Marsha missed her completely and Jean very quickly hopped out of the chair. She certainly wasn't going to give Marsha a second chance. But as it turned those who were missed had to come back after all the rest had finished, so really Jean did not get away nor did Ralph Downey who was to be hit by Florence Gallier on her second try. It was really good "clean" fun. Besides you had a chance to pick a pie you liked. What more could we ask for?

Spices improve fruit desserts

There's only one good reason why the world's smartest cooks spice such fruit puddles as French cherry croupe, German kirsch torte, Norwegian prune pudding, East Indian passion fruit jam, American apple slump and blueberry grunt and Mexican choyote relleno. That's because they taste so much better with than without a pinch of sweet spice.

This just starts a list. The Indians sprinkle ground ginger and confectioners' sugar over ripe melon slices. In the Caribbean they bake bananas lightly over ripe melon slices. In the Caribbean they bake bananas lightly dusted with allspice or cinnamon. Pears stewed with lemon peel and a cinnamon stick or two are delicious with Italian Zabaglione sauce while every delectable English apple trifle needs its little measure of nutmeg. Sugar syrup, simmered with a little anise seed is a delectable sweetener for fruits, raw or cooked.

Allspice, anise, caraway, cardamom, cinnamon, cloves, coriander, fennel seed, ginger and mint are generally grouped together as the "sweet" or dessert spices, used in many parts of the world.

Recipes for Spiced Devonshire Pears, quite English, and French molded Rhubarb with Strawberries come to us from the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association.

GELEE DE RHUBARBE AVEC DES FRAISES (France)
(Molded Rhubarb with Strawberries)

1-1/2 lbs. fresh rhubarb
1-1/2 cups water, divided
2 cups sugar
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
2 pkgs. unflavored gelatin
1/2 tsp. pure vanilla extract
1 pt. fresh strawberries
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped

Trim stem ends of rhubarb; discard leaves. Cut into 1-inch pieces (makes about 5 cups).

A pinch of nutmeg enhances deliciously the fruit flavors of this French gelatin dessert.

In a medium saucepan bring 1 cup of water to boiling point. Add sugar and nutmeg; stir until sugar is dissolved. Add rhubarb. Return to boiling point, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle gelatin over remaining 1/2 cup cold water; let stand 5 minutes to soften. Stir into hot rhubarb mixture along with vanilla. Chill until slightly thickened. Wash and hull strawberries; cut in half. Into a 4-1/2 cup ring mold spoon rhubarb mixture to depth of 1-inch. Arrange and lightly press 12 berry halves into gelatin. Chill until firm. Pour remaining rhubarb mixture into mold. Chill until firm, at least 3 hours. Unmold rhubarb ring onto cold serving dish. Fill center with remaining strawberries. Sprinkle berries with confectioners' sugar, if desired. Serve with whipped cream. Yield: 6 portions.

(England)

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) pear halves
1/2 cup strained orange juice
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 stick (3-inch) cinnamon
6 whole cloves
2 whole allspice
1/4 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 cup red currant jelly
1/2 cup heavy cream
2 tbsp. commercial sour cream
1 tsp. sugar

Place pears in a medium bowl; set aside. In a small saucepan combine syrup with fruit juices and spices. Bring to boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Pour hot syrup over pears. Cool. Cover and refrigerate 8 hours or longer. Just before serving place pears in a serving dish. Mix jelly with 2 tablespoons syrup used for cooking pears; blend until smooth. Spoon over pears. Beat heavy cream until stiff. Mix sour cream with sugar. Gently fold into whipped cream. Spoon over pears. Yield: 8 portions.

VIRGINIA BEACH Garden Club News

P.A. Plaza

Mrs. M. J. Schwartz presented a program on the "Use of Madonnas in Floral Arranging" to the Princess Anne Plaza Garden Club. Although the program had been postponed twice this year it was well worth waiting for. Using several different types of madonnas, she demonstrated the guidelines to follow. Then she did oral judging for the club's arrangements in the categories "As You Like It" and also "Table Centerpieces".

Receiving blue awards were:

Hostesses were Mrs. Sally Copenhaver and Mrs. Rosalyn Stallcup. The club voted to sponsor a booth at the Pembroke Mall Bazaar this autumn if it is held and Mrs. Joan Cayea will be chairman. Some additional work has been done at the Lynnhaven postoffice, but part of the area is being converted to a parking lot.

Plans were discussed for the installation luncheon and the club voted to have it the first Saturday in June at the Shore Drive Inn. The club adjourned to await its annual potluck dinner at the home of Mrs. A. W. Wells and the crazy auction which goes with it.

Dinner helps Easter Seal

The Princess Anne Business and Professional Women started a new year with a covered dish dinner at Kenstock, the home of Miss Harriet Allstock, President of the Virginia Beach Chapter of the Easter Seal Society and charter member of the Princess Anne Club which was organized in March 1950. Donations for the dinner will go to Camp Easter Seal.

Officers for 1970-71 are: President, Jeanette Harvey; 1st Vice President, Doris Wallington; 2nd Vice President, Della Cherry; recording secretary, Olive Brawley; Corresponding Secretary, Lee O'Brien; Treasurer, Emma Smith.

The club takes pride in sending a delegate to the state convention in Roanoke to nominate a past president of the Princess Anne Club. Doris Young, as first vice president of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Clubs,

When you're not like yourself, Lydia Pinkham understands

All of a sudden—you might feel you're coming—not a good feeling. You're tired, edgy, out of sorts and that's not you. Lydia Pinkham understands.

A long time ago, when ladies couldn't be as frank as we can today, Lydia Pinkham recognized the problem and set about finding a remedy. She knew it was not natural for women to have to suffer with what was obviously a natural process.

So she turned to nature for a remedy. She developed a marvelous compound of medicinal roots and herbs that turned the trick for the women she knew. Because it is a natural answer to your natural problems, it can turn the trick for you, too.

Try Lydia Pinkham's root and herb remedy to help you feel better, more like yourself.

BUSY OPERATORS - Telephone operators work the old switchboard at Naval Air Station Oceana, prior to the arrival of the new Centrex telephoning system.

Centrex Replaces Switchboard

The long awaited Centrex telephone service is fast becoming a reality for Naval Air Station Oceana and Dam Neck military installations. This new service will make telephoning easier and faster whether calling aboard the station or from outside the station.

Beginning midnight May 22, NAS Oceana and Dam Neck will switch over to the most modern telephoning system in use today. The purpose of the new system is to make jobs easier and more efficient. Of course, this depends on everyone learning to use the new service properly and effectively.

One of the biggest advantages of the Centrex service is that it will bring to Oceana and Dam Neck the same kind of direct, fast, personal telephone service that is enjoyed in private homes in the area. Anyone placing a call from off-base will dial directly to the desired number. There will be no more delays while incoming calls go through the switchboard. Also, calls can be made from on-base to an off-base number without going through the switchboard. When calls are made from person to person aboard the station, it will not be necessary to dial 425. Only the last four digits will be required to reach an on-base number from another on-base telephone.

A limited number of station telephones will be designated for making long distance calls. When using the special phones which can handle long distance calls, direct dialing will be used instead of having to wait for a switchboard operator to place the call. Telephone company equipment automatically keeps a record of long distance calls for accounting purposes.

Incoming local and long distance calls to Oceana telephones will be placed as follows:

When the telephone number is known, the caller should dial area code 703 (if required) and then dial 425-plus the telephone number. If the number is not known the caller will dial area code 703 (if required) and then dial 425-000. The attendant will then connect the caller to the correct telephone. At the same time the attendant will tell the caller the number so it can be used to dial direct on future calls.

Within the next few days, employees will be given a new telephone number that will start with 425-plus a four digit number. A new telephone directory will be distributed soon, showing the new Oceana and Dam Neck telephone numbers along with those of the other military installations in the area which already have the Centrex system. In addition to listing new telephone numbers, the directory will contain special material and instructions covering direct in and out dialing and inter-communication. The material should be reviewed with much care in order to get the most out of the new Centrex service.

A colorful sticker on the telephone will be a reminder to tell callers about the new number and how much faster the service will be after May 22nd. For best results, everyone should be encouraged to use the new in-dialing method as soon as it begins.

To help inform callers of the new Centrex service, news releases are being sent to local newspapers and military installations. Special notices will appear in local publications. And, postcards will be sent by individuals to mailing lists of frequent callers. Incoming calls will bypass the busy switchboard, and attendants will be able to give faster and more complete attention to callers who need assistance.

The addition of Centrex service, a development of the Bell Telephone System, will provide Oceana and Dam Neck with a better, more efficient method of telephone communications among employees, customers, suppliers and the general public.

HADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Capt. H. C. Terry, 3rd Police Precinct C.O., has just returned from Minneapolis, Minn., where attended a two day joint meeting of the Fraternal Order of Police National Grand Lodge and the International Council of Police Associations. Terry represented Virginia Beach in his capacity as a Guard in the National FOP Lodge. One of the important decisions of the meeting was a joint resolution of the two organizations opposing police officers holding union membership.

Congratulations are in order for Davis Corner volunteer fireman Neil Burke and his wife "Bev" who became the proud parents of twin girls last Saturday. We understand mother, daughters, and father are all doing fine.

The staging of the "Fireman's Contest" at Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center last Saturday afternoon was marked by a number of unusual situations. As Oceana Volunteer Fireman Bill Nichols was donning his "turn-out gear" in the dressing contest he accidentally pulled the cloth liner of his fire helmet down over his face while putting on his helmet. Although he was momentarily blinded Nichols continued dressing and was the second member of his team to step over the finish line. Thalia Volunteer Fire Chief Tommy Kaye was the target of a number of curious glances and remarks when he suddenly appeared with a SCUBA mask in his hands while milling among his firemen as they prepared to enter the "water battle" against Davis Corner Volunteers. Contest participants and spectators were suddenly surprised, but perhaps not as much as Chief Benke of the Chesapeake Beach Volunteers, when he was doused with water. While Benke was acting as a judge in timing the "four man hose" competition he zealously got carried away and managed to position himself, with stopwatch in hand, in a position that when the water burst from the hose nozzle the stream caught him "Full on".

Yours truly kind of "had his day" this past week. While making the rounds of the various police department offices I caught a glimpse of a very large apothecary jar filled with items resembling narcotics and/or dangerous drugs. Feeling certain I had stumbled onto one of the biggest drug stories of the year in Virginia Beach I began pressing inquiries as to the materials origination and to how many arrests were contemplated in connection with the "find". After several polite discharges to my pressing matter, the police officers finally confessed the jar contained a collection of vitamin tablets which surpassed the usable time limitations and asked me how I now felt about my big story. I meekly replied "Like I've been had!!!"

Fish Fry Is Sat.

An old fashioned fish fry is planned by the Kempsville Ruritan Club from 4-7 p.m. Saturday May 16 at the Ruritan club house behind the Kempsville fire station.

Tickets are available from members. Proceeds will be used for Ruritan youth activities.

PTA to Tackle Problems Of World at Convention

Mrs. Leon S. Price, president of the National PTA, recently announced that the some 10-million-member organization will hold its 1970 convention from May 31 through June 3 at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, La.

The theme of the convention this year is "Quality Living and Quality Learning for All Americans." It is also the title of the new National PTA Action Program which outlines PTA priorities for the next two years.

Highlights of the action-packed convention include a panel discussion on student unrest . . . Arthur Godfrey talking about pollution . . . an astronaut from one of the moon shots . . . Sam Levenson adding gentle humor with a serious message.

"As the world's largest volunteer organization devoted solely to the welfare of children," Mrs. Price said, "it is only fitting that the National PTA focus attention on critical issues facing the nation today." While in the "Queen City of the South," delegates will come to grips with such subjects as parent involvement in the schools, hunger and disadvantage, project RISE (Reading Improvement Services Everywhere), and challenges of the '70s to the PTA.

Among the distinguished guests scheduled to participate in the convention program are: Donald Rumfeld, director, Office of Economic Opportunity; Robert D. Cross, youth adviser, U. S. Department of State; Charles B. "Bud" Wilkinson, special consultant to the President; Dr. Stanley F. Yellies, director, National Institute for Mental Health.

Navy Lt. William F. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Ellis of Cardiff Road, is now serving at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va.

Candidates To Appear At Forum

The Diamond Springs-Gardenwood Park Civic League will sponsor a public forum at Bayside Elementary School auditorium on Friday, May 15 starting at 8 p.m.

Questions of interest to residents of the Bayside area will be posed to Mrs. Margaret C. Beda, Independent; Dr. Clarence A. Holland, Democrat; Harold Hirschman, Republican; and James A. Reutt, Independent, the candidates for the Bayside Borough Council seat in the general election in June. The objective of the forum will be to allow local citizens to gain a better knowledge of the platforms, qualifications and personalities of all the candidates for the Bayside seat.

The president of the Diamond Springs-Gardenwood Park Civic League emphasizes that the forum will be open to all Virginia Beach citizens and reminds everyone that the only way to have good city government is to have an informed and voting citizenry.

Open House Scheduled

An open house is scheduled by the Father Nicholas J. Habets Council, Knights of Columbus for 2 p.m. Sunday, May 17 at the Council's home, 235 First Colonial Road.

Qualified men interested in joining the Knights of Columbus and their ladies are invited to attend the open house and to learn more about the aims and objectives of the Knights of Columbus, the largest fraternal benefit society for Catholic men in the world.

Saturday night at the home of Mrs. George Dragas Jr. was the installation of officers of the Kings Daughters Colonial Circle of Virginia Beach. This was also a night for the husbands to participate. The new officers are: Mrs. Michael Standing, president; Mrs. William Culverhouse, vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Del Plato, second vice president; Mrs. George Desgain, treasurer; Mrs. David Norman, recording secretary, and Mrs. George Byrd, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Dragas, the outgoing president, installed the new officers and then gave them the motto of the circle.

These officers will hold office from May 1970 to May 1972 so they have two full years of hard work, but from what they tell me the husbands also help them with their many projects for making money. The Colonial Circle is less than three years old and so far they have given to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach a Diathermy unit which is used in physical therapy and a Bemet Mobile Air Compressor which is used for inhalation therapy. Mrs. Dragas was presented with a scrap book of the many activities during her term by Mrs. William Culverhouse.

Jernigan Is Advertiser's New Governor

W. Howard Jernigan, Jr., of Virginia Beach, executive vice president and general manager, WNOR AM-FM, was elected Governor of Virginia, Third District, American Advertising Federation, at the Third District AAF Conference in Greenville, South Carolina.

After serving in every capacity in the Advertising Club of Tidewater Virginia, Jernigan was elected President of the ACT in 1967-68. He is involved in local civic activities, and is currently First Vice President of the Tidewater Better Business Bureau.

A resident of Virginia Beach for the past eleven years, Jernigan is married to former Jacqueline Downing and has three daughters.

Business over, all headed for the den for food and cocktails. The buffet was a little different from most buffets in that it consisted of Beef Bourguignon which is an unusual dish prepared by Mrs. Del Plato with the help of Mrs. Alvin Trimm. Salad was prepared by Mrs. Roger Scott and the rolls and strawberries by Mrs. Dragas.

SOME PEOPLE THINK ELECTRIC HEAT IS ONLY FOR THE RICH.

Except those who have it.

All kinds of people who work for a living have electric heat. People just like you.

They know the value of a dollar. And when they spend it on something as important as home heating, they want total value.

They choose electric heat because it's cleaner, safer, quieter, and more flexible than any other system. It's the only system that will be as up-to-date years from now as it is today.

So when you consider the cost of a heating system, consider the value. Ask yourself whether any other heating system offers more for the money than flameless electric heat.

Ask your developer, architect, or heating contractor about today's best heating value. Electric.

And if people wonder why you're working, tell them it's just a hobby.

He has been Dean's List student and was president of the Civil War Roundtable and leader of the VMI Commanders, cadet dance band. He was a member of the VMI Regimental Band and the Young Democrats and played freshman baseball. He was enrolled in Air Force ROTC and has held the rank of Lieutenant in the Cadet Corps. He plans to enter law school after graduation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Steverson of 2348 Greenwell Rd. Cadet Walker was graduated from Norfolk Academy and has majored in biology. He was enrolled in Air Force ROTC and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Walker, Jr., of 4737 Hermitage Rd.

HELP US HELP!
More than one quarter million pleasure boats were registered in the states of Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina last year! Half of all those registered were under 16 feet in length! An overwhelming number of these were powered by outboard motors. And since boats with low-powered motors or with no motors are not registered, it is estimated that the total number of boats in the three-state area could well approach a half million.
A very small percentage of the boatmen in our area are members of yacht clubs, boating clubs, or the like. Few are members of the U. S. Power Squadrons or the Coast Guard Auxiliary. No more than a tenth of the boat owners attend boating courses of any kind in any year. Many accidents are attributed to those who have had no boating safety instructions.
Over 30 years ago, the Coast Guard Auxiliary was created by an act of Congress to assist in promoting safety on the water. Still the only boating organization in the country so authorized, the Auxiliary today has more than 1,000 flotillas in the United States and membership of some 30,000, in our three-state area there are 78 flotillas with a membership of 2,100.
The Coast Guard Auxiliary did its share of defense work during World War II, but the peacetime programs have made the group stand out in today's world. These activities, as outlined by Congress, include among others, a fostering of a wider knowledge of, and better compliance with, the laws, rules and regulations governing the operation of motorboats and yachts. And they pursue this goal by offering untold numbers of boating courses whenever or wherever there is a group who wants them. The four cornerstones of the Auxiliary are education, examination, operations, and fellowship.

EDUCATION
Perhaps the greatest service of the organization is its public education program. A boatman has the choice of many different courses, each designed to meet the needs of a particular segment of the boating population. Auxiliaries within the Fifth Coast Guard District presented courses to over 15,000 boatmen and prospective boatmen last year.
The outboard motorboat handling course is a one-lesson course of about three hours. It is intended to present the novice or prospective boatman with the basic knowledge required for the safe operation of a boat. The course covers such topics as terminology, life-saving devices, overloading, legal requirements, fueling, aids to navigation and so forth. This is the most widely attended of the three courses, although it is difficult to determine the number of those attending who will actually operate a boat.
The safe-boating course is more valuable than the one-lesson course because it covers more ground, yet it is short in duration. It is presented in three lessons, normally one day per week for three weeks. It is primarily designed for boatmen who operate boats for a relatively short time, perhaps during the summer. A good refresher course in the elements of boating safety which would be valuable for long-time or novice boatmen as a refresher.

The mainstay of the Auxiliary's public education program is the basic seamanship course. It is intended for the boatowner who has little or no experience in boating. And it is a good refresher, too, for the experienced boatman. This is an eight-week, lesson-a-week course with homework assignments and practical work included. Some of the subjects covered are boat construction, maneuvering, charts and compasses, marlinpike seamanship, legal responsibilities and safe operation. Attendees of this course are perhaps the most serious of all in their participation. Some 3,800 boatmen attended these courses last year in the Fifth Coast Guard District.
OTHER ACTIVITIES
Another major problem of the Auxiliary is the courtesy examination of motorboats. The annual "Seal of Safety" decal is probably their best known trademark, and indicates that at the time of issue the boat not only met the required Federal regulations, but went far beyond. This is a free examination and is performed by specially qualified members at the request of the boat owner. It really amounts to a private educational program involving a valuable exchange of boating information. The examiner has no law-enforcement authority; rather, he is sincerely helping the boatmen to meet the legal requirements.
In the field of operations, the Auxiliary helps thousands of recreational boatmen each year who find themselves in trouble. Members cooperate with the Coast Guard and State officials in the patrol of regattas, performance of safety patrols, and in search and rescue.

And then there is the fellowship which goes with membership in a flotilla. Meetings are usually held biweekly or monthly, but the most enjoyable times are experienced at the change-of-watch dinners and dances, division board meetings, and district affairs. Other advantages of membership in the Auxiliary are the special courses offered to its members, among which are piloting, seamanship, weather, communications, and navigation.
WHO NEEDS IT?
You do! We do! The Auxiliary is a volunteer, nonmilitary organization. Though there is an authorized uniform, it is optional for each member. The organization is closely affiliated with the Coast Guard, but remains strictly civil in nature. All elected officials come from the membership of the organization.
There are thousands of boatmen, and prospective boatmen, who need the education offered by the Auxiliary. And the demand will outstrip the supply. If you are interested, write to: Director of Auxiliary, Fifth Coast Guard District, Federal Building, Portsmouth, Virginia 23705.

May 8 Revives Past Memories

On May 8, 1945, American troops were still advancing against Japanese forces in both the Philippines and Okinawa. But in the European Theater, May 8 was a day of complete victory--it was VE-Day, and the war there was over.

This year, May 8 marks the 25th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe. At the Army Transportation Center at Ft. Eustis and Ft. Story, men who were serving in the U.S. Army in Europe on that day will join the millions of Americans in VE-Day observances.

It was the historical importance of VE-Day that attracted the interest of retired Army Col. Jean Gray now at the Transportation School at Ft. Eustis. "I knew the end of the War was coming and I wanted to see what would be happening in London. At that time I was at Tidworth Barracks, so I got a jeep and drove up on May 7. The next morning at breakfast, the news had been released."

With a smile, Colonel Gray then talked about what it was like in London on VE-Day. "Most of the uniforms that you saw on the street were Allied, not British and the girls and women--were just wild. I don't know how much rouge and lipstick I had on my uniform. During the morning BBC radio announced that for the first time since the start of the War in 1939, the lights in London would be turned on again. The whole celebration went on for about two days. It then took me about a month to rest up from the celebration."

Sgt. L.C. Elmer Ridenour, now on active duty at Ft. Story, was about as close as you can get to enemy forces. Sgt. Ridenour had been captured by the Germans Jan. 1.

"One of my first thoughts was that it was a pretty bad way to start the new year," he recalled. "From where I was captured in southern France, I was transferred through several POW camps and even passed through Dachau before getting to a place on the Czechoslovakian border where we were put to work building a rest camp for the German army. Then, when I was ill with diphtheria, I was sent to Dresden--right at the time of the big incendiary bombing."

Finally, after almost being recaptured by the American forces, Sergeant Ridenour and 28 other American soldiers were liberated by Russian troops advancing toward Berlin. "The Russian troops who liberated us were Mongolian cavalry and we were among the first into the city of Berlin. The news about VE-Day came over the radio. There was quite a bit of celebration among the Russians with a few drinks being had by everyone and a whole lot of accordion playing."

Nearly everyone in Europe had heard rumors that a ceasefire was to be signed in the near future. Command Sgt. Maj. Jacob Miller, now at Ft. Story, was in the Alpine region of Italy and had begun to suspect something when, on the night of May 7, they were ordered to line up their half-tracks by platoons and sleep directly in front of them.

"We had never done that before," he said. "Then, when our sergeant came around the next morning he woke us up by saying 'Get up, boys, the war is over.' It took us about 10 minutes to realize what he had said and at least half an hour to believe it!"

For everyone there was a feeling of relaxation when the news about VE-Day came. But, according to Col. Alton G. Post, "We had never done that before."

Discharge Differences Explained

The Veterans Administration has moved to clear up misconceptions about two types of military discharges.

Citing the problem, the Roanoke VA Regional Office said that misunderstanding about the differences between "honorable" and "general" discharge certificates are causing some veterans unjustified difficulties.

"Actually, both types of separation are completely acceptable for veterans benefits," VA explained.

The general discharge always has the qualifying phrase "under honorable conditions" because this type of separation is issued as evidence of honorable service.

The manager said some ex-servicemen have reported trouble obtaining employment after showing potential employers their general discharge certificates.

Both Sides Must Wait For Results of Hearing On Closure of Refuge

By JAMES TURNER

An overflow crowd of about 2,000 people sat, stood and squirmed Monday night for nearly 3 1/2 hours as the regional director for the Department of the Interior listened to 71 speakers concerned over the closure of the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge to vehicular traffic.

Held at the request of First District Rep. Thomas N. Downing, the hearing was the scene of protests ranging from wild complaints about a driver's rights on the beach to vehement arguments for the closing of the area.

The controversy over the closure arose when Robert Gilmore, manager of the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge, announced that the 4.2-mile stretch of beach would be closed. Gilmore said that increased traffic on the beach was destroying the dunes which protect the Back Bay area from the ocean.

At Monday's hearing Gilmore presented a set of slides showing what he termed destruction of the dunes and safety hazards constituted by bathers, fishermen and little children in the path of speeding beach vehicles.

One of the slides showed two young people, one of whom Gilmore said appeared to be under the influence of drugs.

Almost all of Gilmore's brief presentation was greeted by catcalls, hisses and booing.

Presenting the Department of Interior's position was the regional director C. Edwin Carlson, who gave a brief history of the refuge and outlined its function as a migratory preserve and a sanctuary for rare and endangered species.

The refuge's primary recreational aim, he said, "is to offer the visiting public an opportunity to enjoy the plant and animal life associated with the bay, dune and beach environment."

He said the refuge will seek to provide facilities where needed to accommodate and encourage wildlife observation, beach combing, nature study, photography, swimming, hiking, surf fishing and environmental education, when the refuge is fully developed.

A master plan now being completed will provide for a concessioner-operated sand train for tours, a wildlife interpretive center, driving and walking wildlife trails, demonstration centers and other interpretive facilities, Carlson said.

But Carlson emphasized that "one vehicular track perpendicular to and over a dune line may eventually result in a major cut through the dune unless it is repaired and stabilized. Foot paths can have the same ultimate effect."

Over the years, he said, about $500,000 has been spent to maintain and construct dunes. The Civilian Conservation Corps rebuilt the dunes in 1939 and 1940, two years after the refuge was purchased.

"No management plan will satisfy all needs of all people; however, we believe that our current approach to use of the beach provides for maximum enjoyment of the area without detriment to the primary purposes for which the refuge was established," Carlson said.

ing, several other petitions for and against the closure were read in the record.

The first and perhaps most forceful speaker opposing the closure was Andre Evans, Commonwealth's Attorney.

"Closing the beachfront to the general public is not the answer to wildlife and conservation measures to be achieved by federal authorities," he said.

"These worthwhile goals cannot succeed in halfway measures that would allow some intrusion by some people and vehicles."

This is a law enforcement problem, he said, but keeping the people off the beach will not solve the problem. "By extending this logic, we could solve the crime problem by vacating the city."

Evans raised the constitutional question of equal protection under the law as provided for by the 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution. To allow commercial fishermen, and property owners who hold land south of the refuge beach access to that area without considering the remainder of the people would be unjust, he said.

Schemes to allow people to hold property south of the refuge so that they could have access to the beach would soon develop, and it would not be long before the federal authorities denied access to everyone.

Evans said, "Federal power, once established, seldom recedes," he said.

Other speakers opposing the closure were Roger Scott, city manager, who presented a City Council resolution passed May 11, and W. Wright Harrison, chairman of the board of Virginia National Bank.

Harrison said he had received phone calls about the closure of the beach from all 102 of his branch bank heads, one from as far away as Abington. These people, he said, are not abusers, they are responsible people.

"If you take away the greatest attraction of all, you are making a grave mistake," Harrison said.

Pointing his remarks to the federal and state officials present, Harrison added that "...the federal government is a servant of the people, not its master."

Referring to a slide shown by Gilmore allegedly showing two youths under the influence of drugs, he said that "We are having enough trouble with the teenager and now you want to take away a place for them to play."

But the preponderance of young people present appeared to be supporting the closure. Students from Virginia Western College were seen.

Those present wreaths included Sgt. E. L. Jackson, president of Princess Anne F. O. P. Lodge #8; Mrs. G. R. Griffith, F.O.P. Ladies Auxiliary Club chapter; Alvin L. Rodgers, representing Virginia Beach Justices of the Peace; the District Judge Robert S. Wahab, Jr., representing the Virginia Beach courts; Commonwealth's Attorney Andre Evans, president of the Virginia Beach Bar Association; Lt. A. R. Nobles, representing the Police Association of Virginia; and Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce President James P. Sadler, representing the Virginia Beach Innkeepers Association and the Virginia Beach Restaurant Association.

Commenting briefly on the student unrest which exists today on a number of American campuses Turnbull said, "In these turbulent times understanding and trust between the responsible young people of the country and the organs of our government are essential."

The service was highlighted by the placing of memorial wreaths in honor of former Virginia Beach police officers Charles E. Porteus, Robert R. Monette and Roger Lee McClung.

What are your feelings concerning efforts toward area cooperation in various departments such as water, transportation, juvenile facilities including halfway houses, drug center, recreational facilities including parks, zoo, and stadium?

Cohan: I do not feel that there has been enough honest effort toward areawide cooperation in the fields mentioned.

Comess: There is no question but that areawide cooperation, particularly in the areas outlined in the question, is a necessity. Please note, however, I am not in favor of merger with any of the cities.

Geist: In a metro area such as Tidewater cooperation between the various municipalities is a must for our survival as an independent entity of government. It also makes possible the saving of money in the use of joint facilities.

Opallo: I most emphatically support area transportation and juvenile recreation facilities that will keep our youth entertained, trained and involved.

Parker: I am in favor of these issues being given first priority.

Bay Front

Residents Get Better Explanation of Plan

By FRANK MAGIERA

The second Bay Front Area Development Plan was presented to area residents and the Planning Commission at Hermitage School Tuesday evening. The Commission agreed unanimously to postpone acceptance of the plan until consideration is given to reaction of area residents. They will make their decision at the next regular meeting.

The initial plan for development of the Bay Front area was presented at an earlier hearing but was revised when residents objected to basic proposals.

"The first plan was a big misunderstanding," said one city planning official. "Through some of the plan has been revised, the biggest change is in the clearer presentation by the planners and better understanding by the people, he said.

On paper, the new plan calls for developing Greenwell Road into a 60-foot right of way and improving the present layout by eliminating curves and turns in the road.

Some residents of the area objected to this proposal because, they said, present population and traffic volume does not require any alterations in the road.

Excluded from the new plan is a motel-hotel development south of Ocean Park in the Chesapeake Beach area. Other areas of commercial development proposed in the initial plan were merely reduced.

Also excluded are apartment buildings in the West Chesapeake Beach and Lake Virginia areas. Some of the area previously zoned for apartments was rezoned for single-family dwellings and there is a general decrease in multi-family areas.

The revised plan left intact most of the proposals for recreational areas in the Bay Front. One additional fishing area was proposed under the Lynnhaven Inlet Bridge.

It was also recommended that a 200-foot conservation strip be maintained around all of the lakes within the entire Bay Front area, and no construction be permitted closer than 50 feet from the top of the bank. No further developments would be allowed in this area with septic tanks. The new plan would also have the island south of Ocean Park in the Lynnhaven Inlet maintained as a conservation area. It was originally slated for high-density development.

The new plan also excluded an exit ramp at Chesapeake Beach for South-bound traffic on route 13. The proposal for a ramp there for north-bound traffic, however, was retained.

"This is basically the same plan," said the planning official, "but it's not so misunderstood."

"When we met with people after the first presentation we found we were not really too far from what they actually wanted," he said.

Proposed scheduling to be tried out next fall in several schools may save the city the cost of constructing a new secondary school.

"We hope to make better use of existing plants rather than building others," School Supt. E.E. Brickell told the Virginia Beach School Board Tuesday.

According to estimates, some 1800 to 2400 more students can be accommodated in present schools without increasing class size. The plan is now in use at Princess Anne High School on a trial basis. First Colonial will try it next fall.

Cox, Kemperville and Kemperville Junior High are working out details of such a plan. Basically, the plan is simple. One extra class period is added each day by eliminating home room and beginning classes at 8:50. The scheduling structure does not change. Class periods are shortened from 55 minutes to 53 minutes to make up the rest of the needed time.

The plan has already proven its worth at Princess Anne High School. According to earlier estimates, the school would have needed two more mobile units next fall. Now no more will be needed because of the school's ability to handle more students through the added period.

One of the major advantages of the plan is that teachers can teach five classes a day. Presently many are teaching only four because the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools requires a period each day for teacher planning. In addition the Commenting on the controversy over the Greenwell Road alterations, he said city planners expected some disapproval.

"However after considering projections and plans for the overall area, we felt in the long run this plan would best satisfy the needs of the people. All we really want is to give people safe ingress and egress in that area."

Scheduling Plan Could Postpone Need For School

By CAROLYN MCALLEN

Proposed scheduling to be tried out next fall in several schools may save the city the cost of constructing a new secondary school.

"We hope to make better use of existing plants rather than building others," School Supt. E.E. Brickell told the Virginia Beach School Board Tuesday.

According to estimates, some 1800 to 2400 more students can be accommodated in present schools without increasing class size. The plan is now in use at Princess Anne High School on a trial basis. First Colonial will try it next fall.

Cox, Kemperville and Kemperville Junior High are working out details of such a plan. Basically, the plan is simple. One extra class period is added each day by eliminating home room and beginning classes at 8:50. The scheduling structure does not change. Class periods are shortened from 55 minutes to 53 minutes to make up the rest of the needed time.

The plan has already proven its worth at Princess Anne High School. According to earlier estimates, the school would have needed two more mobile units next fall. Now no more will be needed because of the school's ability to handle more students through the added period.

One of the major advantages of the plan is that teachers can teach five classes a day. Presently many are teaching only four because the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools requires a period each day for teacher planning. In addition the teachers will have time to work with individual and groups of students during the school day. Students will be scheduled for six classes a day rather than five. This way many students who have been unable to take electives will have the opportunity to do so. For instance, college-bound students can take shop, band or home economics, etc. which otherwise they could not.

In addition, it will allow a more diversified curriculum since classrooms will be available an extra period. Speed reading has been added at Princess Anne.

A scheduling change is also planned at Plaza Junior High School, but it is a different kind. It will be a streamlining of the team teaching-modular scheduling already in effect.

Students will be assigned to 87 minute classes on an alternating schedule. They will attend one set of classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of one week and Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of the next. There will be a two-minute break in the middle of each time block. Students will have a supervised laboratory period each day in one time block. He will not necessarily spend all his time in one lab, however. There will be a lab for each subject area (math, English, social studies, etc.), and students will be sent to the prescribed lab for work. When it is completed, he may move on to another lab or to the library.

Need for Concern Presented As Challenge at Ceremonies

By LES LEHIGH

"Today, law enforcement, and indeed our citizens, face their greatest challenge. Failure to respond to this challenge can only lead to chaos and despair."

This reflection on present day conditions was made by Virginia Beach Police Chief Col. W. W. Davis Friday during Peace Officer Memorial Day services.

The ceremony, conducted in City Council chambers, paid special tribute to former resort city police officers who lost their lives in the performance of their duty.

Davis, acting as master of ceremonies for the program, pointed to the importance of the event by saying, "This is a day for all true Americans to realize the vital role our officers play in insuring the tranquility and peace of mind each of us enjoys and cherishes in our individual communities and oftentimes is taken for granted."

"But this is also a day," Davis continued, "when we should observe and contemplate those elements, which by various and devious means, are intent on destroying our society by disrupting our cities, campuses and life as we know it. This is the day and time for those who believe in America to take a firm stand and for the sake of men who have sworn to uphold the rights of those who are the workers, the builders and supporters of this great nation, and to preserve those principles which our forefathers laid down and we must never let perish."

Albert R. Turnbull, associate professor and assistant dean of the University of Virginia Law School, delivered the Memorial address. Turnbull praised the program of hiring law students from various colleges and universities as summer police officers in the resort city. He referred to the program as one which "creates an atmosphere in which the professional policeman and the prospective judge or legislator can get to know one another personally and can discuss the complexities of law making and the problems of law enforcement together. The lawyer or judge-to-be gets a personal in-depth exposure to the practical challenges and dangers involved with police work."

Commenting briefly on the student unrest which exists today on a number of American campuses Turnbull said, "In these turbulent times understanding and trust between the responsible young people of the country and the organs of our government are essential."

The service was highlighted by the placing of memorial wreaths in honor of former Virginia Beach police officers Charles E. Porteus, Robert R. Monette and Roger Lee McClung.

What are your feelings concerning efforts toward area cooperation in various departments such as water, transportation, juvenile facilities including halfway houses, drug center, recreational facilities including parks, zoo, and stadium?

Cohan: I do not feel that there has been enough honest effort toward areawide cooperation in the fields mentioned.

Comess: There is no question but that areawide cooperation, particularly in the areas outlined in the question, is a necessity. Please note, however, I am not in favor of merger with any of the cities.

Geist: In a metro area such as Tidewater cooperation between the various municipalities is a must for our survival as an independent entity of government. It also makes possible the saving of money in the use of joint facilities.

Opallo: I most emphatically support area transportation and juvenile recreation facilities that will keep our youth entertained, trained and involved.

Parker: I am in favor of these issues being given first priority.

More Candidates Reply to Questions

The League of Women Voters of Norfolk - Virginia Beach, which provided a survey of Democratic/Candidate candidates' views on major issues before the Democratic primary, has completed a similar survey of independent and Republican candidates for the June 9 general election.

Answers of at-large candidates are being used this week. Next week's paper will have the borough candidates. At-large candidates are Alan B. Comess, John W. Geist, Mrs. Virginia Opallo and Israel Steingold, Republicans; Francis H. Cohan, Albert D. Newbern, S. C. Parker and Milton J. Weller, independents.

1. What are your feelings concerning efforts toward area cooperation in various departments such as water, transportation, juvenile facilities including halfway houses, drug center, recreational facilities including parks, zoo, and stadium?

Cohan: I do not feel that there has been enough honest effort toward areawide cooperation in the fields mentioned.

Comess: There is no question but that areawide cooperation, particularly in the areas outlined in the question, is a necessity. Please note, however, I am not in favor of merger with any of the cities.

Geist: In a metro area such as Tidewater cooperation between the various municipalities is a must for our survival as an independent entity of government. It also makes possible the saving of money in the use of joint facilities.

Opallo: I most emphatically support area transportation and juvenile recreation facilities that will keep our youth entertained, trained and involved.

Parker: I am in favor of these issues being given first priority.

Steingold: My feeling concerning efforts toward area cooperation in various departments is partly summed up in my original announcement last January which calls for investigation of the benefits of metropolitan cooperation for joint water and sewer service by creation of statutory service districts.

I am in favor of area cooperation also in connection with transportation, juvenile facilities, drug center, recreational facilities and stadium.

Weller: I believe in areawide cooperation.

What would you like to see done about public housing in areas where substandard housing exists?

Newbern: Government redevelopment and/or private enterprise under the F.H.A. #235 and #236 laws subsidizes rental and buying homes for low income families. Mortgage companies do the processing and work at very small cost to Federal government.

Opallo: Take full advantage of all State and Federal programs relating to this particular problem.

Parker: I would like to see the substandard housing replaced and brought up to standards and administered by the housing code.

Steingold: I would like to see substandard housing eliminated as quickly as possible.

Weller: Their city has an ordinance requiring all housing to meet a required standard. I would like to see it enforced.

How do you feel about developers donating land for schools and parks as part of the requirement for receiving a building permit?

Cohan: I think that developers should make provisions for schools or parks within their newly developed areas if the size of the complex (with consideration for types and sizes of families) will have an overloading affect on the existing facilities. I do believe that there should be an equitable settlement for the land so designated.

Comess: I feel that this is a beginning and a step in the right direction. Presently, there are 30 states and 18 cities which have adopted similar ordinances requiring developers to donate land for these purposes.

Geist: I favor having developers donate land for playgrounds or "lot lots," and also for elementary schools.

Newbern: Developers should be obligated to do their fair share in donating land for schools and parks; it is the custom in many areas throughout the country.

Opallo: If City Council would have enforced the master plan, which was required eight years ago when Virginia Beach received her City Charter, our problem of over developed and unplanned areas would not be with us today. Building permits should not be encumbered with the connotation that one must give something before you can get a permit.

Parker: I feel that it could probably be a springboard to a conflict of interest within the City Government, and it shouldn't be done.

Steingold: Large developers should not only provide for schools, but they should also set aside and provide outdoor recreation for young and old. However, I do not believe that a person who develops a one or two-acre plot should be placed in the same class as a land developer who builds 100 units or more.

Weller: The land for schools and parks should be set aside by the developer at acquisition cost at the time he is granted a subdivision permit.

Labor Council Endorses Slate

The Norfolk Virginia Union Labor Council COPE Committee met last week to consider endorsements of City Council Candidates for the Cities of Norfolk and Virginia Beach. The following local candidates received COPE's unanimous endorsement: James A. Reitt, F. Reid Ervin, Frank Tarrell, Sam Houston, Jr. and Milton J. Weller.

Permit Schedule Listed

Commencing on June 15, food service employees must have a valid food handler's permit issued by the Virginia Beach Health Department before being employed in a food service establishment in the City of Virginia Beach.

The food handler's permit will be issued without charge to the employee by the Virginia Beach Health Department upon proof of a satisfactory chest x-ray and the presentation of a photograph of approximately one (1) inch by two (2) inches which will be affixed to the permit at the time it is issued. Permits will be valid for one (1) year from the date of the x-ray.

Chest x-rays may be obtained free of charge on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Wednesday, between 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. at the Virginia Beach Health Department located at 19th and Arctic Avenue. They may also be obtained at the mobile x-ray

Bersing

Ends Study

Donald M. Bersing, an associate of the Norfolk office of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., has completed one week of specialized study at the company's Springfield, Mass., home office as a member of the firm's 21st business insurance seminar for career underwriters. He was among 42 representatives from 30 field offices attending.

The seminar dealt primarily with the problems of business owners that may be effectively solved by arrangements involving life insurance. Recent developments and trends in business were emphasized and current tax matters reviewed. A member of the Norfolk Life Underwriters Association, he is a city committeeman of the Republican Party of Virginia Beach and active in the Optimist Club of Norfolk. He, his wife and their five children reside at Lynn Shores Drive.

Planners Cite C&P

At the annual meeting of the Virginia Citizens Planning Association, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia received a citation for "outstanding contribution" to planning by placing cable underground and developing buildings and other facilities in regard to making them aesthetic assets to the communities.

W. E. Vellines, chief engineer for the C&P received the award for the company. The basis on which the citation was made was as follows:

"The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has provided strong leadership in developing buildings and other facilities in regard to making them aesthetic assets to the communities in which they have been placed. These buildings have been constructed in large and in small communities as well, with the same regard for blending in with the environment or exceeding the acceptable standards."

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia has also provided outstanding contribution to construction and equipment installation by placing them either underground or out-of-sight. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company is the leader in this area of the United States in this effort. In 1969, 90 percent of all sites requiring new telephone service in Virginia were provided for with out-of-sight distribution plant."

Boardings Increasing

United Air Lines logged a 20 per cent increase in passenger boardings at Norfolk Regional Airport during April.

C. S. Plumb, sales manager, SAID United had 24,722 revenue passengers for the month compared to 20,480 in April, 1969. Air mail handled totaled 389,891 pounds, up 16 percent; first class mail handled tallied 143,194 pounds, up 2 per cent; express was 119,737 pounds, up 74 per cent; and freight handled was 873,896 pounds, up 96 per cent.

Agents Meet At Cavalier

A management conference for 28 general agents and assistant general agents of American National Insurance Co. of Galveston are meeting this week at the Cavalier Hotel.

The Galveston Life Insurance company is one of the largest in the U.S., ranking in the top 20 among 1800 companies. It has more than $10 billion of life insurance in force.

Area Labor Office Moves

The Labor Department's Norfolk Field Station office of the Wage and Hour Divisions is now located in the Stanwick Building, 3661 East Virginia Beach Blvd., Norfolk, according to an announcement made by Regional Director Pat Melson of Nashville, Tenn.

Employees and employers, as well as the general public, will now be able to contact representatives of the Wage and Hour Division on an around-the-clock basis. This office, which is staffed by Compliance Officers Ernest C. Orr, Gilbert C. Parker and Clyde A. Hillard, is responsible for the administration and enforcement of a number of Federal Laws and regulations covering minimum wages, overtime work, child labor, equal pay for men and women, and age discrimination in employment.

Through means of a telephone recording device, which is activated when the Compliance Officers are away from the office, callers may leave their message or furnish a telephone number where they can be reached when the Compliance Officers return to the office. Incoming calls will be recorded at any hour of the day or night and the call will be returned as soon as possible. Weekend calls will be returned the following Monday. The Norfolk number is 627-7471, extension 7701. The Area Code is 703.

Bank Merges with F & M

Stockholders of First & Merchants National Bank, Richmond, and stockholders of Suburban National Bank, McLean, Va., have approved plans for the merger of the two banks. The Boards of Directors of both banks executed the merger agreement in December of last year.

Robert L. Gordon, Jr., chairman of the Board of First & Merchants, and William N. Deaver, president of Suburban National, made the announcement jointly following stockholders' meetings of both banks. The merger is subject to the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency.

First & Merchants National Bank is 105 years old, having begun in 1865, and currently has 58 offices in Virginia. At the end of the first quarter of 1970, F&M reported assets of $784,484,429 and deposits of $651,213,893. Suburban National began in 1966 as the result of the merger of the First National Bank of Arlington, having its beginning in 1951 and the First National Bank of Vienna, which began in 1962. It has six offices in the Arlington-Fairfax area and reported total assets of $49,656,000 and total deposits of $43,324,000 at the end of the past year.

Garage Group Elects Estes

Thomas L. Estes, owner of Estes Garage, was elected president of the Independent Garage Owners of Virginia at the organization's State Convention held in Roanoke on Saturday.

The organization has 240 members throughout the state and represents the independent repair shop owners in establishing high standards of ethics in automotive repairs, certification of mechanics, representation of the industry before legislative bodies, and works toward a general upgrading of the repair industry.

Other officers elected include H.G. "Buck" Rogers of Virginia Beach, treasurer.

medical assistance for residents.

All fire departments are taking part in the fund raising drive with the exception of the units from the Beach Borough, which will conduct its drive at a later date, and the Knotts Island Volunteers, who are supported by funds from North Carolina residents.

Residents are reminded of the reasoning behind the requesting of a minimum donation of $5 per household, as opposed to a previous donation of $3.65, as because of the increase in operating costs.

While the formal fund raising drive ends on May 31, donations will still be accepted after that date. Donations should be made by May 31st if possible to allow each of the fire departments to ascertain how much money they will be able to budget.

This poster very plainly illustrates the importance of the fund drive.

Residents of Virginia Beach are being reminded that the annual fund raising drive by the various volunteer fire departments in the resort city is nearing its conclusion.

This annual drive is the primary source of revenue which permits the volunteer fire departments, and rescue squads, to operate at the high level of proficiency required for proper fire protection and emergency

The Dawning

For as long as democratic institutions have existed, citizens have been assailed as an apathetic lot whose prime motivating interests have been self-oriented, those interests extending no further than their respective back yards. But the response to a public hearing on the closure of the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge beach Monday evening vindicated Virginia Beach's citizens.

The turnout for the hearing, over 2,000 and perhaps the largest this city has ever experienced, was an invigorating experience for anyone who doubts the public's voice. Federal and state officials as well as the district's Congressman, were repeatedly reminded that the government is the slave, not the master, as well it should be.

But what strikes us as the most important feature of the controversy is not whether the beach will be closed to traffic nor the increased hue and cry of conservationists.

What will remain in our mind is that for the first time in far too many years the citizen took his responsibility seriously and began a new phase in participatory democracy in this city.

Mr. Gilmore knew only too well that shortly he would be in the midst of a furor that would not subside quickly, yet he took his stand and made the people think.

We are not in agreement with Mr. Gilmore's total concept; admittedly, the beach must remain free of litter and the dunes left undisturbed, but to close the 4.2 mile stretch of beach to traffic should be the final step, not the first.

It would seem that the editorial adage that it matters not whether the people agree with an argument but that they become active and vocal is more than applicable here.

Youth's New Approach

Several interested citizens contacted this publication last week concerning a group of young people who were, on their own initiative, cleaning the beach of discarded drink cans and trash. One of these citizens wrote a letter to the editor commending these young people.

Unfortunately, the Sun was unable to contact the youngsters. Today's youth needs more constructive recognition to offset some of the distasteful publicity they receive. Therefore, the following open letter is addressed to them:

Dear Kids: You have no idea how much of an impression you made on the adults who contacted this office about your self-imposed clean-up program. Each of them asked that you be given a public pat on the back for your interest.

You have set a fine example for not only people of your own age but for adults as well. You were in all probability cleaning up debris scattered by unconcerned people much older than yourselves.

Never has there been a generation more interested, more involved than today's youth. If only more adults -- and this can be those but a few years removed from their teens -- could see beyond your longhair and unusual dress. If only they could see your depth of concern for the world about you. They see your dissent; they see your violence; they see your unconventional manner and dance. But they don't see you. They don't see what you are nor do they hear what you're trying to say. Why? Because you are going about it the wrong way. You can't cry peace but scream violence; you can't seek love but show hate. It's little wonder that so few adults understand you.

You young people who, in your own quiet fashion, showed concern for your environment by removing trash from a public beach, accomplished more through this small effort than hundreds have through loud dissent. Your concern and interest was recognized and your method was appreciated. Now you are on the right track.

Editor Challenged

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:
Before you begin your campaign pro and con on townhouses, perhaps you had best check on the reason many young people prefer our homes to "most of the city's nicer complexes."

First, we are "the citizens who fear the deterioration of the community." We also do something about our own small patch of land.

Secondly, we go and do together. Perhaps you should come to Lake Edward West on a Saturday some time and see what I mean.

On Red Horse Lane we help cut each other's lawns, weed, share our thoughts, joys and relax. This is not a black or white street. This is a street of human beings who care about each other as people.

What kind of people live on our street? A policeman, a naval officer, a teacher, a social worker, an architect, a claims investigator, a restaurant owner, a civil service employee.

Our final reason is really part of our first. My husband and I compared prices, areas, construction continually for 2-1/2 years before we bought our home. We have a lovely home and we don't think you know from whence you speak.

Come on out, Mr. Editor and relax. And stop writing before you have the facts.

Not concerning schools, sewage, etc., but that we are not a spin-off of Tobacco Road. But, then, you won't, will you?

Candidate Speaks

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:
It is encouraging to note that your reader response was unanimous on the question of the city hiring a full-time ecologist.

During the recent councilmanic primary I recommended this same action. I am enclosing a copy of my original release on the subject which suggests that the person hired "be qualified to establish effective programs for pollution control as well as to help evaluate the effect of various proposed projects on our ecology." I have stated since leaving the original release that the establishment of this position and its funding might produce more effective results on an area wide basis. In any event, the need for having such expertise available to council is obvious.

phone and plastic bags, boards with nails, papers; in short all of the clutter and debris the beach has so mysteriously managed to collect. I saw five or six but there may have been more. When I asked I was told that it was their own idea. Hair length didn't seem to matter. There were short hairs, and longhairs working together. I thought about the beauty of the people of this country. It's so easy to badger and taunt each other for all kinds of political reasons, yet we CAN cooperate.

So I called the Sun and I hope you sent a reporter. To older people who might read or hear about this I have to say: relax, and stop worrying about the young ones -- evidently you've done a better job raising them than you think. To the young I have to say: relax and stop worrying. Your heads are together -- and thanks for a clean beach. To the thirty-year old fogey-ish kindergarteners: keep observing and understanding. To the city officials: please encourage them in good things instead of badgering them for being kids. To the litterbugs: Well -- you might be becoming extinct.

Very truly yours,

Pari-Mutuel Betting

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:
I, nor any of my family, do not bet or gamble, but that doesn't mean we are against Pari-Mutuel betting -- in fact we are very much in favor of it.

Being retired from the Navy we've done quite a bit of travelling and lived in areas where they had Pari-Mutuel betting, and we saw what it did for schools in that area and those schools were paid from profits of the betting.

I'm talking about Rhode Island, California and New Jersey, the schools in those localities were far better, the teachers were better paid and they had a better grade of teachers.

And very little money of the local taxes were used on the schools.

And a time when work is needed this will give many people work and that means more wage taxes, permits, and more tourism in the area.

And in closing, I would like to bring to your attention that our local super markets have had horse racing a couple of years ago even if it was on TV. What is the difference?

FIONA, by Catherine Gaskin, New York, Doubleday & Company, Inc., 1970, $5.95.

Fiona MacIntyre is the troubled heroine of this latest novel by the author of I KNOW MY LOVE AND CORPORATION WIFE. Blessed or cursed with "the slight" as Scots call those who see occasional flashes of the future, she tries to make her living as a governess. Because of "the slight" and her uncanny forebodings of disaster, she is dismissed from her first three positions and is doubtful that she will be hired again.

A request for the services of a governess is sent to her father from the branch of the family living in the West Indies. As the only other eligible MacIntyre daughter is about to be married, Fiona is chosen. She finds life on a sugar plantation much more dangerous than she had expected. The Maxwells, for whom she works, are a strange family. The father, Andrew, plays drunk almost constantly and leaves the care of the plantation to his Spanish wife Maria, whom Fiona observes to flirt with any eligible man she sees. Fiona finds her young pupil, Duncan, to be the image of her own brother, and he seems to be her only friend, until she learns that Maxwell has another son, Fergus, who is illegitimate. The plot revolves around these questions: why is there no profit from this obviously prospering plantation? Why was Fiona hired - to care for Duncan or to spite Maria? How long will the slaves remain in bondage and the plantation life, as it was for so long, continue. All in all, good light fiction for a hot summer day?

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell, Ph.D.

Voters of the country, it is almost that time again. We are about to be pursued by the swift footed, golden throated, wild promising and ever smiling politicians. They are starting to stir and before long they will be out in full force.

Most of the time we can't find our glorious leaders. They seem to hide from us after the election is over and the people start to wonder about the promises and smiles that induced (or is that seduced) them to vote for the winners.

Hide as they seem to do, when it comes time for the next election, they must come out from under their desk or where ever it is they hide and bring forth a new and better and bigger and more unbelievable set of big promises. Just once I would like to see a candidate run on his record rather than on a new slate of big promises.

This wild race for the flickle votes must be done with great skill. It must be timed just right. If the voters are allowed time enough to think, they just might figure out that if the "Big Promisers" delivered even a small part of the vote getting deals and promises, we would have one heck of a time paying for all those goodies.

It has always been a mystery to me why anyone would spend - many times what a political job pays (honestly) to get the job. For a job that pays twenty or thirty thousand dollars a year, it takes several hundred thousand dollars to run a campaign. Why would anyone want to spend all that money for a job for only a few years?

True, our glorious politicians don't spend their own money. They dig-up the money from the voters but that makes even less sense. Why would anyone help pay for a candidate to get elected? I am not making any wild accusations but I wouldn't be at all surprised if the "Big Donators" just might expect some return on all that money. It is not like wealthy people to put up money without a good chance of not only getting it back but some interest on the side.

What chance does a little spending, small promising vote grubber have today? In a time when the successful candidate seems to be the one that can cut spend and out promise the rest knowing full well it would bankrupt the world if he kept them, a little spender and a small promoter doesn't stand much of a chance.

Political promises seem to be the same all over the country - more roads, more schools, larger teacher salaries, more services, more this and more that BUT less taxes and less government. It just can't be done. It never has been done and it never will be done, but it sure sounds good.

What choice do the good voters have this coming election? Not much. For the most part the glorious leaders are just brushing off their past promises and adding a few new ones. The "ins" are trying to justify the unfulfilled promises while the "outs" are making the promises the "ins" made and didn't keep. Big deal!

With most political promises about the same, it would save time and money just to put all the candidates names in a hat and draw one.

We always have a few new candidates out for the first time. They are unknown and not bogged down with any old promises. New candidates have a clear field when it comes to promises. Of course, being unknown, they don't have much chance. They just have the "I want's" and that is bad.

With all the candidates running, we might have one or two that have a platform that makes sense. If the tax payers can afford it, you can bet it is not good enough to get them elected. Unless a platform is flavored with the impossible, a dash of the unbelievable and a shake of the down right ridiculous, the voters won't like it.

Everyone likes a winner and in politics a winner is very important. Election time, good old fun and game time, seems to blind the voter to the importance of being right rather than winning.

A vote for what is right is never a wasted vote. If voters are going to vote for the front running candidate just to be a winner, we just might as well change the system and let the polls pick our leaders.

The only thing I have is one vote. I can't even be sure that my lovely wife will follow my lead. I am going to vote for the candidates that make sense, who keep their promises in line with our pocketbook and keeps the spending low. I might not pick a winner but no matter, the winners won't know me until the next election anyway. I would rather be right than waste my vote on a big spender and big promoter.

Pari-Mutuel Betting Wins

Pari-mutuel betting at Virginia Beach does not seem to be an issue. At least that would be the indication from the results of last week's Sun Survey question "Are you in favor of pari-mutuel betting in Virginia Beach as a large source of revenue for the city?"

Readers response to this question was strong and unanimous -- in favor of it. There were letters to the editor on the proposal and comments on the questionnaires, ranging from "sure am" to "the sooner the better."

It certainly would appear that the citizens of this resort city would support City Council should they decide to put pari-mutuel betting to a vote.

This week's Sun Survey question takes off in a different direction.

It was prompted, of course, by the presentation before council Monday on an art museum. The Virginia Beach Art Association has proposed such a project and has asked council for a $10,000 appropriation to pay the curator's salary the first year.

There are many struggling fine art projects in Virginia Beach, Little Theatre, civic chorus, civic orchestra, many others. Should the city assume some of this responsibility?

A native of Osborne, Ark., he lived in the Norfolk and Virginia Beach area 46 years, lately at 5160 Shenstone Drive. He was a veteran of World Wars I and II and retired from the Navy in 1945 after 27 years as a chief storekeeper.

Besides his widow and mother, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mildred Gilbert of Oklahoma; and a brother, Mansfield Beaver of Idaho.

According to Joe Wisniewski, assistant principal at Plaza, a classroom that was previously free only one period a week will be free three, allowing the accommodation of 250-300 more students. He emphasized the importance of team teaching and extensive planning for the long classes.

In other action the Board heard a report from Bruce McGuire, director of elementary education, that the Center for Effective Learning has received a $26,902 in a federal grant for a project of diagnostic learning potential. Under this plan a student with learning problems would be referred to the Center, and a team of educators would diagnose the problem and prescribe the needed treatment. Team members would include a coordinator, two experienced classroom teachers and two psychologists, who would be used according to the child's problem. In addition the Center already has speech therapists and an audiologist.

It was announced that the city has received its final Public Law 874 (Impact funds) payment for the year. Although the total for the year was $41,000 more than the School Board had budgeted, it was only 50% of the amount to which the city was entitled, Brickell said.

Pins Tell Story of Service

Four women employees of Virginia Beach General Hospital were honored for five years of service to the hospital in a special ceremony last Thursday.

Five year pins were awarded to Alda Dickman, Clara Doran, Yvonne Schell, and Shirley Veasy. R. Bradshaw Pulley, a member of the Hospital's Board of Directors presented the awards in the Hunter C. Phelan who was ill.

As Pulley congratulated each of the employees, he pointed out, "There is no substitute for experience." Pulley told the importance of employee loyalty by saying, "Those who stay with an organization are the thereby setting an example to new employees."

Willis also said that in the nine years of the hospital's existence a total of 23 employees have been recognized for five years of service.

Church Change Is Topic Sun.

Father Paul Clotfi, S.J., will speak on "Catholic Worship in Transition" at Saint Nicholas Catholic Church at 644 Little Neck Road on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Father Clotfi, professor of theology at Georgetown University in Washington, is noted for his lectures on theology and liturgy, although this lecture will deal strictly with the spirit motivating change and attitudes within the church.

Memorials Suggested

"Give... That Others May Live" is the theme of a special Memorial Day emphasis of the American Cancer Society's Virginia Beach Unit.

"Making a contribution to the Society's Memorial Fund is a fitting and practical way to help save the living and commemorate a loved one who has died of cancer or any other cause," said Mrs. William P. Kellam, memorial chairman.

She noted that contributions to the American Cancer Society including Memorial Gifts, go toward saving lives in the present and in the future through coordinated programs of Research, Education and Service. Mrs. Kellam explained that the Memorial Fund Unit sends a dignified Memorial card to the family of the person in whose memory the gift is made and also sends an acknowledgment to the donor.

Memorial Gifts may be sent to the AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY, Virginia Beach Unit, 958-B Laskin Road, Virginia Beach, Virginia, 23451.

Patrol is administratively responsible to the Department of Parks and Recreation, which now operates a service insuring areas in the city.

Norman said that the rental operation of umbrellas, chairs and surf mats on the part of full-time guards takes their eyes away from the water and bathers; copies of Red Cross certification of guards are not on file; that there is a lack of communication between guards, and that guards and supervisors cannot be easily distinguished from bathers.

Hinnant, who operates the patrol with W. H. Kitchin, said that if there is any complaint about the rental equipment taking time away from guards watching the water and it becomes a hazard, the rentals will be discontinued for that time.

Hinnant said that all of the senior guards must have a senior lifeguard certification, and that several have water safety instructor certification. They must be 18-years-old to be a senior guard, he said, and most of them have come up in the service, beginning as assistant guards at the age of 14.

Hinnant said that the lack of communications and identification of guards is a matter of opinion. He said that the stands, set 300 feet apart, all have "Thunderer" whistles and that all it takes is three short sharp blasts to alert the guard on the next stand to any dangers.

He said that the uniforms, blue denim suits with patrol patches on them, have already been purchased for the season and are easily spotted.

Jack Dowdy, of parks and recreation, said that he purchased international orange suits for his guards, but that they were very expensive. He added that he had no intentions of taking over control of the private lifeguard service.

Sun season hits fashion scene

Joshua Tree designed this light purple and white print. It's a synthetic knit and also comes in blue, $17.

There's an elephant on the beach--or at least an elephant dress. It's by Maharajah (what else?) and made in India. This one is purple but no two of the hand-embroidered

In case you hadn't guessed, the beach season is almost upon us. It's already here for some of the braver souls who don't object to a little chilling.

Changes in Beach fashions are never as drastic as regular clothes. However, new looks and styles do develop. This is the year for coverups and coordinated outfits. You don't just purchase a bathing suit. You buy the skirt, slacks, jacket, etc. to match.

designs are alike. They come in small, medium and large in all colors. Cost is $20. The wooden beads are $4.

The fashions featured here are from Rose Hall. One not shown even had a convertible bathing suit. You have your choice of a demure overblouse or a bikini. There's also a cocktail pants suit that converts to a bathing suit.

Beach wear, sun wear and fun wear are one and the same this year. And what better place than Virginia Beach to try them out?

A pool suit suits those not quite brave enough to face the chilly ocean yet. This coverup is only half the story. There are matching pants. The outfit is by PLW, costs $38, and comes in a hot orange and white print in a synthetic weave.

How about a charge card?

The seven-year-old can lose anything.

One day she came home from school with both shoes on but with one sock missing. Her explanation was that she had taken it off to get out a rock. What she didn't explain was why she didn't put it back on.

She lost a pair of tennis shoes at school too. She took them for gym, but then they disappeared. Since then, even in the dead of winter, she has worn her tennis shoes to school on gym days--only once a week fortunately.

She is also an habitual hair band loser. Because she looks better with her hair off her face, I usually pull it into a pony tail or, at least fasten it back with a headband. When she left for school in the morning was the last time most of them were ever seen. However, when I started deducting a nickel from her allowance for each one she lost, she stopped losing them.

She can never find library books, or school books, or the shoes she had on the day before. As if getting three kids and a husband out the front door isn't frantic enough daily, we have an almost daily search for something the seven-year-old has misplaced--and hasn't thought of until the last minute.

But the major difficulty has been her nickel to buy milk. She started out the year with a vacuum bottle for her milk. When it broke, at the request of the school, she started buying her milk.

At first she carried it in her lunch box like her sister does. All of a sudden it started slipping out. So then I gave her a change purse to keep it in inside the lunchbox. Some boy took it she said. However, she couldn't identify him.

Well, she lost another purse. Then I told her I wasn't going to waste any more money on purses, so I put the nickel in a small cardboard box with a rubber band around it. It also disappeared.

Next, since I couldn't find anything else at the time, she took her money in a little candy box which also got lost. Please keep in mind she always lost the money before lunch, so you can imagine how much in debt I was to her first grade teacher who was supplying her with money.

Lo and behold, somebody found a purse, not hers, at school and gave it to the seven-year-old. She kept it four days.

Finally, thoroughly disgusted, I started giving her money to her older sister to give to the seven-year-old's teacher before lunch each day. The older sister got tired of that after a few days and gave her sister one of her own purses. She threatened to kill the seven-year-old if she lost it. And I think she was serious. She's used it for eight days now. That sets some kind of record.

I wonder if the lunch room would open a charge account for her?

'You just have to get so low...

"You can bet on one thing--my son is being raised a lot stricter than I was," stated the neatly-dressed, small-boned girl with long straight brown hair with determination.

She was released from prison in March.

A drug addict, Carol is now living at the Proclaim center on Kempsville Road and trying to help herself while she helps others. She spoke recently on drugs to a group of local teachers.

"Heroin is here in a big way," warned Mrs. Hazel Sasser, one of three paid staff members of Proclaim, a center for the housing, counseling and rehabilitation of drug users. "Portsmouth is the heroin center of the area."

"You have to get down so low before you seek help," said Carol. "I looked in the mirror one day when I weighed 76 pounds. I didn't look too good. Besides, I was afraid I had hepatitis."

"I went home and my parents took me to a doctor. He told them I probably wouldn't live through the weekend."

"I've tried every kind of drug there is," Carol commented candidly. "I've shot everything you can get in a needle."

Carol was raised in a small town in Virginia of middle class parents. Her father is an accountant with an insurance company.

"I had to get married at 17," admitted Carol, who lacked only two credits of graduating from high school. "My husband and I moved in with his brother in Silver Springs, Md. His brother was a pusher. I tried out of curiosity. I started with speed. I tried one thing and wanted to see what the other was like."

"We lived in a two story house that became a commune for 28 junkies. Finally I struck out my arm and said 'hit me.' When they left I learned to hit myself," Carol did say she never took drugs while she was pregnant.

"When you're on drugs, you don't start out to get addicted. You don't think you're addicted. You enjoy it. Most of the people (non-addicts) who have talked to me don't know what they're talking about."

Carol developed a drug habit which cost almost $100 a week. "I was lucky, though, because I could get them cheaper because of my brother-in-law," she said she "busted" drug stores and took tapes from cars to get money to support her habit.

There is an increased trend toward heroin said Carol. "Acid kids have turned to smack (heroin)."

Carol claims that she never had a bad trip. "I guess the worst thing that ever happened to me was STP. I had a five day trip. I couldn't move. I couldn't walk. I couldn't talk. I just sat there at the top of the stairs."

She had her son with her in the commune. She said that although she put drugs first and her child second, she does not believe he was badly treated.

However, she has lost custody of him and he is with her parents. "My parents tried until they gave up on me. Then my father put me in jail (child neglect)."

After she was released in March, Carol went to the Proclaim center in Richmond where she met Rev. John Gimenez, Jr., founder and director of Proclaim, himself an ex-addict. He brought her back to the Norfolk center.

"They gave me too much," Carol says of her parents. "I knew how to use them. I could lie to them. They gave in too easily. When they found out (about her taking drugs) they didn't do anything about it. They just talked to me. I'd rather have a beating than listen to my father lecture to me."

Carol said that a lot of teenagers start on drugs out of curiosity and a lot because they can't face something.

"The stem of the major problem is home life," said Mrs. Sasser. Mrs. Sasser added that Proclaim has just moved its male residents to a 38-acre farm near Fentress. There are seven boys and four girls at Proclaim now. The girls are remaining at the Kempsville Road site.

Mrs. Sasser commented that many people have a misconception that a pusher is "someone huddled in a corner with a hat pulled down. Your pusher is your best friend--the guy you run around with."

According to Mrs. Sasser, Proclaim does not attempt to "dry out" addicts. That is done at Norfolk General Hospital. "We deal with a mental addiction, not a physical addiction. When you try to tell these young people about addiction, they turn their backs on you because it's 'establishment.'"

She said that 80% of school kids have tried drugs. "We know this," she said. In addition 35-40% are taking drugs regularly. "It's available."

"When you ask a person who has been on drugs if marijuana is addictive, they'll say 'yes'. You ask a person who knows," emphasized Mrs. Sasser. "You don't ask a 90 pound person what causes fatness!"

Although Rev. Gimenez is a minister and five "graduates" of Proclaim have gone into religious training, Mrs. Sasser said that the center has a practical approach to drug addiction. "If all we did was feed them the Bible and take them to church, we'd be failing them. We concentrate on body and mind too."

She said that the biggest problem (See 'Drugs', p. 8)

Mrs. Lindsey retires

She has a box of memories

"Every day has been a happy one," stated Mrs. Ann Lindsey quietly. "Even when we had problems like today."

The occasion was the meeting of the Kings Grant Elementary School PTA Monday night during which Mrs. Lindsey was surprise guest of honor. She will retire in June after 34 years and six months as teacher and principal. She has been principal at Kings Grant for nine years, only the second principal the school has had.

The "problems" to which Mrs. Lindsey referred was the breakin by vandals at the school over the weekend. Windows in several rooms were broken, and obscenities were written on blackboards. Library books were torn.

It is the dignity and poise with which Mrs. Lindsey has faced the problems of the school that has endeared her to students, faculty and parents. When the school burned except for the cafeteria just before Christmas in 1968, Mrs. Lindsey spent the holidays helping salvage books and equipment and preparing to move the whole student body to Windsor Oaks so the students would miss as few school days as possible. She rejected the suggestion of using split shifts at other schools.

"I am a principal who believes in counseling rather than spanking," she said. In explaining how she got along with students and maintained discipline she said, "I make them feel I am one of them." She is shorter than many of them.

"My only regret is that I cannot bring to you tonight my successor," she said. One has not been named by the school board yet.

Mrs. Lindsey began teaching in Hillsville in 1929. From there she went on to teach in Hopewell for nine years. Her Virginia Beach career began at Kempville Elementary School in 1946 and she was at W.T. Cooke before becoming principal of Kings Grant.

Her husband, J.C. Lindsey, is also associated with the School Administration as head of the grounds department.

When members of the sixth grade chorus dedicated a May Day carol to her and presented her with an old fashioned nosegay, Miss June Turner, music teacher at the school, told her, "If you want to cry, I'll cry with you."

But Mrs. Lindsey did not. She simply stood proudly at the

New members welcomed

The Bayside Jr. Woman's Club welcomed 14 new members at their May meeting, held at the Atlantic Permanent Savings and Loan meeting room on Independence Blvd.

They were introduced by the membership chairman, Mrs. G. B. Hollingsworth and are as follows: Mrs. Gus James II, Mrs. W. S. Munro, Mrs. James B. Loftin III, Mrs. Charles H. Wood, Mrs. W. H. Garner, Mrs. S. J. Passamonte, Mrs. F. B. Harrington, Miss Linda Shorts, Mrs. W. C. Parker, Mrs. Gene M. Quisenberry, Mrs. L. S. Bobet, Mrs. J. J. Ryan Jr., Mrs. Richard L. Majette, Mrs. O. Dale Couch.

Four members attended the Virginia Federation of Women's Club State Convention in Arlington, Virginia. They were Mrs. L. J. Bare, president elect and delegate; Mrs. L. N. Carper, delegate; Mrs. B. S. Doshier and Mrs. R. G. Hines Jr.

At the convention, the club received recognition for its 100% subscription to the Virginia Clubwoman Magazine, a certificate for the Junior State Point Award.

The club was one of the eight Virginia Beach clubs recognized in the first place award to the Virginia Beach Council of Federated Women's Clubs for its campaigning against drug abuse.

Juniors install new slate

Virginia Beach - Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club had everything from punch made by their own recipe to a fashion show by Rose Hall when they installed their officers at their annual meeting Saturday at the Bay Harbor Club.

Officers, installed by Mrs. John E. Yeates, President of the Tidewater District, Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, are Mrs. Frederick E. Wintree, president; Mrs. Robert P. Johnson, first vice president; Mrs. Samuel W. Scott, Jr., second vice president; Mrs. Ronnie O. Davis, third vice president; Mrs. William K. Jenkins, recording secretary; Mrs. William W. Brooks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ronald B. Wiles, treasurer.

The club, which already sponsors a class for pre-school retarded children at Calles Episcopal Church, announced that a new class will be started this fall at Wycliffe Presbyterian Church on Great Neck Road.

FANCY MEETING you here--Friends renewed acquaintances and made new ones as civilians and military mixed at Saturday night's Armed Forces Ball at the Civic Center, an annual affair sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Bayside club to install Tips Are Taxable

The new officers of the Bayside Junior Woman's Club will be installed at noon at a luncheon at the El Camino Restaurant Saturday, May 23, by the Tidewater District Junior Director, Mrs. P. J. Homsher.

The incoming officers are President, Mrs. L. J. Bare; First Vice-President, Mrs. B. S. Doshier; Second Vice-President, Mrs. N. A. South; Recording Secretary, Mrs. R. H. Walker; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. L. N. Carper; Treasurer, Mrs. R. G. Hines, Jr.

The New Member Outstanding Clubwoman Award and the Outstanding Clubwoman of the 69-70 year will be announced. Chairman and Co-Chairman of arrangements are Mrs. Henry C. Roberson Jr. and Mrs. John B. Besley.

Tips are taxable income and also subject to withholding when they are over a certain amount.

Those who receive cash tips of $20 or more in any calendar month from one employer, should report them to that employer according to James P. Boyle, District Director of Internal Revenue for Virginia. Boyle said cash tips are subject to withholding of income and Social Security taxes and must be reported to the employer on or before the 10th day of the following month.

For more information, write for IRS Publication 531, "Reporting Your Tips for Federal Tax Purposes."

Grand Jury Gets Case

A Circuit Court grand jury has been given the case of three men charged in connection with the alleged discovery of a quantity of narcotics in a home in the 1300 block of New Bridge Road. The accused were identified as Walter Holt, 21, Jeffrey N. Weiss, 22, and Richard W. Mandelkorn, 26. According to police investigators the men were arrested when a quantity of hashish and several marijuana plants were discovered in the residence occupied by them.

Cigarettes Found

A Farmville, Va., man was charged with possession of narcotics by Virginia Beach police Monday night. Investigators said Michael G. McKinney, 20, was arrested in connection with a quantity of marijuana cigarettes uncovered during an investigation at the intersection of 20th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

Suspended Sentence

Monnie A. Long has been fined $150 and given a suspended six month sentence following his conviction of possession of dangerous drugs. Long, 20, of Bannock Road, was arrested by police on May 2 during an investigation in the 100 block of Kentucky Avenue on a charge of possession of narcotics. Judge P. B. White found Long guilty of the lesser charge during Monday's Municipal Court session.

Rape Charged

William R. Thornbury is awaiting court proceedings on a charge of rape. Police officers say they have charged Thornbury, 23, attached to the Oceana Naval Air Station with the rape of a six-year-old girl.

WOMEN PAST 21

WITH BLADDER IRRITATION Suffer Many Troubles

After 21, common kidney or bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Secondary, you may have sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at drug stores. # Census Nears Finish Line

Pearl Smith, District Manager, reports that the 1970 Census of Population and Housing is nearing completion in this area, and that in another week the census takers should have visited every residence on their lists.

The census takers are calling homes from which no questionnaires were mailed back, as well as those from which questionnaires were returned incompletely filled out.

The District Manager pointed out that residents can speed up the count by having the information that is asked for on the form ready to give to the census taker.

He emphasized that all information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under Federal law. It is used only to provide summary figures such as totals, averages, and percentages. The information cannot be examined by anyone other than census employees who are sworn to secrecy. It cannot be used for investigation, taxation, or regulation.

System Fights Oil Pollution

Meetings were scheduled at the White House this week to brief members of Pres. Richard M. Nixon's staff on the results of the testing of a new oil pollution control system off the coast of Virginia Beach last Thursday.

Virginia Beach could play an important role in future implementation of this system which has been designed as a deterrent to the polluting of waters by distressed tankers. The system required more than a year in development by the U. S. Coast Guard.

It consists of the use of collapsible, inflatable, rubber-coated bladders, each capable of transporting 140,000 gallons of oil from a distressed tanker. In their collapsed state the bladders are approximately the size of small automobiles. Other components of the system include a submersible hydraulic pump, a pump prime mover, flexible transfer piping, fittings, and assembly tools required in the transfer of oil from a distressed tanker.

The entire operation is achieved through the use of U.S. Coast Guard equipment and personnel. All equipment necessary in the operation is dropped by parachute from fixed-wing aircraft near the stricken tanker, as helicopters move in to assist in onboard delivery of the pump and prime mover. A salvage team will then assemble the components necessary to transfer oil-filled bladders are towed by Coast Guard Cutters to safe anchorage for later disposal.

Last Thursday's test of the system was the first public demonstration of the operation. The demonstration, which was staged six miles northwest of Cape Henry, was witnessed by representatives of U.S. Congressional Committees, the federal government's Department of Transportation, and Rear Adm. Chester A. Richmond, Jr., Research and Development Chief, who was a pioneer in the developing of the oil pollution control system.

During the demonstration, which required four hours to complete, a U.S. Navy WY 119 portrayed the role of a distressed tanker which had to dispose of its cargo of 100,000 gallons of oil. Equipment necessary in removing the "tanker's cargo", which for the purpose of the demonstration consisted of water, was airlifted to the scene from the Coast Guard base at Elizabeth City, N.C. When the cargo had been pumped from the tanker into the inflatable bladder, the bladder was towed to a safe anchorage at Little Creek by the Coast Guard Buoy Tender "Madrona".

A key unit in the pollution control system is a "response team" which would be located at strategic points along the U.S. coast lines. Distressed vessels requiring the use of the system would alert the response team by radio of their plight, which would result in the dispatching of Coast Guard units to assist the stricken tanker.

Officials connected with the program indicate that three of these response teams should be located at points along the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coast lines by this time next year. The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN has learned it is highly probable that the first of these "response teams" to be placed into operation will be located at Little Creek, in Virginia Beach or at Elizabeth City, N.C.

Fire Cause 'Suspicious'

An investigation is underway into the cause of a fire which destroyed an estimated $6,000 to $7,500 worth of air conditioning units, heating units and other equipment at the Titan Towers Motel under construction at 23rd Street and Atlantic Avenue.

The fire was confined to a first floor equipment storage room, and resulted in only minor damage to the motel structure. Fire investigators have indicated the cause of the fire is of a suspicious nature.

Men of the Beach Borough Fire Department responded to the alarm.

Pedestrians Reminded Of Traffic
Richard S. Holland, Director Tidewater Automobile Association, urged pedestrians to walk on the left facing traffic if they must walk where there are no sidewalks or pathways. "In both rural and urban areas, sidewalks are often inadequate or otherwise not provided, thus causing pedestrians to walk on narrow shoulders or on the roadway itself," said the club official.

"By facing traffic, the pedestrian is always alert to approaching dangers, and can take necessary precautions to avoid them," said Holland.

Holland called particular attention to the dangerous practice of pedestrians walking on highways and freeways where traffic moves at a much faster pace. "Most areas," he noted, "have set up laws forbidding pedestrians to walk along these roads which are meant exclusively for motor vehicles."

He urged parents to teach their children to walk on the highway only when it is absolutely necessary.

League To Install At Dance

New officers of the Thoroughgood Civic League will be installed on Saturday, May 23.

The installation will take place at a buffet-dinner dance at the Mayfair Room of the Admiralty Motor Hotel where members of the league and their guests will dance to the music of Art Mathews and his "Socialaires".

Out-going president, Bally L. Coadrey, will turn over the gavel of that office to Richard L. Lindell. Other in-coming officers include president-elect, Capt. Roy M. Suduth, vice president, Leonard L. Tucker; corresponding secretary, Mrs. K.R. Burchett; recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. Golden; treasurer, Lawrence Boncer; and sergeant-at-arms, Capt. George W. Matton.

Lt. F. S. Krabenbill, 2nd Police Precinct, and men of the police water patrol unit are readying the unit's boats and equipment for the start of the annual patrol of the waters of the Virginia Beach rivers, lakes, and beach front. We understand there were only a few minor equipment problems which needed corrected. Two new men have been assigned to the water patrol this season, officers A. T. Freeman and B. D. Zelms. Officer F. R. Scarborough, who completed an intensive course of training with the Maryland Marine Police will assume duties as a "trouble shooter" with the Beach patrol.

Bryna Glover has returned to duty with the city's Fire Prevention Bureau following his recovery from recent surgery. Glover says he is feeling fine and hopes to be back on a full time basis very shortly.

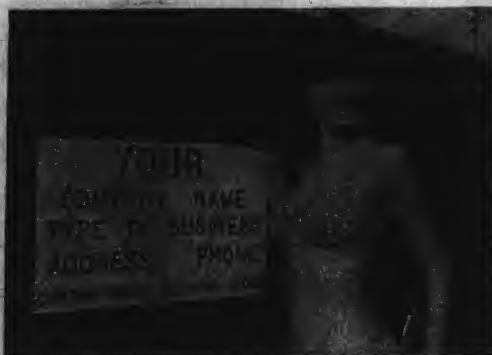

Fulltime men of the Beach Borough Fire Department underwent training this week on the department's amphibious DUWK along the beach front and in waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

The firemen are familiarizing themselves in proper procedures to be followed in the event of boat fires or in the rescue of persons who may be thrown overboard during a boating trip.

Seven members of the Virginia Beach police department have just completed a special 30 hour course of training in Sex Crimes Investigation conducted by Agents H. F. Drummond, of the Norfolk FBI Office, and W. E. Nettles, Jr., of the Washington D.C. Field Office. Those who completed the course included Lt.'s H. Cappe, B. L. Rogers, A. E. Smith, and Det.'s W. M. Bailey, A. Sinclair and M. O. Palmer.

ADR2 B. T. Loper, of the Virginia Beach Shore Patrol Detachment, tells us he has "really been landing" the Tautogs while fishing in offshore waters, and we understand the catches are quite noteworthy in weight as well as size. We understand his fellow S. P.'s are rather dubious however in taking Loper's word on the authenticity of his "catches".

Professor Is Honored

An assistant professor of history at Virginia Wesleyan College has received an award for his service in student government activities and student affairs.

Dr. Stephen S. Mansfield was presented the plaque with citation by Robert A. Perry of Virginia Beach, president of the Virginia Wesleyan College Young Republicans Club which sponsored this project this year. The club hopes to make this an annual award.

Dr. Mansfield is chairman of the Student Activity-Welfare Committee of the College.

A native of Rockford, Illinois, Dr. Mansfield received the Bachelor of Arts degree from The College of William and Mary, and the Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from the University of Virginia. He has been on the faculty at Virginia Wesleyan since September 1968.

Additional Funds For Rosemont

Both the city and state have appropriated funds to make long-needed improvements to Rosemont Road.

City Manager Roger Scott made it clear Monday that a portion of the $2 million Public Improvement Bonds, approved by City Council, would go toward correcting the road.

The State Highway Commission has also announced that it has included this project in its proposed $206.4 million allocation for highway construction. The state expects to spend $100,000 on the road during the fiscal year 1970-71 which begins July 1.

Final action on these allocations cannot be taken by the Commission until after public hearings are held in June.

These hearings are scheduled June 24 at the Hotel Roanoke at 9 a.m. and on June 25 in the Department of Highways auditorium in Richmond at 9 a.m. City Council expects to spend some $405,000 on Rosemont Road, according to the breakdown of expenditures released earlier.

Other highway projects included in the $2 million include Route 225, $125,000; South Lynnhaven Road, $445,000; Birdneck Road, $235,000; Great Neck Road, $145,000; additional repairs to Routes 60, 185 and 190, $100,000; and Oceana Area Headquarters, $45,000.

The remaining $500,000 will be spent in completing the municipal golf course at Camp Pendleton, $270,000; Bayside Health building, $45,000; completion of the third floor of the City Administration Building, $180,000; seating plant equipment, $15,000; and the purchase of recreational sites, $40,000.

Job Show Scheduled Wednesday

Twenty-eight organizations will be among the participants in the Virginia Beach Job Opportunity Show June 3 at the Civic Center from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The show, sponsored by the Southeastern Tidewater Opportunity Project, the Mayor's Youth Council and the Chamber of Commerce, is designed to acquaint high school and college students with job opportunities in the area.

Among the groups represented are: the Virginia Employment Commission, the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia Beach General Hospital, the Neighborhood Youth Corps; United States Air Force; U.S. Navy; U.S. Marines; U.S. Army; U.S. Coast Guard; Medic Home Development Corporation; Virginia Beach Beauty Academy; Tidewater Vocational Center; Virginia Electric and Power Company; the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company; the U.S. Post Office; and the Future Teachers Association.

Also, Project Friendship, Guille Steel Company, Fleming Garage, Sears Roebuck and Company, U.S. Sales Corporation, Virginia Beach Innkeepers Association, Virginia Beach Restaurant Association, Texas Oil Company, Ford Motor Company, Burroughs Company, Virginia Beach Bar Association, and the Industrial Relations Department of the Oceana Naval Air Station.

City Has Another Fatality

Virginia Beach recorded its 100th traffic fatality of the year Tuesday morning with the death of a 51-year-old woman who was injured in a two-car accident on May 1.

Authorities said Anna E. Lassiter, of Cumberland Parkway received internal injuries in the accident at the intersection of Presidential Blvd. and Old Forge Lane.

Charges in the accident are pending further police investigation.

She's first woman In finger printing

By LES LEHIGH

Mrs. Elaine F. Skindzier, who is a fingerprint technician in the Virginia Beach Police Central Services Division, has become the first woman to complete the special course of instruction in fingerprint identification and classification which is a regular part of the Tidewater Police Academy curriculum at Old Dominion University in Norfolk.

Jim Austin, director of the Academy, indicated that Mrs. Skindzier holds the distinction of being the first woman to ever engage in any regular course of study offered through the Academy.

Mrs. Skindzier, along with 27 male police officers from Virginia areas including Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Norfolk, Suffolk, Emporia, Hampton, York County, Isle of Wight County, and the Department of Defense, this week completed 40 hours of instruction in all the major points of fingerprint identification and classification.

While being highly technical in concept the course basically involves proper identification of "skin ridges" formed on human finger tips, and their manner of groupings which necessitates their being placed into established categories of classification for the purpose of accurate and rapid identification.

Agent Herman F. Drummond, Jr., attached to the Norfolk FBI Office, is in charge of the course, and is being assisted during instruction by Sgt. C. E. Carlson, Sr., of the Virginia Beach Central Services Division.

Drummond, a long time stalwart in the operation of the Academy, referred to Mrs. Skindzier as "doing real well" in the course, and being "a very good student."

Background information on Mrs. Skindzier indicates in addition to being the first woman to ever pursue any course of study in the Tidewater Police Academy she was also the first woman "Police Cadet" in her home town of Flint, Mich., serving in that capacity from October 1966 to January 1968 in the Identification Bureau of the Flint police department.

While residing in Flint she also completed many hours of study of the "Law Enforcement" course at Flint Community Junior College which included such subjects as Criminal Investigation, Municipal Procedures, and Criminal Law and Procedures.

Mrs. Skindzier's duties with the Virginia Beach Police Department consist of the processing and classification of fingerprints for criminal and civil record files and involves working with some 50 different sets of fingerprints each week.

The value of her work is clearly illustrated by records of the Identification Division at the FBI Headquarters in Washington, D.C., which serves all law enforcement agencies, and civil organizations, in the United States requiring information checks through the use of fingerprints.

As of May 1 the FBI received 126,491,878 requests for such informational checks, including the identification of 3,468 identifications during the past month of April. The FBI's Washington Identification Division averages 28,257 daily requests involving some service rendered by the Division.

FBI Agent Drummond, in discussing the importance of Mrs. Skindzier's work, pointed to the fact that fingerprints are one of the most important factors in an individual's identification. Drummond indicated a person's fingerprints are firmly established on their finger tips two months prior to birth and remain with them until their body is decomposed after death.

Drummond also pointed out that another important method of identifying people is through prints left on a substance by the imprint of their feet or palms of their hands. The value of such identification, as well as methods employed in such an identification, is also an integral part of the course which Mrs. Skindzier has pursued this week.

VSA Questionnaire

CANDIDATES ASKED TO TAKE SURFING STAND

Virginia Beach councilmanic candidates were placed on notice Tuesday by the Virginia Surfing Association that eligible surfers and their parents will vote only for candidates who support surfing and its expansion.

In a letter to each of the 28 candidates, VSA chairman H. Jack Jennings Jr. said that failure to reply to an enclosed ten question form or "ambiguous, vague" answers will "necessarily be interpreted to be an anti-surfing position."

Jennings said the VSA's board of directors decided that it was time the surfing question should be made an election issue. He said the group represents about 3,000 voters.

"It's time to clear the air so that the voting public will know exactly how each candidate stands without a shadow of a doubt," he said. "And we intend to do it."

Hopefully, public opinion will rally to the side of the surfer for more surfing area, the use of Camp Pendleton and improved surfing conditions in general, Jennings said.

He said that responses are expected to be returned no later than June 2 and that the answers then made public.

Jennings told each candidate that "Based on your response, we will then determine which candidates we will actively support in the upcoming election."

Each candidate was asked if he:

- Would actively support an attempt to establish a 300-yard surfing area at the present location of Camp Pendleton.

- Believes the present surfing area in the beach borough is adequate.

- Would oppose a decision by the city to close the present surfing area at the Steel Pier to make room for additional motel expansion.

- Would support the establishment of a rotating surfing area along the boardwalk.

- Believes that sending all surfers to Sandbridge is the best answer to the surfing question.

- Believes the city is putting the non-resident tourist dollar ahead of the city's youthful surfers with reference to priority on the beaches.

- Believes the surfing community should be accurately represented with a seat on the city's current official surfing committee.

- Favors the return of organized contests such as the East Coast Surfing Championships to their original location at the Steel Pier instead of Sandbridge.

- Would help improve expanded free parking, adequate sanitary facilities and an expanded life guard system at the Steel Pier surfing area.

- Was aware that the VSA held a rally at the Steel Pier that drew over 3,000 people without a single incident or misbehavior.

Jennings said that while some may consider the questionnaire reactionary, the VSA wants to use only legitimate means for petitioning the city.

"If the city fathers are as genuinely concerned about the problems of drug addiction and others, then maybe they'll realize that the loss of surfing is something that will take away a release for our young people," he said.

Beach To Remain Open

By JAMES TURNER

The Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge Beach, closed by refuge manager Robert Gilmore three weeks ago, will remain open to limited vehicular traffic, First District Rep. Thomas N. Downing said Wednesday.

Following a meeting with Department of the Interior officials in Washington, an offer by the City of Virginia Beach for police patrol of the beach during daylight hours was accepted, Downing said.

Downing called the plan "a splendid compromise which will give those who want to use the beach an opportunity to do so while still offering the greatest conservation features."

Experience gained during the summer operation will provide a basis for consideration for the future of the refuge area, he said.

Downing said that details concerning the operation of the refuge would be available from Gilmore and city manager Roger Scott, who made the proposal during a public hearing on the closure May 18.

However, Gilmore said that it would be sometime next week before all of the features of operation would be complete. He said that the beach would continue its operation unrestricted through the weekend.

"I'm not disappointed at all," he said. "We've accomplished the major part of our goal and that's getting the beach problem under some kind of control."

Gilmore said he had ordered closure of the beach to traffic because he could not handle the traffic with his limited staff and because the dunes which protect the refuge from the ocean were being destroyed by cars driving over them.

At the public hearing, C. Edward Carlson, the regional director for Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife heard over 71 speakers debate the closure at a meeting which was attended by over 2,000.

THEATRE BOOTH—The Virginia Beach Little Theatre was among many businesses and organizations to man booths at the Thieves Market sponsored Saturday by the Princess Anne Rotary Club. Here Mrs. Floss Lawson and Herbert Harrell, both members of the theatre's building fund committee, make a sale. Proceeds from the booth will go into a fund to construct a new theatre building at 24th Street and Barberton Avenue.

Meters Are Famished

Motorists are reminded that police will renew their systematic check of parking meters in Virginia Beach this Friday, May 29.

Required use of the meters, which has been suspended since last Labor Day, will be enforced between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily except Sundays and legal holidays.

Vehicles parked at meters during the above hours with the meter showing a "dilation warning" will be subject to being ticketed thus exposing motorists to the necessity of paying a court fine.

Asked To Forum

The 28 candidates for City Council have been invited to participate in a public forum to be sponsored by the Seateck Community Civic League June 5.

Seniors Bridge Gap

Despite stories that the generation gap blocks communication between today's youth and adults, First Colonial High School seniors and school faculty proved otherwise recently.

And, according to one teacher, "the whole attitude of the school has changed." The day before the Senior Prom, it was learned that a misunderstanding about arrangements would nearly double the cost of the dinner-dance. Rather than pay the increased price, which many of the students could not afford, the students decided to hold the prom at the school.

The faculty pitched in to help. Not satisfied with having the prom there, Carlton Bowyer, principal, offered to have the cafeteria staff prepare a buffet "the students wouldn't forget." Teachers helped decorate, and local merchants donated materials, and everybody cooperated with each other.

Meanwhile, the hotel mana-

MAYOR CHALLENGED TO PUBLIC DEBATE

Virginia Beach Mayor Frank A. Dusch has been challenged to a public debate by Republican candidate Israel Steingold.

Both Dusch, a Democrat, and Steingold are candidates for the at-large seats on City Council.

A spokesman in the mayor's office Wednesday morning said notification of the challenge had not yet reached the mayor and that no comment could be made until the letter arrived.

Steingold, a Norfolk attorney in the law firm of Steingold, Steingold & Chovitz, said he had taken the step because of the lack of interest in the June 9 election.

"In order that the voters of Virginia Beach may be able to make an intelligent choice," he said, "it is essential that the issues be stated and debated publicly."

He picked Dusch, he said because he is the "chosen executive head of the City Council" as well as a candidate for re-election.

A deadline of June 9 was placed on the debate. Steingold said he would meet the mayor any time and any place between now and that date.

Borough Candidates Answer

Last week answers from at-large candidates in the June Councilmanic election to questions posed by the League of Women Voters of Norfolk-Virginia Beach were printed. This week answers are from borough candidates.

Those who replied are: Mrs. Joyce Menden Alwood, Republican; Pungo; Mrs. Margaret Cappe Boda, Independent; Bay-side; Harold Heischberger, Resident; Harold Bayside; Sam Houston, Jr., Republican; Kempville; Sotirios A. Karageorge, Republican; Beach Borough; James Reutt, Independent; Bayside; James E. Snyder, Sr., Republican; Blackwater.

All questions were composed and compiled by the League of Women Voters. The candidates answers are as follows.

What would you do to eliminate borrow pits and sewage lagoons?

Alwood: Existing laws should be enforced. Where possible turn (them) into man made lakes and sell as waterfront property or recreational purposes.

Boda: To eliminate borrow pits which exist will be impossible; To improve the ones which do exist would be my air. A sewage lagoon or sewage lagoons will be eliminated when sewage lines are installed throughout the city.

Heischberger: This is an engineering problem. It would require the advice and counsel of a consulting engineering firm to guide our city away from the hazards and ecological problems resulting from the past practices.

Houston: Presently, borrow pits, by ordinance, must be properly sloped, graded, seeded and otherwise beautified under the supervision of our Parks and Recreation Department. But sewer lagoons should be eliminated at once by the necessary extension of our sewer system.

Karageorge: Borrow pits can be graded and beautified to become an asset to an area. Sewage lagoons can and have been eliminated by hooking up to the Hampton Roads Sanitation District.

Reutt: It is not necessary to eliminate borrow pits if they can be properly maintained to ensure the maximum safety where neighborhood children may be involved.

Snyder: I do not feel that borrow pits could be eliminated entirely due to the fact that so much fill is needed for highway construction. I do think that there should be very strict rules enforced to beautify these pits when completed and also to provide strict safety rules while being excavated. Better planning for the future would certainly help to eliminate sewage lagoons.

What do you feel about the building of proper restroom facilities to insure the comfort of citizens?

Alwood: Restrooms essential—but should be under supervision and kept clean.

Boda: I am opposed to building public restroom facilities because: proper maintenance would be too costly; without proper maintenance immorality and unhealthy practices will flourish; and much money will be wasted.

Heischberger: No. Houston: Our parks and recreation areas should have clean, supervised public restrooms.

Karageorge: I think that in the proper places and with supervision, comfort stations are a great asset.

Reutt: No. Snyder: Proper restroom facilities should be planned and installed by Parks and Recreation Department.

How do you feel about developments donating land for schools and parks as part of the requirement for receiving a building permit?

Alwood: Yes, this is a necessity.

Boda: I do not believe developments should donate land to the city for the purpose of building schools.

Heischberger: I am opposed to this prerequisite to a great extent. This is a restriction on the basic principle of a fundamental right of a businessman to engage in free enterprise without governmental interference.

Houston: The older residents cannot continue to pay and pay while the builders get richer and richer.

Karageorge: I think that the feeling of developers donating land for schools and parks is

Attendance Triples '69

Seashore State Park's attendance so far this year has almost tripled over 1969.

Superintendent Joseph Hoofnagle and his staff counted more than 100,000 park visitors through last weekend, the Virginia Division of Parks reported. The total was about 33,800 the first four months of last year.

Altogether, visitation in the state's park system has jumped a third over 1969 to more than a quarter of a million since January.

Seashore is Virginia's most popular state park, drawing 580,000 visitors last year among more than two million throughout the Old Dominion. About 180,000 were campers at Seashore.

The park's campgrounds will begin filling to capacity in June as summer vacationers flock to Virginia Beach, said Ben H. Bolen, state parks commissioner. However, a few campsites have been eliminated to relieve overcrowding which has put a strain on some of the sanitary facilities.

And, Bolen explained, when the campgrounds fill up the number of campers remains constant each summer, no matter which year. In fact, several thousand have to be turned away during a three-month period annually when the campgrounds overflow, Bolen added. They are directed to several private campgrounds in Virginia Beach and Tidewater, as well as on the Eastern Shore.

Daytime visitors make up most of Seashore Park's attendance, the commissioner pointed out, and their number is increasing every year. Mainly, they see the nature center and walk on several self-guided trails in the unique natural area. Many are also boaters and fishermen, using the marina at the park's southern end that is reached by way of 64th Street. All the daytime facilities are free, and there isn't any tab for entering or parking.

Mrs. Lambe (standing in background) briefs visitors on merits of Virginia Beach.

A HECTIC SCHEDULE MIGHT LURE TOMORROW'S TOURIST

If a wishing noise were heard around the resort Friday night and Saturday morning it was probably the red carpet being rolled out. For certainly the carpet was rolled out for some very special visitors.

Over 30 representatives of auto clubs throughout Ohio arrived aboard a bus on a tour of Virginia organized by the Virginia Travel Council. And Virginia Beach was one of the highlights of their trip.

These representatives are possible for helping travelers plot trips and it was the council's intention of having as many trips plotted through Virginia as possible. And it was Virginia Beach's intention of having its share of these travelers.

Hence, the red carpet. What does the city do when visiting dignitaries are due to arrive? Why, call Mrs. Laura Lambe (of the advertising firm of the same name), of course.

Mrs. Lambe not only handles the city's advertising and publicity, she also works with the Chamber of Commerce, the Innkeepers and other organizations in promoting the beach. And she is vice president of the Virginia Travel Council.

With, by the way, is a private organization made up of tourists' friends, and individuals and is headquartered in Richmond. If there is one person who lives and breathes Virginia Beach, it's Laura Lambe. So in a flash she had an itinerary set up that would expose the resort's best features in the shortest time the auto clubbers would be here.

Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Al Malibes joined Mrs. Lambe in greeting the group when the bus arrived shortly before 5 p.m. Friday afternoon. They were immediately whisked away on a quick tour of the resort, with side trips into some of the nicer residential areas.

Dinner followed at the Golf Ranch with Chamber President James Sadler welcoming the group.

The menu was something very special, concocted by Mrs. Lambe, for it featured only Virginia grown foods, such as the whole broiled bluefish placed on each plate.

President Sadler laughingly asked Mrs. Lambe if the orange and grapefruit sections on the fruit dish were also grown in Virginia.

"Well, no," Mrs. Lambe admitted. "They were used to prop up the big Virginia Beach strawberries!"

Breakfast at the White Heron early Saturday morning ended the festivities. Innkeepers President Roy Niel ran in for quick welcoming remarks, grabbing time away from a big

Sails Will Unfurl For Annual Regatta

The 10th annual Regatta sponsored by the Broad Bay Sailing Association will be Saturday and Sunday, May 30 and 31 on Broad Bay.

The first race is scheduled to begin at noon Saturday followed by a second race. The third race begins at noon Sunday. Registration will be from 8 to 10:45 a.m. Saturday at the Narrows at the end of 64th Street.

Entries, which usually number in the hundreds, will compete for the Broad Bay Bucket which is officially known as the Broad Bay Sailing Association Perpetual Trophy and is presented to the winner of the class which has the largest total number of starters for the series. The awards ceremony will follow Sunday's race.

Sandwiches and soft drinks will be on sale for lunch Saturday and Sunday. The BBSA will host the annual crab feast at the Narrows for visiting skippers and crews following the second race Saturday.

Yachts will be divided into the following classes as sanctioned by the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Racing Association: Five Ben Eric Hoover, son of Ben Lloyd Hoover of Seaman Road, Virginia Beach, has received a BS degree in education from Mars Hill College at Mars Hill, N.C.

golfing tournament at his own Princess Anne Country Club, the visitors boarded the bus and were soon headed to Winchester for one last visit before returning to Ohio.

"Virginia Beach is so different from most of the state," one visitor commented. "We've seen just enough to make us want to come back...only next time we'll go in the surf instead of only getting our feet wet."

Another successful promotional venture...all in a day's work for the tourist-oriented leaders of Virginia Beach.

A.R.E. Sets Conference

A week-long conference, May 31st to June 6th, will take place at the Association for Research and Enlightenment, 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue, with evening lectures open to the public. The theme of the conference will be "Reincarnation, Karma and Grace."

On Monday, June 1st at 8:00 p.m. Dr. I. C. Sharma will lecture on "Beyond Karma and Reincarnation." Dr. Sharma is from India, now resident professor in the philosophy department of Christopher Newport College in Newport News.

On Tuesday, June 2nd at 8:00 p.m. Hugh Lynn Cayce, managing director of the A. R. E., will talk on "Reincarnation Through Dreams."

"Karma As A Result of Atlantis" will be the subject on Thursday, June 4th at 8:00 p.m. of a talk by Edgar Evans Cayce, younger son of the late Edgar Cayce, whose special interest is the fabled land of Atlantis, on which he has had a book published.

On Friday, June 5th at 8:00 p.m. Dr. James C. Windsor will talk on "Reincarnation: A New Dimension in Psychology." Dr. Windsor is dean of students and assistant professor of psychology at Christopher Newport College.

All lectures will be followed by a period for questions and answers.

School Welcomes Spring

A May Festival was presented by the Children of Point O View Elementary School at the monthly PTA meeting May 19, under the guidance of Mrs. Linda Boyer, Music Director.

A filled auditorium enjoyed a program full of delightful music, dancing and Lullaby Stick playing, along with the crowning of the school's King and Queen. Mac Rawls, principal, placed the crowns on the royal couple, Brian Lee and Betty Cross, who then sat back and viewed the program that ushered in the sweet sounds of summer.

One of the highlights of the evening was watching Susan Bates, a seventh grade student studying ballet and modern dance, perform Love is Blue. Following the musical program, officers of the 1970-71 term were installed by candlelight. Mrs. C. E. Hillecock, vice president of the Virginia Beach Council of PTA's, gave an inspiring message as she installed Melvin Mizelle, president; Mrs. Phyllis Rice, first vice-president; Mrs. Louise James, second vice-president; Mrs. Lillian Duggan, recording secretary; Mrs. Phyllis Robinson, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Irene Minschke, treasurer.

Two Award One Idea

Solomon G. Wahrman, a public works employee at Naval Air Station Oceana, submitted a beneficial suggestion entitled "Unit for Wind Socks." In 1968, The suggestion was accepted and an award was made.

Recently, he received another award authorized by the Naval Air Systems Command because his original suggestion is being published in the "Naval Air Technical Journal."

Alfred and Alex with their parents, Mrs. Asercion is wearing a kimono from the Philippines.

Larger Orchestra Is Goal

Apollonio Asercion, director of the Virginia Beach Civic Orchestra for nearly three years, hopes to develop a larger orchestra for the city. "I'm hoping to recruit more people to make it a professional orchestra," said Asercion as he told plans for a concert at Princess Anne High School at 8:15 p.m. on June 6. Compositions by Verdi, Rodgers, Bocchini, Strauss and Bizet and two others I can't remember member" will be played.

The orchestra, which now numbers about 45 members, is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Parks and Recreation Department. "The members are mostly young people, mostly nonprofessional," said Asercion. "They're very enthusiastic, though."

He is a native of the Philippines and has been in the United States about ten years. He is U. S. Navy Chief musician at the Armed Forces School of Music at Little Creek and has lived in this area since the school was moved from Washington, D. C. about six years ago.

He began studying music at seven with his grandfather who was a retired bandmaster of the U. S. Navy band. In the Philippines he played with the Philippines Constabulary Band as soloist and with the Manila Symphony. At the School of Music he is head of woodwind instruction and also teaches conducting.

And if he didn't have enough to do, he also teaches private students and is guest conductor for Old Dominion University.

Although he plays the clarinet and saxophone, his son Alexander, 8, is learning to play the piano first. "Then he can switch," said Asercion. "I'll leave it up to him and give him a chance to try them all."

Younger son Alfred, who was four this week, is not taking lessons yet.

Mrs. Asercion is also Filipino and earned a degree in home economics before marriage. In her yard is a garden of vegetables from the Philippines.

Although their parents live in the Philippines, the Asercions have not visited them in three years, when they stayed four months. "Maybe next year," they agreed.

Local Day Camp Planned

The Freemason Street Branch of the Young Woman's Christian Association will sponsor a day camp for boys and girls, seven to 12 years old, at Camp Owalisa off Shore Drive at Virginia Beach.

There will be two 10-day sessions and the camp will operate on weekdays only. The first session is June 18 - July 1 and the second session, July 6-July 17.

The camp is open to youngsters in Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Chesapeake and free transportation will be provided. Cost for the 10-day sessions is $20 per session plus $1 YWCA membership.

Swimming, organized sports and exercises and a variety of arts and crafts will be offered to the campers under the direction of YWCA staff members. Campers will bring their own lunches and the Y will serve milk which is included in the fee.

The deadline for registration is Tuesday, June 2. Those

Wesleyan In Sports Conference

Virginia Wesleyan College has joined the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Gene Clayton, president of the D.I.A.C., made the announcement following the spring meeting of the conference at Methodist College, Fayetteville, North Carolina. Clayton said: "We are extremely pleased to have Virginia Wesleyan College in the conference. We feel that the College's athletic philosophy will be the same as that of the conference. Effective September, 1970, Virginia Wesleyan will be eligible for championships in all conference sports. We are looking forward to association with Virginia Wesleyan College in all sports."

Donald M. Forsyth, athletic director at Virginia Wesleyan College, commented on the new membership by saying: "We feel that this is an important step in the development of our athletic program. We are very enthusiastic in regard to our competing in the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference."

The other colleges from Virginia and North Carolina making up the conference are Greensboro College, Lynchburg College, Methodist College, North Carolina Wesleyan College, St. Andrews Presbyterian College and University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Circus Posters Shown

Lions, tigers, elephants, acrobats, horses and jugglers will be seen in a display beginning May 25 at Virginia Wesleyan College.

Sponsored by the Virginia Wesleyan Library, these circus characters make up an exhibition of POLISH CIRCUS POSTERS. The collection was assembled by Graphis magazine, one of the world's leading design journals, and is now owned by the Virginia Museum which has lent it for this occasion.

Polish circus posters have been valued by connoisseurs of the graphic arts for many years. It has been the revival of the circus in Poland which has marked a resurgence of the circus poster in a new and vigorous form. Between 1922 and 1966, W.A.G. a graphic arts publishing firm in Warsaw, published about 100 posters in cooperation with Poland's leading circus troupes, in an effort to refurbish the circus image. The 30 posters included in this exhibition not only demonstrate the latest tools and printing methods available to the designers, but also they reflect the modernized circus brought about by both the public and the circus people themselves.

Each poster concentrates on a particular aspect of the circus such as a wild animal act, trained horses, balancing acts, or a particular animal to be found in the circus menagerie. These images are accompanied in most cases by a single word "Cyrk."

POLISH CIRCUS POSTERS will be on display through June 2. Bar - B - Que

Water Safety Is Concern Of V.B. Safety Council

The Virginia Beach Safety Council has elected new officers and outlined plans to begin a program of safe boating training sessions in the resort city.

Those elected to the new board of officers include Don Fentress, president; Frank Toscano, 1st vice-president; Bill Alexander, 2nd vice-president; Sgt. E. L. Jackson, of the Virginia Beach Police Traffic Division, who was re-elected to another term of office as secretary-treasurer. The new officers are to be installed during the Council's next meeting on June 18.

Council members made plans to conduct a number of training sessions in safe boating procedures, and general water safety, for young people of the city within the next few weeks. The program would be designed to reach a larger number of persons, particularly in the late teens bracket, than are currently taking part in safe boating programs currently underway in the city.

The Council is hopeful of having the program well underway prior to the approaching boating and swimming season. The training would include such topics as capabilities of various size and types of boats, proper handling and operation of boats, regulations regarding boating on waterways in and around the resort city, and action to be taken to meet emergencies.

Dr. Robert Waddell, outgoing Council president, joined Don Fentress in a report of proceedings of the recent 36th Annual Safety Conference, which was sponsored by the Virginia Safety Association, held in Norfolk. Dr. Waddell represented the Virginia Beach Safety Council on a Conference panel on the topic of "Highway Safety for the '70's", and presented a review of the Council's recent safety belt campaign conducted in Virginia Beach.

After hearing details of the seat belt campaign, and the enthusiastic response to the campaign by residents of the resort city, John T. Hanna, Director Virginia Highway Safety Division, requested additional information on the campaign on the possibility of it being used on a statewide basis. Dr. Waddell and Fentress, along with Council member Bill Ganser, plan to meet with Hanna in Richmond, on June 25th to outline the campaign in detail.

Council members attending last Thursday's meeting expressed concern over Virginia Beach being represented at every regularly scheduled meeting of the Virginia Highway Safety Division and Virginia Safety Association. It was decided to approach City Manager Roger Scott with the possibility of the City's sponsoring a delegation of Virginia Beach Safety Council representatives to attend each of these meetings and reporting to City officials the results of these meetings in hopes of improving the overall standard of safety in the resort city.

Prior to adjournment the Council members unanimously approved a resolution to officially commend Dr. Robert Waddell for his many contributions to safety programs in the resort city, and his guidance of the Virginia Beach Safety Council, during his term as Council president.

BADGER BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Det. Joseph P. Vitale, Jr., of the police department's Vice Squad displayed his culinary talents last Saturday in preparing lunch for a number of the Princess Anne F.O.P. Lodge #6 members who spent the day in clearing underbrush and unwanted trees from woods surrounding the Lodge lot. Vitale prepared spaghetti dinner featuring a meat ball sauce prepared from his own, highly guarded "secret" recipe. Those who partook of the lunch had nothing but the best to say of the meal.

Speaking of food, reliable sources tell us certain officers attached to the 2nd Police Precinct are doing everything possible to assist Precinct C.O. Capt. W. J. Moore, Jr., to enjoy one of his favorite delicacies. We are not quite certain however what is being done to improve his hard-boiled eggs.

We understand Howard George, first instructor with the Davis Corner Volunteer Fire Department received an annual honor this past week. George reportedly was made an honorary Girl Scout for his assistance in teaching first aid classes for Girl Scouts of the region.

Three new men have been added to the duty roster of the Virginia Beach Police Department. They are officers James E. Stevens, William L. Jettette, Jr., and Calvin S. Newby, Jr., who will all attend the next session of the Tidewater Police Academy which convenes next month.

Officer Franklin R. Scarborough tells us he and Stanley F. Bennett, Jr., both attached to the 2nd Police Precinct, made a catch last weekend while fishing in waters off Cape Charles. Scarborough says they landed six "Drum", two of which were of citation size, and that by the time they had all of the catches in their outboard boat there barely had room in the boat for themselves.

Man Caught with Goods

Authorities say they have charged James Ballard Moore, III of Cary, N.C. with the theft of approximately $2,000 worth of merchandise which he allegedly shoplifted from a number of stores in Virginia Beach and Norfolk.

Police officials said Moore, 29, was arrested by special security officer Teresa C. Custer as he was leaving Zayres Department Store at Witchback Road and Virginia Beach Blvd. on a charge of willful concealment of about $20 worth of clothing allegedly shoplifted from the store.

When police officers arrived at the scene they reportedly found an assortment of merchandise including power tools, expensive fishing equipment, tape recorders, several boxes of small caliber ammunition, and two rubber rafts complete

Retirees Will Total 646 Years

School personnel will have a chance to talk over the change in youth when 21 retiring School Administration personnel will be honored at a dinner at the Americana Tuesday at 7 p.m.

There are 16 teachers, including two principals, and five retirees from transportation and maintenance department. The teachers total 567 years of experience. The one with the longest tenure is Miss Elise Vintroux of Bayside Elementary School. The principals are Mrs. Ann Lindsey of Kings Grant Elementary and Mrs. Bessie Bell of Crooks.

The maintenance and transportation personnel total 79 years. E. T. Ives of transportation is retiring after 33 years,

Ex-Resident Writes Book

A former Virginia Beach resident has just had his first book published.

Norman Parker, now a radio announcer in California, has written "Don't Cry Little Girl," published by Whitmore Publishing Company in Philadelphia.

Parker left Virginia Beach about eight years ago, but he visits the city every summer. Before he left the area he was active in the Virginia Beach Little Theatre.

Businesses Operating In Shoppes

Attractive commercial property in a residential area has become a reality with the completion of Pembroke Park Shoppes at the intersection of Independence Boulevard and Hinsdale.

Developed by Pembroke North Associates and designed by Dudley, Morrisette, Cedarquist, the attractive structure contains 9,000 square feet of functional floor area.

By connecting the quarters under a single roof, the developer has made the complex compatible with a residential area. The spacious location provides more than ample parking space while it complements the long, low lines of the stone and brick structure.

Six-thousand square feet have been leased and opened. Ranch House Restaurant of Fort Lauderdale, Florida recently had its grand opening. The family restaurant specializes in steaks, chicken, seafood and sandwiches. It is the first of the firm's restaurants to be opened in the area.

Gold Comb Beauty Salon is also in operation. The gold and white and turquoise quarters are occupied by professionals bearing credentials such as World Champion Hairstylist, Italian Champion Hairstylist and other awards, including Italy's famed Gold Comb which is on display there.

Three attorneys, all of Virginia Beach, share large suites of offices at Pembroke Park Shoppes. They are Gay E. Millus, Jr., Harry J. Hicks and Rexford R. Cherryman. Larason Realty Corporation is agent for the complex.

Don't Dial Until You Check Book

The most widely used book in the Tidewater area is being distributed. It is the new "telephone directory" for Chesapeake, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Virginia Beach.

L. F. Patrick, local manager for C&P said the directory with a multi-color cover features the Portsmouth Naval Hospital. Offshore fishing at Virginia Beach is featured on the cover of the directory of yellow pages.

The directory is for use May 30 and should be referred to said the C&P manager. Some 30 percent of the listings in the phone book have been revised in some form or other. These changes involve new telephone numbers, addresses and names.

Also new phone numbers are assigned to the Navy Yard, Oceana - Dam Neck Naval Installations and De Paul Hospital - Centrex telephone systems have been installed and extensions can be dialed direct thus by-passing the switchboard.

Some 475,000 directories are being printed with 325,000 being distributed initially - those not distributed will be used during the year for replacement and new subscribers. The total weight of these phone books is some 1.5 million pounds.

A frequently called number page will be in the front of the directory - there will also be an updated postal rate page and zip code map at the back of the book.

White pages total some 572 - six more than the current directory.

Page 3-A is to be used until September 20 and then should be torn out and page 3-B should be used thereafter. These pages contain C&P business office information.

Old directories should be discarded and not referred to after May 30.

Scholarship Home Site Picked

The Lake Edward Corporation has been selected to build the 1970 Tidewater Association of Homebuilder's scholarship house, according to William Conner, chairman of the scholarship house committee.

Conner said the house will be constructed in Lake Edward West and then sold, with all of the proceeds going to a scholarship fund to aid local students seeking a higher education.

This makes the sixth year the TAHB has built a scholarship house. Since its inception, the fund has contributed over $35,000 to students from the Tidewater area.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the house will be held June 11.

Show Draws Beach Men

Two well known Virginia Beach residents will take part in two big fashion shows at Bluefield June 7-8-9 which constitute the largest apparel market in any city in the U. S. under 100,000.

They are Milton Soffer, 24th Street, and Denny Zamberlan, Mango Drive. Soffer is a director of Bluefield Fashion Exhibitors, whose show is held at the National Guard Armory, Bluefield.

The other show, Appalachian Buyers Convention, is held at the West Virginian Hotel in downtown Bluefield. Over 300 nationally known lines are displayed concurrently at the two events, which attract merchants from parts of five states, including a large area in Virginia.

McInturff To Manage Chess

Robert McInturff has been named manager of the new Chess King store, scheduled to open this week (May 21) in Military Circle shopping center, Norfolk.

McInturff, his wife Shirley and their three children, live on Rumford Lane in Virginia Beach.

Chess King is a unique apparel boutique catering exclusively to the 14 to 24 year old guy and carries the latest gear and threads. In addition to apparel, a continually changing selection of such items as protest kites, incense and incense burners, motorcycle helmets, posters, India Silk scarves, etc., is also carried.

Seminar Draws Man from Area

Wayne L. Russell of Upperville Road, representative for INTECON Corporation, is participating in a seminar for experienced agents this week at the company's home office in Winston Salem, N.C.

He will be studying business insurance and the planning and programming of total family insurance needs at the school.

Russell is associated here with James L. West, branch office manager of the Norfolk office located at 1500 E. Little Creek Road. He and other members of the office offer all forms of life, health, and accident insurance, group and pension plans through INTECON.

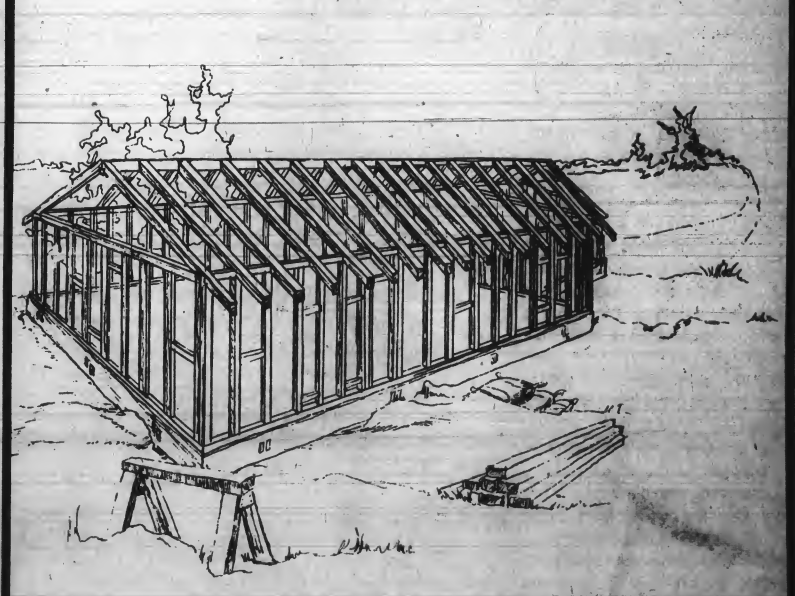

Preparing to raise the flag for the first time over the new Witch Duck Road Post Office is Superintendent L.D. Malbone. The new branch, opened May 21, will serve 40,000 individuals over a 13 square mile area and act as a clearing house for about 30 mail carriers.

The average contribution to CARE last year was $10.25. Largest was a $61,617 legacy.

At Cox An Example Of Youth’s Talent

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell, Ph.D.

Apathy and the candidates

It is difficult to believe that in two weeks the residents of Virginia Beach will go to the polls to elect eleven city councilmen. It is difficult to believe because no one seems interested.

This city is accustomed to election apathy. It has been traditional in the past but the apathy was usually attributed to lack of candidates. Such is certainly not the case in the June 9 councilmatic elections. There are 28 candidates in the running—Democrats, Republicans and Independents. Each of the seven boroughs has at least two candidates competing and one, Boyside, has four. And, in addition, there are 12 candidates running at-large—four Democrats, four Republicans and four Independents.

Virginia Beach is one of the fastest, if not the fastest, growing cities in the state. This growth naturally generates many problems. On the shoulders of eleven city councilmen rest the decisions leading to the solution to these problems. Many demands are placed on the city's leaders. They must be extremely knowledgeable in city government and in the needs of their respective communities. They must have a consuming interest in the city and its people. They must, in fact, be many things to many people.

But, above all, they must put the welfare of Virginia Beach ahead of self.

These are idealistic requirements, admittedly but there must surely be a bit of these virtues in each councilman or the city will not, cannot, continue to progress as it has. It is, after all, they who have the final say in matters extremely important to the development of Virginia Beach.

It is a great responsibility. One which cannot be taken lightly. But this responsibility applies to the voters as well as the candidates.

There have been several forums in various parts of the city in recent days, sponsored by interested groups attempting to get the views of the candidates before the public. The largest group to date was 45 people...slightly less than twice the number of candidates. More people than that will show up at a city council meeting to oppose a proposed townhouse, or support some other action. Where are these people now? Perhaps they are so sure of the qualifications and platforms of the candidates they have already made their choices. This would be commendable, but quite unlikely. Perhaps, then, they would rather sputter oppositions in the limelight at city council meetings than sit in the anonymity of an audience at a political forum.

Apathy is a destructive state of mind...it has destroyed nations; it has destroyed entire societies. It will not Realizing that it has not been customary in the past to review high school productions, it must be stated here and now that this particular show is pointed out as an example of the fine work being done by local schools, the teachers and students. It serves merely as an example, not necessarily as a review, and it is hoped that other schools which have done similarly exceptional plays will understand this intention.

With this understood, Cox High School and its presentation of "Man of La Mancha" becomes representative of all local school productions. . . Princess Anne's "Camelot", Trantwood's "Off To See The Wizard", Boyside's "The Frog Prince", Kempsville Elementary's "Cheaper By The Dozen" and all the others which have gained far too little recognition.

"Man of La Mancha" was more than a school play...it was an experience; a true eye-opener to what today's young people are capable of accomplishing.

The Dale Wasserman musical is an ambitious undertaking for even professional theatrical groups but the Fine Arts Department at Cox tackled it with all the enthusiasm of youth and came up with a memorable production.

If the audience were concerned that the 2 1/2 hour play would be performed without interruption, the opening scenes soon put their concern at ease. It was obvious there would be no boring or restless moments in this production. And intermission would surely have detracted from the mood of the play.

"Man of La Mancha" is a musical within a play and its success rests with the fluid onstage change from a prison during the Spanish Inquisition to the imagined world of Alonso Quixano as he assumes the heroic role of Don Quixote.

Cox accomplished this feat by constructing an elevated stage which extended beyond the regular stage, and by using ingenuity in some of the technicalities of the set. The dungeon gate, for instance, improvised as a headboard in the death scene and the handling of this change was so smooth the audience hardly realized what had happened.

The ominous influence of the Inquisition is injected into the play via an overhead stage leading into the prison. When this stairway lowers the sinister guards and priests either bring someone to await their doom or take one out to face it. This stairway has terrific impact on the overall play and Cox provided it with all the true touches of professionalism... lighting, creaking chains. This was technicality at its best. The music from this play is direction, to perfection.

"Man of La Mancha" played to a standing-room-only house...show other theatrical groups wish they could say the same...and seldom will a cast and crew receive the standing ovation given these young people. Sel-dom is such an ovation earned.

The faculty director, James E. Garrett Jr., and student director, Nancy Owen, along with the faculty vocal director William E. Boyll, and Sharon Rork in charge of settings and Maria Caruana as stage manager and every youngster who took part, deserve the highest praise for such an exceptional piece of work.

Equal praise and commitments to the faculty and students of other schools who have done the same exceptional work. You have brought to the community recognition of the young people who deserve far more praise of their talents than condemnation of their youth. The talent and energy of today's youth cannot be chided to mediocrity. They need challenging outlets...such as "Man of La Mancha."

Letters to the editor

Candidate Supports Art

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:

In reply to this week's survey's "Do you feel City Council should more actively participate financially and officially in the support of fine arts endeavors in Virginia Beach, such as the proposed Art Museum, Little Theatre building, etc?"

My answer is yes!

Every year just about the height of our summer season, we see a tremendous influx of tourists, residents, art critics and art enthusiasts, appear at the beach to view art work displayed from all parts of our country. I am making particular reference to our Boardwalk Art Show, which has been extremely successful each year it has been presented. Which proves there is a great art audience available to patronize an Art Museum.

With reference to the second half of your question, in the past, The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus, while under the sponsorship of the Rotarians, were able to meet the expenses of a Broadway Show production, entertain tourists and residents and have money left over to establish college scholarships for deserving youngsters. Similarly, the Virginia Beach Little Theatre, has for years provided top quality entertainment, and in 1968 the Friends of Music attempted to fulfill the beach's needs and desires for cultural entertainment. The City Council however, refuses to evaluate this tremendous opportunity of revenue to the City.

What would be more delightful than to have an out door amph-theater, where one could listen to music under the stars on a hot summers evening? Norfolk has one and when they put on their Arts Festival they fill it to capacity.

Virginia Beach needs industry, so they keep talking. What would be more practical than to develop our own natural industry, tourism?

Did you ever try to answer the question of a tourist? What is there to do after the sun goes down???

After 3 days of the ocean's water, they're ready to go home, and they usually do.

Mrs. Virginia Opallo

Art Pursued Farther

There is certainly no question about how the citizens of Virginia Beach feel concerning the city supporting the proposed art museum and other fine art endeavors. They are 100 per cent in favor of it. The response was quite rewarding to last week's question: "Do you feel City Council should more actively participate financially and officially in the support of fine arts endeavors in Virginia Beach, such as the proposed Art Museum, Little Theatre building, etc?"

Several letters to the editor were received and a large group of interested readers sent in the questionnaire.

Since this response was so favorable, the question this week pursues the matter further.

Have you ever worked for a political candidate or party in an election? If you have, you have encountered the "I don't want to get involved" type. They don't want a bumper sticker on their car. Oh, they support your candidate 100 percent. BUT don't quote them! Sure, they support every candidate in the race when he comes around. Don't worry, that type, who just can't seem to take a stand or get involved, will be too busy to vote on election day.

What ever happened to the people who founded this great country? They got involved! You bet your life they did. They weren't afraid to stand up for what they believed in.

Where did we go wrong? Was it something we did or didn't do? Somewhere along the lines a lot of backbones were changed into wishbones. What a shame! What a waste! What a danger!

It seems that our society went from a dedicated group willing to fight for what was right to a bunch of social misfits praying not to be recognized or called on to do anything that might in any way involve them in life.

Just try to get people involved in something that does not have 100 percent support of everyone, every group, party or wish have you. They will smile and slip you a dollar or two and wish you good luck but ask that you don't tell anyone they gave it to you.

If someone built an athletic stadium today that had every seat behind a post, how many people who paid good money to get in would complain? They wouldn't want to get involved! Why make a scene?

If the most expensive restaurant in town managed to place every table in the back next to the kitchen, how many customers would put up a fuss? Not many.

Can such an attitude affect the future of our country? Well, you are betting your very life on that. If the world hasn't changed a lot in the last few years, the people who don't want to get involved won't have to worry for long. No sir, some good, kind loving DICTATOR will come along and see to it that they don't have to get involved in anything anymore.

Supports Theatre

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:

As a founder of the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach and an active participant during most of its life I believe that the time has come for the City to join the nation-wide trend and support this group as well as others like it.

For twenty-two years the Little Theatre has made it alone. During the past several years the productions, presented to relatively small audiences have received wide critical acclaim. This is the only "live" theater in Virginia Beach. At this crucial time in its history it finds itself again without a base and without sufficient funds to erect a building. Help is badly needed to help the Little Theatre present its plays to a wider audience in a suitable theater.

In all the related fields as well as in the Little Theatre, citizens of Virginia Beach have been enterprising and dedicated in their efforts to supply the community with music, ballet, art and theater. This is as important to the City as any other single phase of its development. We have in our city government far-sighted men who will surely realize the importance of support for these cultural groups before it is too late.

Mrs. J. W. Sills

Open-Air Concert Set

The largest open-air concert ever to be presented in Virginia Beach will be presented by First Colonial High School on Saturday, May 30 at the school's stadium.

Such popular local bands as Mason, Stone Ghost, Albatross, St. Francis, Headstone, and Ice will be featured. The concert will last from 7:00 to 11:00 Saturday evening and will cost $2.00 admission at the gates. Tickets are also on sale at First Colonial High School, United Attractions, and 107 East 13th Street in Norfolk. All music is furnished by United Attractions, and a very large crowd is expected.

Students load a waiting truck with trash and debris removed from beaches at Sandbridge in "Operation Clean-Up".

Efforts Earn Praise

Nearly 50 students from Plaza Junior High and Kellam High schools spent Saturday morning taking part in "Operation Clean-Up" on the beaches in Sandbridge.

The students volunteered their time to pick up trash, litter and debris from the beaches in the area of the Little Island Recreation Park in a program sponsored by police officers D. R. Divers and W. T. Whitmore.

Working in several small groups the students walked along the beach front for just under three hours and picked up enough trash and litter to fill fifty 20 gallon trash barrels. The trash not only included the usual debris such as paper, beer and soft drink cans, and broken bottles, but unusual items such as a number of dead birds. The trash, after being deposited in the barrels, furnished by the city's department of refuse collection, was transferred to two city owned refuse trucks and hauled away.

Officers Divers and Whitmore, who accompanied the students, had occasion to issue petitions to two young juveniles from Chesapeake for violation of anti-litter laws.

The manner in which the students carried out their task drew compliments from a large number of citizens attracted to the beach by bright sunshine and warm, balmy breezes. The driver of one of the city owned refuse trucks also praised the students for their diligence. He said they remained at their task, working as hard as anyone he has ever seen.

Perhaps the highest compliment to the young people in the manner in which they carried out "Operation Clean-Up" came from a member of the staff employed at the recreation and picnic area to assist those making use of the facility. Looking over the beach as the trash was being placed into the refuse trucks he said, "This beach has never been this clean before!"

Sports Banquet

The Cox Spring Banquet was held last Thursday night. The 107 lettering athletes were recognized, and then guest speaker Mr. Charles "Lefty" Driesell, Head Basketball Coach, University of Maryland, spoke. The Bill McFarland Memorial Award was presented to Keith Sudduth, and the Walter N. Carroll trophy went to Pete Striffler.

Friday was Cox Awards Day. The program was divided into two segments; a junior-senior assembly, and one for the whole school. Scholarships were awarded, and the new SCA officers were installed.

The year is coming to close at Cox, and clubs are winding up their activities in preparation for the summer.

Hobby May Lead To Profession

Most people who hunt like to stuff themselves with what they shoot. Larry Martin likes to shoot what he stuffs.

A student at Kellam High School, 17-year-old Martin took up taxidermy as a hobby about five months ago, and now has ambitions of making the art of stuffing dead animals a profession.

"I live down at the False Cape Hunting Lodge, and there isn't too much to do down there," he said. "I did the first one for my room."

Teaching Martin the art was Romie Waterfield, an uncle who is the taxidermist for the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge. "He spent about four or five hours teaching me what to do. While he was working on one I followed him step by step."

The first bird that Martin worked on was an Old Squaw. Now he's looking anxiously at tame Canadian Geese that live near his home. "I'd love to do one of them," he said.

The other duck that he would like to stuff is the Wood Duck. "I've never killed one much less seen one, but the colors are beautiful," he said.

Thus far, Martin has killed and stuffed a Squaw, black duck, King Rail, Coot, Quail, Mallard, Canvas Back and both red and green headed Mallards.

In addition, he possesses a rare Loon which he found dead on the beach. "It's illegal to shoot them as well as just keep them. If you do find one, you have to get a permit. I'm going to give this one to the Refuge," Martin said.

Each time he begins the four to five-hour process, Martin says there's one thing he looks forward to: "Getting through with it."

Martin, who lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Waterfield Sr., said he drew a negative reaction the first time he started to work. "My grandmother ran me out of the house. She said it smelled too bad."

So Martin retreated to a room in an abandoned house on their property to set up shop.

All of the ducks stuffed thus far were all shot during the season and then put in a freezer, he said. "What you do is take them out about 12 hours before you begin to work on them and let them thaw," he said.

Next, Martin cleans them out and removes any internal organs, including the eyes. The neck is filled with cotton wrapped around coathangers and shaped according to whether the animal is in flight or at rest.

The body is filled with styrofoam and Borax is sprinkled inside to preserve them. The only thing that has to be preserved with formaldehyde are the wings. They are also shaped with coathangers.

The only step left before completion is painting the feet and bill with oil base paint. "They have a tendency to fade unless you do that," Martin said.

The hardest birds to work on are the smaller fowl, he said, because the working space inside the animal is so small.

Although he only has time to work during the weekends, Martin has already built a business out of his unusual hobby. "I charge $15 per bird to preserve them," he said, "and I'm supposed to do some birds this weekend."

Although he has never attempted animals other than ducks, Martin said he'd like to try them.

"I keep looking at the dog, and my grandmother keeps telling me no," Martin said.

Martin checks condition of rare Loon in display.

Best in Show Won by 1st Colonial Student

The "Second Annual Teenage Art Exhibit" at the Village Gallery at College Park has been judged by Sue Seel and Carol Hines of Old Dominion University.

First, second and third place ribbons were awarded in four categories: painting, drawing, sculpture and crafts. Best in show was awarded to Pat Pantalo of First Colonial High School for his works in general and his overall ability as an artist. First place in painting went to Mike Bell of Kempesville; second to Eldridge Rawls of Lake Taylor; and third to David DePrez of Granby.

First place in sculpture was captured by Mark Hatfield from Indian River High School; second went to Mike Bell of Kempesville High; and third to Wayne Edwards and David Barnes of Truitt Jr. High for their combined efforts.

Like Carney of Lake Taylor placed first in crafts, with Edward Sawyer, also of Lake Taylor, second place winner; and Pam Glasgow of Lake Taylor receiving third place. Maury's David Herndon was awarded first place ribbon in drawing while second went to Robert Young of Lake Taylor; and third to Holly Ostrander, also of Lake Taylor.

Honorable mentions went to the following students: Deborah Orem (Granby), Vangle Varelas (Lake Taylor), Ray Phillips (Lake Taylor), Jane Ritter (Lake Taylor), Debbie Walker (First Colonialist), Robert Barber (Northside Jr. High), Wallace Bryant (Kempesville), Aquanetta Spence (Granby), William Davemport (Lake Taylor), Pat Ring (Lake Taylor), and Susan Savage (Lake Taylor Jr. High).

The exhibit will continue through May 31st. The Village Gallery is open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday hours are 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. The Gallery is located at 6226 Providence, within the College Park Information Center, at the intersection of Indian River Rd. and Providence Rd.

Two Cadets To Graduate

Two Virginia Beach cadets will be among the 112 seniors at Hargrave Military Academy at Chatham to receive diplomas Saturday in Owen R. Chestnut Memorial Chapel.

They are Cadet Lt. Raymond G. Robbins and Cadet Donn C. Schacht.

Robbins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Robbins Jr. of 2108 Wolfsware Road and the grandson of Mrs. J.C. Robbins Sr., of White Stone, Va.

He has attended Hargrave for the past three years, is president of the Seaba Diving Club and member of the drill team. He holds the rank of 2nd Lieutenant in the Cadet Corps.

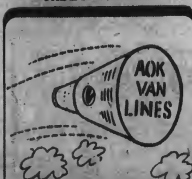

Schacht is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Schacht of 525 Holgate Crescent. He is assigned to A Company in the Cadet Corps.

Virginia Beach To Observe Memorial Day

Special ceremonies at the Veterans Memorial Garden in Rosewood Memorial Park, on Witchduck Road, Sunday, will highlight the Memorial Day observance in Virginia Beach. Maj. Gen. Guy, Virginia Beach representative in the Virginia House of Delegates, will serve as master of ceremonies for the 8 p.m. service. A memorial address will be given by Second District Congressional Representative G. William Whitehurst.

Virginia Beach Mayor Frank A. Dusch, and Adm. Roy Lee Johnson, USNR, are among a number of special guests invited to attend the memorial ceremony.

The ceremony is sponsored by the Tidewater Veterans Association under direction of Association First Vice Pres. Warren Waters, serving as chairman of the Tidewater Veterans Memorial Council program committee for the Memorial Day tribute.

Military units from Fort Story, FAWTC Dam Neck, and the U.S. Army Element School of Music will take part in the program, as well as representatives of regional veterans' and veteran auxiliary's organizations.

Fort Story representatives will also take part in a Memorial Day service at the Woodlawn Memorial Gardens on Virginia Beach Boulevard in Norfolk, during the dedication of the Veterans' Memorial Gardens on the Avenue of Flags. These units will include a military honor guard detachment, firing party, and color guard.

The ceremony will feature the unveiling of "Armed Services Seals" honoring men from each of the five American armed services who lost their lives in world conflicts. Col. Daniel K. Byrne, Fort Story Commanding Officer, will represent the U. S. Army during this ceremony.

Virginia Beach will also be represented in the Memorial Day parade to be held in Portsmouth, by a float constructed by men of Amphibious Construction Battalion 2 at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, a marching unit and color guard from Fort Story, along with a float and color guard from FAWTC Dam Neck.

The Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base will celebrate Memorial Day by inviting the public to attend an open house tour of the Landing Ship Dock USS Fort Snelling.

As a result of Memorial Day occurring on Saturday the legal holiday observance by Virginia Beach City employees will take place on Friday, when all city administration offices will be closed.

The City's Municipal Court and Juvenile Court will not hold a session Friday, nor will the Clerk's Offices of those courts be open.

Although the Virginia Beach Circuit Court will not be in session on Friday as a result of the legal holiday observance, the Circuit Court Clerk's Office will be open as usual.

Virginia ABC Stores will observe the Memorial Day holiday on Saturday, May 30, by remaining closed. They will be open during regularly scheduled hours on Friday.

Two Raids Net Four For Drugs

Virginia Beach police made four more arrests in the resort city last weekend in two separate investigations of violations of narcotic and drug laws.

Investigators said they charged Thomas R. Hazelwood, 24, with possession of narcotics and the sale of narcotics to minors in connection with the alleged discovery of a quantity of opium and hashish, a concentrated form of marijuana, in a residence in the 2500 block of Oceane Avenue last Friday night.

Officials say they also charged Lynn Paul Moore, 19, with possession of stimulants and dangerous drugs following discovery of marijuana and deodorin in the same Oceane Avenue home early last Saturday morning.

Investigators said they charged Allen Hardee, 18, and William Gwaltney, 20, with maintaining a nuisance during an early Sunday morning investigation which led to the reported discovery of a quantity of a drug described as "meth crystals" as well as paraphernalia employed in the use of drugs at a residence in the 100 block of Kentucky Avenue.

Policeman Gets 3rd Bronze Star

Virginia Beach police officer William T. Whitmore, Jr., was awarded the Bronze Star Medal during ceremonies at Fort Story's monthly garrison review citing him for "Meritorious Service" in performance of duty in Vietnam between June 1967 and June 1968 while serving as an Army sergeant with Company A, 1st Battalion (Airborne) 327th Infantry.

This marked the third time Whitmore has received the fourth highest award possible to be awarded American servicemen for actions above and beyond the call of duty.

Whitmore received a Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for valor in October 1967. He was decorated for going to the assistance of a fellow soldier who was wounded during an artillery barrage on his unit at a Vietnamese outpost position. The wounded man fell in an exposed position after being hit by shrapnel. Disregarding his own safety Whitmore ran to the man, administered emergency first aid, and covered the wounded soldier with his own body to protect him until additional assistance could be given to the wounded man.

Whitmore earned his second Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for valor as the result of his actions in Vietnam on January 24, 1968. His citation states he was decorated "for heroism in ground combat structing them to follow him, Whitmore disregarded his own safety as he rushed across open terrain, and received two bullet holes in his outer garments and equipment, narrowly escaping being wounded himself. He continued to drive forward into the face of enemy fire with his actions resulting in flanking of the hostile positions.

Maj. Gen. Howard F. Schiltz congratulates officer William T. Whitmore after awarding him his third Bronze Star Medal.

Whitmore has been a member of the Virginia Beach police department since October 1969 and is currently attached to the 1st Police Precinct.

Maj. Gen. Howard F. Schiltz, Commanding General, Fort Eustis and Fort Story, decorated Whitmore with his "Meritorious Service" Bronze Star during the Garrison review parade ceremonies.

Boy's Body Recovered

The body of James W. Carpenter, of Hobart Street, washed ashore in the 500 block of Atlantic Avenue Sunday morning after he drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming with his family off Croatan Beach.

Police quote James F. Carpenter, father of the 13-year-old boy, with saying younger James was swimming in waist deep water and gave no signs of being in any difficulty. The father said he was wading in shallower water with James' younger brother and sister, and when he turned towards James he had disappeared.

The area was searched for several hours by a helicopter from the Oceana Naval Air Station, a Coast Guard helicopter from Elizabeth City, N.C., and the Coast Guard cutter Point Huron until darkness Saturday night without any trace of the boy. The search was resumed early Sunday and was still in progress when young Carpenter's body was discovered on the beach. The body was found by Timothy Grady of Great Neck Road and Fred Chaney of Arlington, Va.

White Elected

Louis J. White, president of Virginia Beach Chapter 374 of the National Association of Retired Civil Employees, was elected president of the Virginia Federation of Chapters of this organization at the convention held at Bristol, Va.

Theresa W. Rhodes

Mrs. Theresa Helen Wrindt Rhodes, 57, of 5368 Sir Burton Drive, died Friday in a hospital. A native of Springfield, Ill., she lived in Virginia Beach eight years.

She was the wife of Basil R. Rhodes and a daughter of Andrew and Mrs. Catherine Unas Wrindt. She was a member of St. Gregory the Great Catholic Church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Gerald D. Rhodes of Virginia Beach; five brothers, Frank Lesko, John Lesko, Alex Wrindt, Steve Wrindt and Andrew Wrindt of Springfield; and three sisters.

Water Show to Highlight Plans

The Virginia Beach Civic Center got the nod from City Council Monday to proceed with arrangements for the International Water Festival, which will highlight the center's summer program.

City Council approved a use permit to conduct outdoor performances at the civic center at 19th Street and Pacific.

Approval of this permit allows Director Sam Scott to construct bleachers on a portion of the center's parking lot. He told council the bleachers would seat 8,400 persons per performance.

The water show, an open-air show featuring pool and stage acts, is scheduled for 10 performances June 30 through the July 4th weekend.

It is a two-hour musical revue in water and on stage, Scott explained. The shows will be presented at 8:30 p.m. only on June 30 and July 1 but a matinee performance will be added on July 2-3.

The remainder of the summer schedule at the Civic Center is as follows: Sam & Dave Concert, June 6, 7:30 and 10 p.m.; Virginia Annual Conference United Methodist Church, June 6-10; The Grass Roots, June 27, 7:30 and 10 p.m.; Jerry Lee Lewis, 8 & 10:30 p.m.; Custom Auto Show, July 24-26;

Three Will Speak Tues.

Three candidates for Virginia Beach City Council will speak to the Broad Bay Civic League Tuesday at 8 p.m. at All Saints Church on Great Neck Road.

The candidates are Dr. Clarence A. Holland, Democrat, and Harold Heischberger, Republican, both competing for the Bayside seat on council, and Albert D. Newbern, an independent at-large candidate.

Antique Show and Sale, July 30-Aug. 2; Peter Nero, August 15.

SMOKING IS EXPENSIVE

Cigarette smoking gets more expensive by the day.

Cigarette manufacturers have now advised retailers that they, too, are increasing the price of cigarettes about one cent per package.

This word came Wednesday from Clyde L. Davis Jr., vice president of Old Dominion Tobacco Company.

The city has approved a five cents tax increase on each package, effective July 1 with the new 1970-71 budget.

"Recently enacted City Cigarette Tax increase of five cents, plus necessary accompanying sales tax increase, plus this factory increase will provide net increase to consumers of not less than eight cents per package," Davis explained.

8 p.m. only; The Chicago Transit System (musical group), August 20, 7:30 and 10 p.m.; Sadler & Young, August 22 (tentative); The Guess Who (musical group), September 6; Mid-Atlantic Shrine Convention, Sept. 17-20; and Virginia Association of Rescue Squads Convention, Sept. 24-26.

Advance tickets to any of the listed shows may be obtained from the Civic Center, P.O. Box 89, Virginia Beach, or by calling 428-8000.

Questions

the only solution to the city's problems in these areas.

Result: The city needs an enabling act that will allow the City Council a lateral of freedom necessary to assure that adequate land will be available when needed for education or recreation.

Snyder: It is this could be worked out so that the smaller developers would not suffer, then it may be workable.

Battleman New FOPA President

New officers have just been elected to guide the Virginia Beach Fraternal Order of Police Associates during their operation for the next two years.

The new slate of officers consists of Dr. Bernard Battleman, president; Nathaniel Cohen, vice president; John Parker, treasurer; and Edgar Meeks, secretary. Formal installation of the new officers is scheduled for the regular FOPA June meeting.

Dr. C. M. Cornell, Virginia State FOPA President, is expected to travel to Virginia Beach to preside over the installation ceremony, and present the charter to the Virginia Beach FOPA.

Dr. Battleman, during last week's regular FOPA meeting outlined future plans for the Virginia Beach Associates by saying "we want to continue working towards better pay and retirement benefits for Virginia Beach police to coincide with departments in major cities, and to continue to maintain the finest police department in the Tidewater area."

Battleman also said plans have been made to invite guest speakers during regular FOPA meetings to focus attention on continued improvement of conditions for Virginia Beach police officers.

Special tribute was paid to outgoing FOPA President Virginia Wilson, Secretary Lucille Clark for their outstanding contributions to Virginia Beach Associates during the past two years in office by awarding them honorary life memberships in the organization.

It was under their guidance that the FOPA, and with the assistance of James E. Moore, while serving as Chief of Police, that recommendations were outlined for improved pay, retirement and disability benefits for Virginia Beach police officers. These recommendations served as a guideline in a state level study for such benefits.

WEAPONS RANGE--Virginia Beach police officers go "on the line" on the special weapons range in the opening of a revised training program which will give police officers more intensive training with weapons required for use in the performance of their duties. Firearms instructors from the Norfolk FBI Office are assisting the police department's personnel and training division in the stepped-up training program.

Retiring Teachers:

Today's kids are smarter

Three teachers at W.T. Cooke Elementary School who have 100 years teaching experience will retire this year.

One, Miss Louise Hunter, is senior in service of all teachers in Virginia Beach public schools. She has taught 46 and "more than a half" years. The other two are Mrs. Orlan Avett with 44 years and Mrs. Virginia Griggs with 19.

Miss Hunter believes that "children are just as good now as they've ever been—if not better." She now teaches fourth grade.

However, her first classroom was a far cry from the one she occupies at Cooke. She first taught 15 students in grades one through five in a one room school at Wash Woods.

She said that her father drove her there daily in a horse and buggy and "I was scared to death we'd get caught in quick sand." After that she taught at Bayside in what was then a red barn. The building is still there along Independence Blvd. at Lake Smith. She's taught at Cooke for 38 years.

New resident to leave before getting settled

Jerri Ann Jenista of Duke of Suffolk Drive, has been selected by The Experiment in International Living and the Girl Scouts of the USA to live abroad with a family in Spain this summer. Jerri, a senior at Bishop Denis J. O'Connell High School in Arlington, Va., is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. James F. Jenista, Jr. who will move to Virginia Beach in June.

Miss Jenista

The Experiment has been engaged in international educational exchange since its founder, Dr. Donald B. Watt, first introduced a group of American youths to their French and German-speaking counterparts in Switzerland in 1932.

It is now the most well-established program of its type in the world with representatives in more than 60 countries involved in the annual exchange of some 5,000 young men and women between the United States and 100 nations around the globe. The private, non-profit organization maintains its U. S. headquarters in Putney, VT.

Before Jerri arrives in her homestay community abroad, she will join ten other members of her Experiment group for intensive preparation for the adventure ahead. The group, with the assistance of an experienced leader, will discuss the customs and culture of Spain and prepare to meet its people on their own terms.

For one month Jerri and her fellow Experimenters will live with individual families in Spain. This firsthand opportunity to develop friendships, to learn the customs and traditions, and to participate in the activities of the host country from the vantage point of a family environment, is the heart of the Experiment program.

During her last three weeks in Spain, Jerri and her group will invite members of their host families to join them for an extensive travel period throughout Spain. Seeing the host

Mrs. Casey installed for 2nd term

Mrs. Maurice O. Casey, Jr. began her second year as president of the Kempsville Woman's Club at the annual installation luncheon held Tuesday at the Commodore Country Club.

Mrs. W. B. Hughes, president of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach conducted the installation ceremony.

The officers are: Mrs. W.D. Maroulis, 1st vice president, Mrs. F. H. Sumption, 2nd vice president, Mrs. C. A. Bamforth, 3rd vice president, Mrs. John G. Williams, corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. J. Hitt, recording secretary, Mrs. R. E. Dorner, treasurer.

Miss Barbara Garrison, the club's new scholarship recipient from Kempsville High School was a special guest.

Preceding the installation was a performance by the Madrigal Singers from Princess Anne High School.

grade—"the cute age." She's finishing her fourth year at Cooke. She also formerly taught at Everett School.

She is also quick to defend today's children. "I think they're smarter with television. Parents move more too. They know more about the world."

Originally from North, Mrs. Griggs plans to travel somewhat "I want to live in Virginia Beach and enjoy what's here."

"I feel maybe I've gained more than I've contributed," Mrs. Griggs concluded.

Mrs. Avett has been librarian at Cooke since 1965, but she began teaching in the Virginia Beach Schools in 1944. Before that she taught in Buena Vista, Va. for 18 years.

"Children are reading more today—even the boys. Sometime they want to check out five books."

A coin collector, Mrs. Avett plans on returning to Shelby, N.C., her home, and perhaps opening a coin shop. She also raises parakeets and "paints a little."

Residents who date back before the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County merger may remember seeing Mrs. Avett painting the lines on tennis courts as she served as recreation director for the city from 1947-60.

She is a past president of the Virginia Beach Education Association and a life member of the National Educational Association. All three teachers are life members of the PTA.

"I don't feel like retiring because I'll miss the children," said Mrs. Avett—a sentiment quickly echoed by Miss Hunter and Mrs. Griggs.

Are Wedding Bells Ringing?

If you are announcing an engagement or wedding, why not do it in the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN?

Brides are asked to submit their photographs (3x7 or 5x10 glossies) by Monday of the week they want the announcement to appear on Thursday. Wedding and engagement forms are available at the newspaper office, 3108 Pacific Avenue.

All weddings and engagements received will be used. However, photographs will not be returned by mail but may be picked up at the newspaper office.

HANDS winners named

The three top HANDS (Home and Neighborhood Development Sponsors) awards given out by the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs, Inc. Wednesday at the annual Awards Luncheon went to Virginia Beach Garden Club, Point of Woods and Chesapeake Colony Garden Club.

The Virginia Beach Garden Club received a special award for its cleanup of the downtown Beach Borough on Feb. 28.

Chesapeake Colony Garden Club's award was in the new project category and was for the landscaping of the Seateak Community Center.

Point of Wood's award was for their continuing landscaping project at the two entrances to the subdivision.

In addition, Virginia Beach Garden Club received the award for the most outstanding scrapbook, the first time the award has been made.

Other winners included Thalia, second, and Bow Creek, third, in new projects and Bay Colony, second, and Westview, third in continuing projects. Receiving awards of merit were Alanton Trails, Baysboro, Lake Smith Terrace, Lakeside Meadows, May Farm and Princess Anne Plaza.

Nominees to speak

Mid-City Woman's Democratic Club of Virginia Beach will have the 11 Democratic nominees for City Council at their June 3 meet at noon at the White Sands.

Reservations must be made by June 1. Candidates will be limited to three minute talks.

If you have extra webbing...

Need a carryall for summer? Just ask Mrs. Thomas C. Hunter or Mrs. W.A. Green. They're experts on the subject of the popular burlap bags.

The first requisite is burlap furniture webbing. The size of the bag is up to the individual. Mrs. Hunter, however, suggests three basic sizes when she instructs home demonstration groups. For an oblong bag eight strips of webbing are needed: One 15 inches long for the handle, one 33 inches for the ends and bottom and six 12 inch strips sewn together for

'Green Angels' praised for service

"Green Angels" were given a pat on the back, and a number of awards, at the Area V Girl Scout Recognition Luncheon last week at the Commodore Country Club.

Green Angels is the nickname for volunteer Girl Scout leaders. "How great you are," said Mrs. Hugh M. Miller, Area V chairman proudly as she looked over the more than 125 in attendance.

Area V is one of 12 areas making up the Tidewater Council. It is made up of Aragona, Bayside, Diamond Springs and Pembroke and has a total of 1,606 Brownies, Junior and Cadette Scouts.

Guest speaker at the luncheon was Mayor Frank Dusch, who was presented a Girl Scout pin by Mrs. Miller. In return he gave her a Cape Henry lighthouse pin, the city's symbol.

Mayor Dusch called the Girl Scouts "One of the most worthwhile projects of our city."

Among the special guests were Capt. W.M. Hardcastle Jr., commanding officer of the USN Amphibious Base, and George C. Lyon, chief of the Ocean Park Fire Department, who were presented certificates of appreciation.

Candy Gurney, 10, who won first place in the Junior division of a Councilwide poster contest on the theme of "Parent Power", was also a guest and received a certificate from Mrs. M.L. Krischer, Council vice president.

Other special awards were given to Mrs. David Shreeves, director of the Diamond Springs Girl Scout Chorus, and Mrs. L. A. Ashworth, Junior leader in Pembroke Meadows, in addition more than 100 service awards were presented.

Another honorary membership in the Girl Scouts was given to Howard George, first aid instructor with the Davis-Corner Volunteer Fire Department.

The following poem was composed by Mrs. Miller:

THE GREEN ANGEL

I dreamed I went to heaven
And saw among the dead
An Angel dressed in green

George Lyon, chief of the Ocean Park Volunteer Fire Department, receives an Award of Appreciation from Mrs. M.L. Krischer.

With a halo round her head
And she looked kind of funny
Midst all the glaring white
And others asked her jealously
What gave her such a right
I'm just a Girl Scout Leader
I lay no hold to fame
But being such a person
Means more than just a name.
My jobs on earth were many Praises and thanks were few
I did more work in one day
Than ten people ought to do

I was a tin can cooker
A hiker, a pathfinder
I've also been a naturalist
A sailor, a bookbinder
I taught jumping jills to dance
I taught parrots to sing
I made saints out of hoodlums
While mama had her fling
But it was a lot of fun
Life never was a bore
You see, this role isn't new to me
I've been an Angel before!

An elephant or a scarecrow

There's nothing like being informed at the breakfast table, when you've only had time to drink half a cup of coffee that, your nine-year-old needs an elephant costume. Not only that, her brother has to be a scarecrow. Naturally one program is only one night before the other.

Back to the elephant -- the nine-year-old's class is presenting a play based on characters out of books. Unfortunately, the book the nine-year-old picked is about a little boy who finds an elephant in his bathtub.

Well, my first thought was that she should dress up like the boy rather than the elephant. However, that didn't suit her. She had to be an elephant. I asked her just how she expected me to make an elephant costume. She couldn't answer that.

Finally her teacher and I prevailed upon her to make a poster with the elephant on it. She's going to be dressed like a boy -- if I can get all her hair up under a hat.

Teachers must really have their problems. The one in charge of the play commented that one little girl has been so nervous during rehearsals that she closes her eyes as soon as she walks up to the microphone. Another one maintains his poise by fixing his eyes on the red fire alarm switch in the auditorium. And that's without even having an audience around.

Anybody would think that a scarecrow costume would be easy to muster. However, just try to find a straw hat this time of year. Not only that, I couldn't even find any straw to have sticking out of his sleeves.

Fortunately his father dragged in some old gladioli stalks to plant, and they still had last year's leaves on them. The leaves were a lot easier to attach to the inside of his sleeves than the straw would have been.

Now if I can just get them all out of school before the seven-year-old winds up on some kind of program.

To top off everything else, the nine-year-old also informed me that she needs a new Halloween costume. No, I haven't made out my Christmas card list yet.

President gets 'tussy mussy'

The installation of new officers of Bayside Junior Woman's Club centered around flowers and their meanings Saturday at the El Camino.

Mrs. Paul Homsher, junior director of the Tidewater District Federation of the Federation of Women's Clubs and third vice president, said she spent "hours in the library" doing research on the subject. Instead of the traditional corsage presented incoming officers, she gave each a pack of seeds relating to their office for them to plant and grow -- "seeds of potential rather than flowers." She also gave a bouquet of ancient origin called a "tussy mussy" to the new president, Mrs. L. J. Bare, for good luck.

Special honors went to Mrs. Cynthia Carper, who was named outstanding old member, and to Mrs. Bobbie Majette, as outstanding new member. Also given special honors was Mrs. Robert Cromwell, who graduated from junior work.

Happiness is basement

Happiness is a basement for little tykes to play in.

And, according to Mrs. Mildred Payne, extension specialist in Virginia Tech's College of Home Economics, the basement can, with a bit of ingenuity and some imagination, be beautified to become a real haven for the young people, or for the entire family.

"Little folks need a place to play and to do things which might become too messy for Mom's kitchen."

Little boys--and girls--like to build cities and to play school or office. Such games need a lot of space for the cardboard houses, desks and equipment."

On the other hand, little girls--and some boys--like to play house where there is plenty of space for kitchen equipment, doll beds, tea tables and all other imaginary furniture and family situations.

Mrs. Hunter thinks she has completed 30 bags. So far she has taught six clinics. She has been making the bags since she returned from the national home demonstration convention in Blacksburg, Va. two years ago. "They had 6000 bags there," said Mrs. Hunter. "Everybody used the same directions, but there were no two alike."

dry, beautified basement would the children find the facilities most to their liking?

Mrs. Payne reminded, "The kitchen or the family room must be 'picked up' before Dad gets home or the older children come in from school. The luck comes with a basement room to play in can leave all the 'mess' until tomorrow."

Mrs. Payne suggests the basement might also be a retreat for the teen-agers whose music has you climbing the walls.

Mrs. Payne advises taking a good look at the basement. How can it best be converted into a place where each family member can find space for activities which are best set apart from the rest of the home. And do not forget Mom and Pop. They may need the space even more than do the children.

Refurbishing the basement need not be costly. If the walls need finishing there are panelling and cement paint to choose between. The ceiling can easily be soft-tiled to deaden noise. Installing floor tiling is an easy do-it-yourself job.

"Safety features are a must. Children should be safe guarded from the heating and other systems. The stairway to the basement should be well lighted," Mrs. Payne warned.

Celery is dieter's delight

Obviously, millions of Americans are counting calories, for a recent survey shows that sales of manufactured diet and low-calorie foods have passed the $750,000,000 mark; being ten times as great as they were a decade ago.

If all foods known to be naturally low in calories were counted--such as the 272,376,000 stalks of Florida celery consumed last year--the sales of diet foods would jump by a good many additional millions.

Celery has been a happy discovery for many on reducing diets. It has sweet and pleasing flavor, is satisfyingly munchable and has a calorie count as petite as 83 per pound, or 3 for a small inner rib.

During the late fall, winter and spring months Florida grows about half the celery we eat in this country. It's not only the determined dieter's standby, but the centerpiece and decoration of every well-set banquet table.

Regardless of its caloric content, celery is a highly esteemed vegetable and seasoning ingredient, usually a thrifty buy as well. One stalk of celery (meaning the whole plant) gives us outer ribs which are excellent served hot as a vegetable, plus delicate inner ribs or heart, and, as a special bonus, crisp and flavorful leaves which can be used either raw in a salad or cooked in a soup, stew or sauce as a seasoning.

These two recipes for Fruited Chicken and Celery Salad and Celery "Finocchio" are low in calories, but flavorful enough to tempt those who have no weight problems.

FRUITED CHICKEN AND CELERY SALAD

1/2 cup tomato juice
4 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 tsp. chopped parsley
1/4 tsp. finely minced garlic
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. ground black pepper
2 cups sliced Florida celery
2 cups chilled, diced, cooked chicken
2 oranges, peeled and sliced into rings
1 red apple, cored and diced
6 cherry tomatoes, halved
Celery leaves

Prepare salad dressing by combining in a small bowl tomato and lemon juices, onion, parsley, garlic, salt and black pepper. Mix well and chill. Just before serving arrange in a serving bowl clusters of celery, chicken, oranges, apple and tomatoes. Garnish with celery leaves. Serve with chilled salad dressing. Or, if desired, toss vegetables, chicken and fruits with dressing in a large salad bowl. Garnish with celery leaves. Yield: 4 portions, 313 calories/portion.

CELERY "FINOCCHIO"

2 cups boiling water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/2 tsp. onion powder
1/4 tsp. fennel seed, crushed
1/8 tsp. salt
1/16 tsp. ground white pepper
4 cups sliced Florida

In a large skillet combine water, bouillon cubes, onion powder, fennel seed, salt and white pepper; stir until bouillon cubes are dissolved. Add celery. Simmer, uncovered, 8 to 10 minutes, or until celery is crisp tender and most of the liquid has evaporated. Yield: 6 portions, 12 calories/portion.

Kingston
The Kingston Garden Club held its annual spring luncheon today at the home of Mrs. Norman Perry of Oxford Circle.

Exhibit awards were "cornered" by just two people: our retiring president, Mrs. William Perkins, was awarded first prize for artistic exhibits and second prize for horticulture. Mrs. Vincent Gunn won first prize for horticulture and second prize for artistic exhibits.

Mrs. August H. Culpepper installed the new officers: President, Mrs. K. E. Dearman; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Vincent Gunn; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. E. L. Greenwood; Treasurer, Mrs. John P. Torbush; Recording Secretary, Mrs. B. J. Higgins; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Richard Rosche.

Marion Crosby

The Marion Crosby Garden Club met Saturday at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Woodrow Dixon, hostesses with her were Mrs. C. E. McClain, Mrs. Quintin Shelp. The Marion Crosby Garden Club won First State Award for their Fall Flower Show "Table Carousal" held at the Norfolk Botanical Gardens, last November.

The "Eva Caputo Award" for Flower Arranging for the year went to Mrs. Margaret Grigby. She also won Horticulture Award. Runner up, "The Ardith Jones Award," went to Mrs. Dixon.

Mrs. L. M. Caputo, a Charter member of the Club was made an Honorary Member and presented a farewell gift from the members. She is moving to Chicago.

Judges Council

The last meeting of the year for the Tidewater Judges Council met at the Norfolk Botanical Gardens, Monday. It was announced that there are now 11 life judges. The latest is Mrs. S. G. Ireland.

Also welcomed were four new Tidewater Judges, Mrs. L. A. Shinn, Virginia Beach, Mrs. T. J. Gadow and Mrs. John Y. Wright, Norfolk, and Mrs. R. G. Ormsby, Portsmouth.

A gift was presented to Mrs. L. M. Caputo one of our Master Judges leaving the area. There was an excellent program presented to us by three of our top women and judges. Mrs. Dewey C. Heath showed and displayed her lovely peonies; she also told how to grow, display and what to look for in judging. She was followed by Mrs. E. D. Duval, who displayed her lovely Roses, gave the history, how to show and grow. Last, but not least, was Mrs. Robert L. Munn, her specialty being Iris and what beauties! She gave history, told of judging points and growing. A large crowd showed up from Suffolk, Holland, Portsmouth, Newport News, Williamsburg, Norfolk and Virginia Beach.

When you're not like yourself, Lydia Pinkham understands

All of a sudden you might feel you're changing--not a good feeling. You're tired, edgy, out of sorts and that's not you. Lydia Pinkham understands.

A long time ago, when ladies couldn't be as frank as we can today, Lydia Pinkham recognized the problem and set about finding a remedy. She knew it was not natural for women to have to suffer with what was obviously a natural process. So she turned to nature for a remedy. She developed a marvelous compound of medicinal roots and herbs that turned the trick for the women she knew. Because it is a natural answer to your natural problems, it can turn the trick for you, too. Try Lydia Pinkham's root and herb remedy to help you feel better, more like yourself.

Cavalier Jrs. enjoy Peanuts

New officers of the Cavalier Junior Woman's Club were installed at a banquet at the Golden Triangle Friday evening.

Mrs. Walter Harper installed the officers who are: Mrs. Frank S. Adkins, Jr., president; Mrs. Jack Gibson, first vice president; Mrs. H. Leon Ware, second vice president; Mrs. Calvin Carter, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Thomas Parcell, III, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. L.A. Wicks, treasurer.

The club's highest honor, honorary membership, was given to Mrs. William B. Jones. The club also honored their outgoing president, Mrs. James Hutchinson, with a gift of silver and presented her with the year's pressbook.

The club's history for the year was presented in a Peanut skit featuring Mrs. Robert McCall as Charlie Brown, Mrs. Jack Gibson as Snoopy and Mrs. Marvin Brooks as Lucy.

The two graduates from junior club work were presented white roses. They are Mrs. Asa Camp and Mrs. Joseph Watson. Mrs. Watson was also presented a scrapbook of the club's work with screening school children for heart defects. Mrs. Watson was one of

(Editor's note: Here is another in the series on home horticulture by Wesley P. Judkins, extension horticulturist at Virginia Tech.)

Prepare now for colorful chrysanthemums in your garden this fall. Flowers will add beauty to your landscape, and provide abundant blooms for arrangements in the home. They are available when many annual flowers are dead or past their prime.

There is still plenty of time to plant chrysanthemums. Rooted cuttings should be set during late May and until about the third week of June. Your late setting will have a shorter growing season and will develop into smaller plants which need less staking.

Select a well-drained fertile soil for your chrysanthemums. Also, the site should be elevated to reduce the danger from frost in the fall. Full sun is preferred, but the plants will tolerate partial shade.

Broadcast about four pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed area before planting, and work into the top six inches of soil. This will get your mums off to a good start.

Dorm room solves space problems

In an older home with three or more children of the same sex, a dormitory bedroom is a practical solution.

The secret of a dormitory bedroom is organization and privacy for each child, provided by simple and inexpensive panel partitions.

Each cubicle may contain a single bed and chair.

One of the walls can be Peg-Board to serve as a place for clothes on hangers, book shelves, knick-knacks or hobby equipment.

The other, for variety and beauty, can be woodgrained or textured Royalco, a low-cost prefinished hardboard panel that can take hard knocks.

For study, there should be a continuous counter, with Peg-Board dividers separating the youngsters and serving as a handy place for school supplies.

Cabinets below the counter, constructed of lumber and having Royalco doors to match the cubicle walls, will provide storage for each child. Room ends can be devoted to wardrobe closets.

Advantages of the dormitory are companionship, privacy, and development of self-reliance and good study habits under parental guidance. The room, located in an attic or a conversion of a large bedroom, makes good use of existing space.

For free information on paneling used for such an improvement, write the Home Service Bureau, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690 club's work with screening school children for heart defects. Mrs. Watson was one of About six weeks after planting, apply a sidedressing of about two pounds of 5-10-5 per 60 feet of row. Scratch this into the top inch of soil and water thoroughly. This will maintain vigorous growth during the late summer.

Mulch your chrysanthemums with an inch of sawdust, bark or wood chips, or peat moss, to conserve soil moisture and reduce weed growth. Apply water during dry periods. You need to maintain attractive green foliage to produce large healthy flowers.

It is easy to produce fine exhibition type mums. All you need to do is control the number of stems which are allowed to develop. About two weeks after setting your plants pinch out about two inches of the stem tip just above a leaf.

This first pinch will cause two or three side branches to develop. If you allow only these stems to grow, each will have a large flower at the top this fall. If you prefer more blooms, but smaller in size, pinch about an inch from the end of each branch when it is about three inches long. This will result in six or eight stems which will produce fine flowers, but not the extra large exhibition size.

The only other critical operation is disbudding. This should be done in late August and involves the removal of all side buds as they develop along the stem. Leave only the top or terminal bud which will produce the flower this fall. The removal of side buds will allow most of the food materials which are manufactured by the leaves, to be used to form a single large terminal flower.

Be sure to try some of the single, anemone and spoon type chrysanthemums. These have medium size flowers of excellent form which are very useful in arrangements. Also, try some of the small pom-pom, decorative and spoon type which can be grown as sprays.

Phil Uhler and Mrs. Laura Lambe were among the many invited guests who attended the opening of the Sea Horse last week for cocktails and dinner.

Military Wives Club Notes

Reid's Ferry, Pagen Point and Dumlupinar Island were a few of the historic places visited by NWCA Dam Neck #207 on their Rally Picnic held May 24, 1970.

Everyone met at Janaf Shopping Center at 1 p.m. to begin. The object was to follow written directions until you reached your ultimate destination. The instructions were handed out and the fun began when the first car left at 1:15. The finish of the rally was at Chippokes Plantation State Park on the James River. Members then drove to Surry, Va. for picnic lunch. Some of the points of interest were: Wren's Grist Mill, Dismal Swamp, St. Luke's Church, Lower Surry Church and Bacon's Castle.

The Rally Plan was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Mort Dagenkolb.

The regular monthly meeting of NWCA Dam Neck will be held at 9:30 a.m. June 4, in the Special Services Building, Dam Neck.

All guests and prospective members are cordially invited to attend. For further information please contact Mrs. Leonard Wolfe.

Spice Assn. rejects charges

The American Spice Trade Association, meeting for its 63rd annual convention in Phoenix, Ariz., flatly rejected charges by the Consumer's Union that spices are likely to contaminate sausage products.

The independent research organization had reported finding impurities in certain sausage patties and was later quoted as saying that the spices were responsible.

Dr. Richard O'Neill, chairman of the spice association's research committee, stated there is no justification for expecting spices to be the cause of such contamination and that, in fact, it would be virtually impossible to make such a determination.

Dr. O'Neill said that any ingredient in a sausage could be the cause and that it is unfair to point to the spices when other ingredients are used in so much greater quantity. "Spices," he said, "are typically used at levels of less than 1% of the total weight of the sausage."

"Actually," Dr. O'Neill reported, "spices and herbs sold in this country are the cleanest, most wholesome natural seasonings the world has ever known."

"The spices we use today," he explained, "are essentially the same products that people have been enjoying safely for centuries. But, in this country we now put them through a thorough system of inspection, sanitation, analysis and packaging, typical of the best food technology in history."

"It is important for consumers to know," Dr. O'Neill continued, "that the spice industry is putting its products through careful processes of sanitation utilizing the best cleaning techniques for materials of this kind available today."

Dr. O'Neill noted that contamination can occur at many points in food processing. "The spice supplier's responsibility for his products obviously cannot extend beyond the time they leave his plant in a wholesale condition," he said.

"Spices must pass through several other stages of storage, handling and manufacture before they can reach the consumer as part of a food product," Dr. O'Neill stated. "The food industry in the U.S. is doing an excellent job of careful sanitary manufacture and the spice industry, as part of it, equals the standards of all the food processors it serves."

Guide for brides offered

June is just around the corner, the scent of orange blossoms is almost in the air, and she's beginning to get him to think about what's been on her mind all year long: getting married.

But many a young bride has questions about developing the kind of understanding and intimacy she dreams about for her marriage.

That's why a new booklet has been written especially for brides and brides-to-be. "Getting Married" is the newest in the series of booklets for girls and women published by Kimberly-Clark's Life Cycle Center.

It answers the question most often asked by brides and covers such topics as guidelines for the honeymoon and first months of marriage, details on conception, and the importance of a good relationship with a physician.

Vets Get On-Job Training

Some 5,400 veterans are participating in the Veterans Administration's on-job-training programs for policemen and firemen, according to the Roanoke VA Regional Office in Roanoke.

In making that announcement today, the VA said Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson reported last July that some 4,300 veterans were in VA-approved programs of these types at that time. The 5,400 veterans now in training under PL 90-77 in programs that got under way in 1968 include 4,100 policemen and 1,300 firemen. Of that number, 65 policemen and 20 firemen are in training in Virginia.

According to the VA official, the largest on-the-job training programs are in the following states: California, with 845 policemen and 127 firemen; New York, with 556 policemen and 272 firemen; Pennsylvania, 490 policemen and 173 firemen; District of Columbia, 314 policemen, 54 firemen; Connecticut, 293 policemen, 149 firemen; and Missouri, 252 policemen and 61 firemen.

The VA supplements a policeman's or fireman's earnings during his training period, but requires that he be paid at least 50 per cent of the regular salary. A minimum of 85 per cent of the regular wage must be paid the trainee during his last month of training.
